HOOVER SLATES SAVINGS PARLEY FOR TOMORROW

Will Meet House Group to Plan Economy Action.

WHITE HOUSE TALKS HELD WITH LEADERS

Simmons Answers Claim of Byrns That President Is 'Indefinite.'

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Out of an atmosphere charged with partisan recriminations, an agreement was reached yesterday between legislative and executive chiefs to meet in joint conference tomorrow on the all-important question of Federal retrenchment.

President Hoover yesterday accepted overtures of the Democratic House economy committee for cooperative economy action. He suggested a conference tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the White House. Economy Chairman John McDuffie agreed. Thus the way was paved for harmonious bipartisan action, or an outright cleavage on curtailment issues.

Forebodings that all may not be lovely were cast before in a sharp clash on the House floor yesterday between Appropriations Chairman Joseph W. Byrns and Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), Nebraska, minority member of the Byrns committee.

Clash on Hoover Attitude.

Mr. Byrns charged President Hoover with being "indefinite." Mr. Simmons said Democrats only wanted him to be "specific" so they can "have something to kick about."

But there was no evidence of tension in the exchange of notes between White House and Capitol.

"I greatly welcome the response of your committee to my suggestion that the fiscal situation necessitates honest, courageous and nonpartisan action in the development of a national economy program and the preparation of a definite comprehensive bill that will assure its accomplishment," President Hoover wrote Chairman McDuffie, continuing with his invitation to the conference.

Activity at the White House indicated the President may be preparing to present "specific" reorganization proposals at tomorrow's session. Hardly had the economy committee chairman accepted the White House proposal before a number of Cabinet heads and Government officials were called into conference.

Leaders Summoned.

Secretary of the Treasury Mills, Secretary of the Navy Adams, Secretary of War Hurley, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, and James C. Roop, director of the budget, were among those called to the White House.

Mr. Mills made two trips. He confessed he had talked over "a little economy program" with the President. "It is always possible to save 5 cents," remarked Mr. Adams when asked if further Navy cuts are planned. Gen. Hines felt certain that "many millions more" can be saved without alteration of existing laws.

Following the Byrns-Simmons economy clash, Chairman McDuffie informed the House his committee had a "definite economy program" it will shortly report. Five minor re-

Inciting to Riot Laid To 2 in Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Pa., April 7 (A.P.).—Two men who addressed a gathering on the postoffice plaza today were arrested on charges of inciting to riot and unlawful assembly. They are George Poulkrod and George D. Evans. Two National Guard officers complained to police that the speakers were condemning President Hoover and the Government in "inflammatory language."

The speakers, who said they were World War veterans, denied the charges and said they were peacefully advocating immediate payment in full of the veterans' bonus.

Salvador's Recognition Sought by Business Men

San Salvador, El Salvador, April 7 (A.P.).—A statement signed by 50 business men of El Salvador, expressing confidence in the regime of Provisional President Maximilian Martinez, was sent to President Hoover today. The statement said Salvadoreans were "fighting against an economic crisis," and had faith in overcoming it.

(The United States Government has withheld recognition from the administration of President Martinez, which seized power by a coup last December 2, on the ground that it has not been constitutionally reorganized.)

Curtis Gives Post's Essay Prizes Today

Although the Weather Man has warned of possible occasional showers for today, this will not dampen the spirits of 108 boys and girls who will share in the distribution of $1,000 on the steps of the Senate wing of the Capitol at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Vice President Curtis will personally present the highest awards, which were offered by The Washington Post to pupils in public, private or parochial schools of Washington and adjacent Virginia and Maryland, for the most creditable essays on George Washington or episodes in his career.

Because of the possibility that inclement weather or other circumstances might prevent the attendance of some of the boys and girls, it was decided to present the rewards in the form of checks, rather than in gold pieces. It was also considered that there would be less likelihood of the younger children losing a check before they were able to display their rewards to admiring relatives.

Special notices have been sent to prize winners requesting them to meet at the Capitol steps at 4:45 that they may be properly grouped in the order that their names appeared in last Sunday's edition of The Post.

SENATE CHIEFS SEEK EARLY VOTE ON TAX

Fights, Even Barring Those Over Tariff, Due to Delay Bill Until June.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Republican and Democratic leaders yesterday pledged themselves to get the billion-dollar tax increase bill through the Senate as rapidly as possible in order to relieve uncertainty in the business world.

Progress of the bill, however, may be slowed very much by a series of battles to force into it various import tariffs, precedent for which was set by the House when it included embargo import duties on coal and oil.

There will be plenty of heated fights over the purely tax provisions, and, even without the complications of a tariff melee, enactment of the measure is not expected before June. If leaders do not forestall the tariff threat the date of enactment is problematical.

Indication of the determination of the tariff advocates to use the bill to get import duties they could not otherwise get was found at a conference of Democratic senators yesterday. Efforts to bind the histori-

Fire Hurts Capital Pair; Wife Blamed

Former U. S. Employe and Mate Injured in Texas; Plot Is Alleged.

El Paso, Tex., April 7 (A.P.).—Dimitry F. Sinistain, Government research worker, and his wife were burned, the latter perhaps fatally, today in what Sinistain said was an attempt by his wife to end both their lives. Sinistain told officers he awoke at a tourist camp to find the bed in flames and his wife clutching him tightly. He said she resisted his efforts to rescue her. Gasoline had been poured over the bed.

Mrs. Sinistain is 43. Her husband is employed by the Bureau of Animal Husbandry at Washington. He is known for his discovery of parasites called flukes which attack sheep livers, causing death.

Mr. Sinistin was formerly employed by the Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture. He came to Washington about three years ago, and while here lived at 1327 Twelfth street northwest. He severed this conection with the Government about a year ago. Dr. Albert Hassall, of the zoological division, where Sinistin was employed, said his work was particularly brilliant.

4 POWERS FAIL TO AGREE UPON DANUBIAN PLAN

Parley to Adjourn Today and Reconvene Later, Probably in Geneva.

GERMAN AND ITALIAN VIEWS CAUSE SPLIT

Question of $50,000,000 Loan Not Taken Up; Outside Aid Insufficient.

London, April 7 (A.P.).—The four-power conference failed today to agree on a scheme to solve the Danubian economic crisis and tomorrow it will adjourn to resume sessions later, probably at Geneva.

Although the meeting here did not achieve the results hoped for, the opinion expressed by the British delegation was that, viewed in large perspective as one step in the slow progress toward the economic restoration of Europe, a measure of progress was attained.

The possibility of dealing successfully with the central European situation is much greater today, in this view, that it was before Britain, France, Germany and Italy sent their representatives to the conference.

France and Britain Agree.

It was reliably said that France and Britain stood together on the necessity for immediate agreement which would permit the Danubian states themselves to buttress their crumbling economic structures, which one high authority declared were rapidly going to "rack and ruin."

The conference split, however, when the German and Italian representatives found themselves unable to commit their governments to waiving their rights under most-favored-nation clauses in their commercial treaties with the Danubian states. This step had been urged in order to give the afflicted nations freedom to make customs and fiscal arrangements among themselves and thus reestablish normal commerce.

Loan Not Considered.

It was authoritatively said the conference did not consider the question of a $50,000,000 loan to the Danubian states, which include Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Austria, Hungary and Roumania.

The four powers agreed that mere outside help would not suffice to prevent the collapse of some Danubian countries and that the states themselves must reach agreements regarding their future welfare. It is expected that the Danubian nations will be represented in the coming Geneva conference.

Duce Confers in Secret On Reparations, Debt

Rome, Friday, April 8 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini talked for two hours on reparations, disarmament and other urgent problems at a secret session of the grand council of Fascism that lasted until early today. It was known only that the premier's subject was "the internal and international situation," and that the council was convoked to discuss reparations, disarmament and similar problems.

The council, consisting of cabinet members and the heads of the principal government and Fascist organizations, is one of the most powerful bodies in the Italian government.

Reds Stone New York Branch Bank in Cuba

Havana, April 7 (A.P.).—About 40 men carrying red banners stoned the Galiano street branch of the National City Bank of New York here this afternoon, breaking all plate glass in the front of the bank.

Leaving their banners behind them, the demonstrators fled before police reserves arrived. Authorities said they believed the men were Communists. They connected this afternoon's incident with a similar attack on the Ford Motor Co.'s branch here some weeks ago. No arrests were made.

'Melting Pot' Jury Chosen in Honolulu

Five of American Descent, Three Chinese, One Portuguese, One German, One Dane and One Hawaiian Are Named.

Honolulu, April 7 (A.P.).—A representative "melting pot" jury was completed today after four days of legal maneuvering to try Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three Navy men accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawai.

The seesaw tactics of Clarence Darrow, defense attorney, and John C. Kelley, public prosecutor, ended in the acceptance of five men of American descent, three Chinese, one Portuguese, one German, one Dane, and one Hawaiian.

Darrow, who admitted the cosmopolitan complexion of the panel puzzled him for the first time in 54 years of law practice, sought to qualify Caucasians and discard Orientals. Kelley strove to keep Orientals or Hawaiians in the box.

Mrs. Fortescue, well known in Washington and New York society, is on trial with her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., and E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, enlisted men. Kahahawai, the slain Hawaiian, was accused of an attack on Mrs. Massie.

"We accept the jury, your honor," Montgomery Winn, of the defense, finally said to Presiding Judge Charles S. Davis.

Kelley, who a few minutes previously had stated the jury was acceptable, hesitated a moment and then said:

"We accept the jury."

Judge Davis adjourned the trial to Monday when testimony will start.

Cautiously chosen in the round of questioning, excusing, challenging and drawing, during which many men, all citizens of the United States, passed in and out of the box, the jury finally was made up as follows:

Walter Nepoleon, 32, Hawaiian, father of seven children who finished the second year of high school. He is a meat cutter.

Olaf Sorensen, 61, of Danish ancestry, assistant manager of a rail-

BABY SEEKERS SPUR HUNT FOR FLEISCHER

Wild Reports on Lindbergh Child Denied by Police; Butler Accounted For.

Hopewell, N. J., April 7 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and police greeted with silence today the announcement of three Norfolk, Va., intermediaries that the colonel had asked them to continue their efforts to recover his kidnaped son.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, State police head, disclosed the Nation-wide hunt for Harry Fleischer, a known kidnaper, had been intensified by reports he had been seen several times under suspicious circumstances since the Lindbergh baby was stolen from his crib.

"Investigators have followed each of these leads," the police bulletin said, "and are still working on them."

The rest of the bulletins contained only the usual daily grist of denials concerning the wild reports that continue to fill the air of the Sourland countryside, and the statement:

"Wheatley is out getting a haircut."

This was in reply to a question raised when the Lindberghs' butler, Ollie Wheatley, was reported to have left the estate on a mysterious mission.

In his 9 p. m. bulletin, Col. Schwarzkopf said Maj. Schoeffel, who is in England on an unexplained investigation trip, "has not yet finished his mission abroad, and he does not plan to return until finished."

Barkley to Come Here For Week-End Talks

Paducah, Ky., April 7 (A.P.).—United States Senator Alben W. Barkley, who has been selected as temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention, is expected to be in Washington from Saturday to Monday to discuss with party leaders the issues to be "keynoted" in Chicago.

Snitz Edwards, 70, Film Actor, Is Dangerously Ill

Cherry Blossoms Beginning to Show

Full Display of Blooms Seen by Tomorrow If Good Weather Holds.

Pink and white cherry blossom buds began to spangle the thick foliage fringing the Tidal Basin yesterday and prediction was made last night that by tomorrow—if the balmy weather keeps up—Washington's Nipponese garden will again be with us.

Park officials were confident that the blossoms would make a handsome showing from tomorrow on through the season. Arrangements were begun to handle the heavy traffic that throngs Potomac Park when the blooming of the Japanese trees is at its peak.

Officials said that with present weather conditions the blossoms would be at their best by the middle of next week. Strong winds or a drop in temperature would delay or possibly wreck the blossom display, it was said.

HOUSE UNIT BACKS TRACTION MERGER

Bill Reported Favorably at Night Session Contains Only 2 Amendments.

The House District committee last night agreed to report favorably the traction merger bill with only two amendments—excluding the street car companies from operation of taxicabs and requiring a majority of District residents on the merged company's board.

The reported bill, almost identical with the one originally submitted by the Public Utilities Commission, contrasts with a Senate consolidation bill containing 68 amendments, reported last week.

The vote was taken in executive session, after abrupt secondary hearings in which the Public Utilities Commission order requiring taxicab installation of meters was confused with the merger issue. Only one member, Lynn S. Hornor (Democrat), West Virginia, voted against the bill.

Despite urgent last-minute pleas for universal free transfers and a repeal clause similar to that provided by the Senate, made by William McK. Clayton, utilities chairman of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and Evan H. Tucker, president of the Northeast Citizens Associations, the approved bill embraced no such amendments.

As reported, the bill saddles street paving costs formerly borne by the traction companies almost entirely on the District, which sum, with payment of crossing policemen provided, amounts to approximately $350,000. The District Commissioners vigorously protested bearing all of the paving burden.

The amendment excluding the street car companies from taxicab op-

Cumming Contracts Influenza on Vessel

Plymouth, Eng., April 7 (A.P.).—Hugh S. Cumming, director of the United States Public Health Service, contracted influenza on the way here aboard the steamer President Roosevelt, it was learned when the vessel arrived.

He did not come ashore, as he had intended to do, but went on with the ship to recuperate in Southern France.

Cab Driver Is Shot And Robbed of $12

Bandits Critically Wound Victim and Escape in His Taxi.

A taxicab driver was shot down by two bandits last night after they had robbed him of $12. One of the robbers fired a bullet into his chest and both drove away in his cab, leaving the victim lying critically wounded by the roadside.

The shooting and robbery victim was discovered by Mike Seal, of Seat Pleasant, and brought to Casualty Hospital. He is John H. Coe, 22 years old, of 943 D street southeast.

Coe's cab was taken at Seventh and P streets northwest by two colored men who ordered him to drive to Seat Pleasant. When the cab neared Seat Pleasant one of the men produced a pistol and ordered him to turn over his money. After taking the $12 the armed bandit fired a bullet into his chest and the pair drove away.

ARMS CUT SEEN AS U. S. DECREE ON DEBT PARING

Demand May Grow From Hasty Visit of Borah to Stimson.

PRINCIPALS RETICENT ON ISSUES DISCUSSED

Various Points of Disarmament Parley Taken Up in Half-Hour Session.

BY HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Reduction of European armament as a preliminary condition for American reduction of intergovernmental debts was seen here yesterday as a possible outcome of the surprise visit of Senator William E. Borah to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

The chairman of the foreign relations committee paid an unheralded call yesterday to the Secretary of State on the eve of Col. Stimson's departure for Geneva, where he will take over active direction of the American delegation to the General Disarmament Conference.

It was admitted in the Department of State that the conversation between the Secretary and the senator had revolved about the disarmament meeting. They discussed for more than a half hour various points in that situation.

Reticent Over Details.

Neither the senator from Idaho nor attaches at the department would discuss the tenor of the conversations that took place in the Secretary's private office. However, it was recalled that some time ago, Senator Borah had made the following public statement, which had a remarkable bearing on the Stimson-Borah meeting yesterday. The senator said:

"I am perfectly willing to consider the cancellation of our war debts, but it must be in connection with, and as a part of, a real program of rebuilding Europe economically and politically. So long as Europe continues to arm there can be no economic recovery."

"Cancellation of debts, without a Europe released from the thralldom of armaments, might help a few engaged in certain lines of securities, but it would not bring about relief to the masses of Europe, nor open any markets of permanent value to the American manufacturer or farmer."

Opposition Halts Europe.

Opposition of Congress on the debt question has hitherto discouraged many European nations in their hopes of economic progress. Many of them, notably the central European nations, have been brought to the brink of defaulting even on their private debts

Mellon Remains Aboard Liner at Southampton

Southampton, April 7 (A.P.).—Andrew W. Mellon, new American Ambassador to Great Britain, arrived here tonight aboard the liner Majestic. He decided to spend the night on the ship.

So far as weather was concerned, the new ambassador received a wild welcome. The wind howled, the sea raged and rain came down in torrents. Mr. Mellon had nothing to say except that he was feeling well, had enjoyed a pleasant trip and intended going to London tomorrow.

ECUADOR IN REVOLT AS PLAZA RETURNS

Entire Navy of Two Gunboats Rebels as Exiled Former President Lands.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, April 7 (A.P.).—Ecuador's entire navy, consisting of two gunboats, mutinied today in an effort to prevent the homecoming of Gen. Leonidas Plaza Gutierres, twice president and former Minister to the United States, who was exiled in 1925.

At the same time a group of 100 rebels seized Fort Punta Piedra, where they surprised the garrison after they had been mistaken for government troops.

The disturbance took on an international complexion when a party of the insurrectionists, en route to the fort, captured the oil tanker Busaro, the property of an English company.

All these activities failed to prevent Gen. Plaza from landing. He disembarked with his family, had lunch at one of the hotels, and then returned unmolested to his ship, apparently intending to proceed to Duran to entrain for Quito.

The day's turmoil was increased by a clash between police and a mob of unemployed, who attacked workers engaged in loading agricultural products on ships in the river, and by dispatches from Quito, the capital, telling of the discovery by the government of a political conspiracy by the same faction that started an abortive revolt at Tulcan about two months ago.

The naval mutineers aboard the gunboats Cotopaxi and Tarqui hoisted anchor and steamed out of port as soon as they learned that the general planned to come ashore here. Shortly thereafter the government loaded marines aboard the steamer

Human Finger Sent Banker as Warning

Cleveland Man Ordered to Pay $3,000 to Extortionists at Once.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 7 (A.P.).—An index finger, hacked from a human hand, was disclosed tonight to have been sent to a wealthy and prominent Cleveland man as a grisly warning from extortionists against delay in meeting a demand for $2,000. The act was directed against John B. Wilberding, business, political and sporting figure.

"Because you have gone to police, as you were told not to do, you have been fined $1,000 and will pay $3,000 in small bills to the messenger as instructed in the first letter," said a note accompanying the grewsome object, received Saturday.

Police of Cleveland Heights, who are handling the case, said it would not be determined if the finger was severed from a dead or living body until after examination by experts at Western Reserve University.

CABINET FALLS AS BANK MEETS CRISIS IN CHILE

Martial Law Asked After Run on Reserve House Alarms Nation.

PEOPLE IN STAMPEDE TO GET SILVER COINS

Chamber Opposes President on Method of Stabilizing Country's Money.

Santiago, Chile, April 7 (U.P.).—The proposal of martial law throughout Chile because of the economic and political crisis was passed late tonight by the Senate, 17 to 13. The measure was then sent immediately to the Chamber of Deputies, where favorable action was expected before the night was over.

Santiago, Chile, April 7 (A.P.).—A serious run on the Central Bank of Chile culminated today in the resignation of the cabinet of President Juan E. Montero, followed by a defeat of his administration in the Chamber of Deputies on the method of solving the nation's monetary troubles.

President Montero appointed Victor Robles, former member of the Chamber and one of his close advisers in the Radical party, to form a new cabinet as premier and minister of the interior.

He also asked Congress to proclaim martial law throughout Chile to avert possible disturbances growing out of the public's fears for the stability of the country's monetary system, as manifested in the bank run.

Approval Is Expected.

If either House of Congress failed to support the martial law proposal, President Montero's administration might fall, but it was assumed in unofficial quarters that the measure would be approved.

Despite a personal plea by the new premier, the chamber tonight voted against the government's suggestion as to the method to be used in the pending peso devalorization bill to set the daily value of Chile's depreciated currency.

The chamber declined to override Senate changes in the bill which were not to Montero's liking. The bill, after the chamber voted upon it, was to return to the Senate tomorrow for final drafting, but defeat of its main section tonight indicated the president might take drastic steps in what was admittedly a grave political situation.

Two Asked to Keep Posts.

The sudden psychological effect of the all-day run on the Central Bank brought about the fall of the ministry in the afternoon and the subsequent drafting by Montero of Robles to head a new one.

Of the old cabinet the president

Man Says Mrs. Willebrant Reads Alleged Lewd Paper

The second day's session of the trial of Frank Amato, charged with offering for sale an indecent publication, yesterday came to an end with both the Government, represented by Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keough and S. McComas Hawken, representing Amato, concluding the presentation of their evidence.

When Judge Isaac R. Hitt adjourned court last night, prayers that had been offered by Mr. Hawken had been debated by both the defense and the court, and today the arguments of counsel will be the first order.

Norman Anthony, editor of the publication, was the chief defense witness yesterday. He said that the many "artists" whose work appeared in the periodical were well and favorably known. He added that several of them were regular contributors to national monthlies.

Among those, he said, who were regular subscribers to the magazine were Mabel Walker Willebrandt, the Metropolitan Club and George Ade, nationally known humorist.

Amato, charged with offering the publication for sale, testified that he

Hawks, Speed Flier, Hurt In Massachusetts Crash

Injuries Will Confine Him to Hospital for Several Weeks; Accident Followed Speech Warning Against Unsafe Planes; Blames Blemish.

Worcester, Mass., April 7 (U.P.).—Capt. Frank M. Hawks, renowned speed flier, cracked up today in an attempted take-off from Worcester Airport at North Grafton, a few hours after he had made a speech before Boy Scouts warning them against any but "fool-proof" airplanes.

Hawks suffered injuries which will confine him to City Hospital at least five or six weeks, physicians said. The flier's name was not on the danger list and his condition was described by Dr. Ernest L. Hunt as fair.

Dr. Hunt summarized Hawks' injuries as follows: Lower jaw fractured in two places; fractured nose; several teeth knocked out; multiple lacerated wounds of face; gasoline burns on shoulder and right arm.

"Capt." Hawks is very uncomfortable," Dr. Hunt said, "but his condition at present is not critical. As yet no dangerous aspects have developed, although there is of course a possibility that an infection may develop because of the dirt driven into the wounds of his face. He will be confined to the hospital five or six weeks at least."

Hawks was unconscious when extricated from the wreckage of his

$5,000,000 IS VOTED TO AID STORM AREAS

Senate Proposes Ten-Year Loans to Victims in Southern States.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday voted, 40 to 17, to lend $5,000,000 of Federal money to unfortunate residents of Southern States recently smitten by terrific storms.

The resolution, sponsored by Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, now goes to the House. It authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to lend up to $5,000 each to residents of the stricken areas of Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and Kentucky to assist them in rehabilitation.

Favorable action followed three hours of debate during which Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, and other administration Republicans opposed the measure on the ground it would set a bad precedent and increase the Treasury deficit. Senator Black, supported by Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, refused to allow the issue to be put over to another day.

Mississippi Is Eliminated.

Mississippi was eliminated from the benefits of the measure at the request of Senator Harrison, of that State, who explained it was affected but little by the tornado which struck on the night of March 21.

The resolution was vigorously opposed by a senator from one of the States which would benefit—Logan, of Kentucky. He asserted that Kentucky and other States also are able to take care of their own."

Senator Logan remarked that residents of his State would "take this money gladly if we give it to them," and predicted they would "raise considerable Cain" with him for opposing it, but held it is "time to have courage to say to the States that they can not come to the Federal Government every time they have a storm."

Senator Black denied his State is able to provide the needed relief.

"If the Legislature should be called into session," he said, "I think I can safely state that it would be practically impossible, with the method of taxation they have, to begin to meet the situation."

Destruction in Alabama.

He estimated the destruction in Alabama at $4,000,000 to $5,000,000, and told the senators that, "due to the widespread destitution and the collapse of credit, the stricken areas can not supply the credit necessary to rebuild."

Senator Fess denied a charge by Senator Black that an attempt was being made to filibuster against the measure.

"This is the time to make a test of whether we are going on indefinitely with appropriations from the Federal Treasury," he said.

Senators Kean (Republican), New Jersey, and Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, opposed the resolution on similar grounds.

Senator Black in reply argued that if $500,000,000 could be appropriated to create the Reconstruction Corporation, the Treasury could spare $5,000,000 for helping tornado victims.

Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, supported him and Senator Norris, in opposing an attempt to have the measure sidetracked, said "everybody knows a catastrophe like that can not be taken care of by the States."

Loans for Ten Years.

Loans under the measure are to be for ten years with 5 per cent interest beginning at the fourth year.

Chairman Jones, of the House agriculture committee, said that as soon as the bill comes to the House and is referred formally to his committee he will discuss a hearing date with members of the Alabama delegation.

Chairman Jones declined to state his attitude toward the bill pending an opportunity to study its provisions more carefully.

When newspapermen asked Senator Black why Tennessee was not included in his resolution, he replied that at the time it was drawn up, it was not known any great damage had been done in that State.

Connecticut Picks Hoover Delegates

State G. O. P. Expected to Favor Wet Plank at Chicago.

Hartford, Conn., April 7 (A.P.).—Nineteen Connecticut delegates, unfettered by pledges, will vote for the renomination of President Hoover at the Republican National Convention.

The State convention which chose the delegates today followed tradition in giving them no instructions either as to candidates or platform, but party leaders agreed that Mr. Hoover would be supported unanimously. The group also is expected to favor an antiprohibition plank in the Republican platform, with Senator Hiram Bingham, an advocate of repealing the eighteenth amendment as the probable Connecticut member of the platform committee.

The delegation was chosen in a harmonious half hour session, marred only by a brief attempt of G. W. Hull, of Burlington, only insurgent member of the convention, to urge the election of men and women "who represent the policies of our party."

MINE RELIEF OFFICE RAIDED IN KNOXVILLE

Note Stamped With Red Hand and Signed "Silent Hand" Left at Scene.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 7 (U.P.).—A house used as an office by Alice Russell and Ruth Decker, organizers conducting relief for striking Kentucky coal miners in behalf of the National Miners Union, was raided by a group of unidentified men tonight.

The furnishings and two typewriters and a mimeograph machine were destroyed by the intruders.

The party drove up just after dark, and entered the residence through a broken window. The intruders soon reappeared with two typewriters, a mimeograph machine, a scrapbook containing newspaper clippings relating to communistic activities here, and some alleged "red" posters.

The typewriters and mimeograph were battered and left in a grotesque pile in the street in front of the house. Police riot squads arriving later were unable to obtain any identification of the raiders from neighbors in the vicinity. The house was not occupied at night.

The raid tonight was considered by some observers to be a fulfillment of threats made upon the landlord of the house, M. Roy Hubbs, last night, by more than a score of white-capped, masked men who visited him at his home in another section of Knoxville.

They left with him a typewritten note addressed to "The Communist Party in Knoxville" which said:

"We, as red-blooded Americans and true believers in Christianity, would have you know that your road will be full of sharp stones from now on." It was stamped with a red hand beside a signature reading "The Silent Hand."

Hubbs said today that while he is not in sympathy with Communist movements, he would permit no interference with his affairs since, as a taxpayer, he had a right to rent his property to whomever he pleased. He hinted he "would be ready for them."

Columbia Again Quiet But Protests Continue

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Riots ceased on the Columbia campus today, egg stains were cleaned off the gilt statue "Alma Mater," students went back to classes, a few bearing marks of fracases, but protests continued against expulsion of Reed Harris, editor of the college daily, the Spectator.

Harris remained expelled, following upon his editorial charges the dining hall was run for personal profit, but the Spectator editorially claimed "victory" for a free press. "But further rioting on the campus," it stated, "can at best be only anticlimactical. * * * whether or not the battle will be carried on in the courts is another matter."

Traveler Lost 4 Months Emerges From Desert

Jiddah, The Hedjaz, April 7 (A.P.). St. John Philby, British traveler and Arabian authority, has arrived at Mecca after successfully crossing the trackless deserts of Arabia's Rub' Al Khali, or "Empty Quarter," in which he was swallowed for nearly four months. With his party he left the Province of Hasa, on the east coast, in January to cross the desert, and nothing was heard from him until today.

The east-to-west crossing of this barren tract, inhabited by wild and fanatic nomadic tribes and scorched by the sun, is about twice the distance and a much more arduous achievement than the south-to-north crossing by Bertram Thomas a year ago.

Million Legionnaires To Join in Air Program

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 7 (A.P.).—A program in which 10,400 American Legion posts and more than 1,000,000 legionnaires will participate by radio April 18 was announced today by Henry L. Stevens, national commander.

Mme. Schumann-Heink and other artists will be invited to take part. The meeting will be held between 10 and 11 p. m., Eastern standard time. Addresses will be broadcast by Commander Stevens and other legion leaders.

Breckinridge Is Named Quantico School Head

Brig. Gen. James C. Breckinridge, Marine Corps, of Knoxville, Tenn., yesterday was designated commandant of Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

Gen. Breckinridge is now en route from Peiping, China, where he was commander of the American Legation Marine detachment.

British Rector's Trial Is Postponed to May 19

London, April 7 (U.P.).—The trial of the Rev. Harold F. Davidson, rector of Stiffkey, on charges of immorality, was adjourned today until May 19, because of a shortage of defense funds.

LEADERS IN SENATE PLEDGE EARLIEST POSSIBLE TAX VOTE

cally antitariff party against the inclusion of tariff items were not successful.

They want their tariffs and are determined to get them and there were various reports of tentative offers of combinations and trades and log-rolling about the Senate. It is these mutual back-scratching agreements that those opposed to tariff amendments fear may disrupt the hoped-for bipartisan passage of the bill on schedule.

Senators from the oil producing States are determined that the oil tariff shall be kept in the bill, and they are relatively much stronger than were the oil tariff advocates in the House, the membership of which is based on population, giving Eastern States many more votes than the less settled Western States. Although Arizona has only one representative in the House, it has two in the Senate, just as many as have New York and the other States. Indications are that the oil tariff will be kept in the bill.

Other tariffs which have been demanded include duties on imports of copper, lumber, wood pulp and there has even been a suggestion that something ought to be done about depreciated silver.

Senator Henry F. Ashurst (Democrat), of Arizona, told his party conference that the copper situation is desperate and the support of an import duty must be given it. Senator Carl Hayden (Democrat), of Arizona, already has introduced copper tariff measures and has announced the proposal has the support of several other Westerners. There is considerable sentiment in favor of the copper proposal and even among those opposed to any tariffs in the bill it is admitted it has a chance of approval.

Senator Clarence C. Dill (Democrat), of Washington, said in substance that if the tax bill was going to carry tariffs he wanted a tariff to help the wood pulp business, although he agreed that perhaps the bill should not include any tariffs.

Senator Wesley Jones (Republican), of Washington, also wants some protection for the lumber business and Senator Frederick Steiwer (Republican), of Oregon, introduced amendments calling for duties on lumber, pulpwoods and various other woods.

Walsh to Continue Fight.

Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts, who is a leader in the fight to bar tariffs from the bill, will continue the fight in another meeting of the Democrats which Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, floor leader, is to call early next week.

Senator Millard Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, estimated that between two-thirds and three-fourths of the Democrats at the conference yesterday were opposed to tariff amendments.

"Many of the members, including the chairman, expressed the thought that proposals affecting the tariff should be dealt with separately," Senator Robinson said. "This phase of the matter, it is expected, will be resumed at the next meeting."

One question seemed to have been pretty well settled during the day. The manufacturers' sales tax which was beaten in the House and given scant attention before the finance committee Wednesday by Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, seemed definitely dead.

Regarded as Dead.

"There was no proposal in the conference to revert to the subject of a general sales tax," Senator Robinson said in a statement made public after the Democratic conference. "Apparently the action of the House on the subject was regarded as conclusive."

At the hearing held by the finance committee the tax was given another slap when Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, told M. L. Seidman, of New York, representing the New York Board of Trade, he "might just as well forget" about it, when the witness advocated its substitution for other taxes in the bill.

Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), of Texas, a member of the finance committee, served notice that he intended to propose an amendment providing for a graduated increase in the surtaxes on higher incomes. The House bill maximum is 40 per cent on incomes over $100,000. Senator Connally contemplates something like an increase of an additional 1 per cent surtax for each $100,000 increase in income until a maximum of 50 per cent is reached. The step-ups have not been decided on, however, and it is likely that the maximum tax would not be levied on incomes of less than $2,000,000.

Statements of the leaders of both parties pledging speed in passing a budget-balancing bill were issued after receipt of reports of continued fear and uncertainty in business.

Smoot Urges Early Action.

Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, hoped the bill would become a law "at the very earliest possible date," and urged representatives of industries not to string the hearings out.

"The finance committee," Chairman Smoot said, "wants all individuals desiring to be heard on the tax bill to be here as soon as possible. We want no delay in the hearings and we want no delay after it reaches the Senate. It is the hope it will become law at the very earliest possible date.

"Wherever a number of witnesses on the same subject want to be heard the committee desires as far as possible that the industries agree on one witness to present the case.

"In that case the committee will have better chance to ask questions and the testimony will be more complete and to the point than if we had a dozen witnesses on one subject.

"We want to give every industry a chance, but we don't want to string this bill out. The sooner it is enacted the better. Delay means uncertainty to business."

No Unnecessary Delay.

"There will be no necessary delay in consideration of the tax bill," Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, ranking minority member of the finance committee, said. "The finance committee has set the time to hear witnesses on each of the items on which increases were made in the House bill. We hope to finish hearings by April 22 and the bill will be reported out as early as possible after that date.

"There will, of course, be differences of views as to the details, but I have not the slightest doubt but that the bill when whipped into final form will balance the budget and give confidence in the preservation of Government securities and Government credit."

"The general opinion seems to be that the revenue bill should be acted upon as promptly as may be consistent with full deliberation," Senator Robinson said. "It was announced by Senator Harrison that when tentative arrangements on the part of the finance committee are in prospect they will be reported to the conference for further discussion. It is not contemplated that partisan action shall be taken, the design being to give the finance committee the benefit of the thoughts of members of the conference and to secure for the conference full information as action in the committee progresses."

Three Witnesses Heard.

Three witnesses were heard by the finance committee. Mr. Seidman opposed the limitation of deductions for losses, asked that the tax on bond transfers be eliminated, and that the stock transfer tax be made 4 cents a share, eliminating the one-quarter of 1 per cent on selling price put in the bill by the House.

J. R. Elliott, of Kansas City, president of the National Sporting Goods Distributors Association, opposed the 10 per cent tax on sporting goods, saying that it meant a tax on the healthy development of the youth of the Nation.

Benjamin C. Marsh, representing the People's Lobby, urged higher income taxes than in the House bill and proposed a maximum estate tax of 75 per cent on estates of $10,000,000 and more. Mr. Marsh urged taxation of all securities, contending that too much wealth had been put into tax-exempt securities in order to escape taxation.

The committee will resume hearings on Monday when it will begin consideration of income taxes.

Alcohol Plot Charges Dropped in Baltimore

Baltimore, April 7 (A.P.).—On advice of G. A. Youngquist, Assistant Attorney General at Washington, a nolle prosequi was filed today by United States District Attorney Simon E. Sobeloff in Federal Court in the case of three corporations and ten individuals, who had been charged with conspiracy to convert industrial alcohol into beverage channels.

The defendants named are the Amazon Industrial Chemical Corporation, the Filben Chemical Co. and the Agricultural Chemical Works, William S. Hatton, Harry Senior, Gracento Soresi, George Bernstein, Joseph Jenkins, Frederick Sini, Enno Ferretti, Benjamin Freedman, Michael Steinberg, David Scharlon and Al Jaffe. Jaffe is reported to have died before his case was called in court.

Prof. Emerson, Noted Geologist, Dies at 87

Amherst, Mass., April 7 (A.P.).—Prof. Benjamin K. Emerson, 87, noted geologist, formerly a member of the faculty of Amherst College, died today.

From 1870 to 1872 Dr. Emerson was instructor in geology at Amherst College and from 1879 to 1917 he was professor of geology and minerology. He had been professor emeritous since the latter date. He also was professor of geology and minerology at Smith College from 1878 to 1912. He was assistant geologist of the United States Geological Survey from 1890 to 1896 and geologist in 1896. He was president of the Geological Society of America in 1899 and 1900.

Tramp Is Acquitted In Death of Coed

El Dorado, Ark., April 7 (A.P.).—A circuit court jury today acquitted Irvin Eddington, 38, a tramp, of a charge of murder in the death of Miss Jackie Ruth Youngblood, pretty coed, at Magnolia A. and M. College, who died beneath the wheels of a train near here March 25. The jury deliberated 20 minutes.

The tramp's defense was built on a contention the girl committed suicide, that Eddington's mentality nullified the worth of a confession, and that he was in Winfield, La., at the time. The suicide theory advanced by Coroner T. E. Barton soon after the girl's death, was strengthened by testimony of W. G. Carter, fireman of the train that killed her. He said he believed she jumped, and was not thrown, in the path of the train.

BRAZIL VOTES FOOD TO STARVING TRIBES

Drought Stricken Indians Flock to Cities for Aid; Game Disappears.

Bahia, Brazil, April 7 (A.P.).—The recent drought in the northeastern states has caused the federal government at Rio de Janeiro to appropriate funds for food relief, a development which has driven many Indians into towns and cities for aid.

A number of them from the Canella tribe, which numbers 500 persons, arrived here and told their story of famine through an interpreter.

Their beans and rice died from want of moisture, the fish in the streams disappeared as the streams fell, and even wild animals upon which they depended somewhat for food disappeared, they said. The people of the tribe scattered in various directions in search of food.

Only a few days ago there was news from Natal in Rio Grande do Norte that 300 starving persons rushed the open market in the town of Mossoro and sacked it of all foodstuffs.

Sanchez Cerro May Be General.

Lima, Peru, April 7 (U.P.).—Advancement of Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, president of the republic, to the rank of full general in the Peruvian army "for his merits as military liberator of the country from the dictatorship of President Augusto B. Leguia" has been proposed in Congress by Deputy Jose Matias Manzanilla. President Sanchez Cerro last month was made a colonel. Reports from Miraflores Hospital, where the president is recovering from wounds received in an assassination attempt on March 6, said he would return to the palace this week to resume his duties as chief executive.

Bolivia Restricts Imports.

La Paz, Bolivia, April 7 (A.P.).—The Central Bank of Bolivia has announced that under its new system for control of foreign exchange only articles "absolutely necessary for the national life, preferably the cheapest possible," would be allowed to be imported. Bolivia has fixed a quota of 20,000 tons for the exportation of tin, which, with other small exports, is expected to bring in 25,000,000 bolivianos (about $9,000,000). This will be applied toward paying for imports valued at 30,000,000 bolivianos.

20,000 Sacks of Coffee Burn Daily.

Sao Paulo, April 7 (A.P.).—To rid warehouses as quickly as possible of 12,000,000 sacks of coffee destined for destruction, a transportation agreement between the National Coffee Council and Sao Paulo Railway has been reached. Under the contract, 20,000 sacks of coffee will be taken from warehouses here each day and transported to a locality near Santos to be burned. Total coffee destroyed in this state and in other centers had reached 3,825,472 sacks on March 19.

Cuban Export Balance Favorable.

Havana, April 7 (A.P.).—Cuba paid $80,052,504 for foreign-made goods during 1931 and sold goods abroad for $117,008,655, according to figures prepared by the magazine Cuba Comerciale Industrial and made public today. Imports were more than 50 per cent below 1930, when goods valued at $163,892,185 were shipped into the republic. Exports fell from the 1930 total of $164,776,289, principally due to the sagging price of sugar.

Tobacco Monopoly Considered.

Rio de Janeiro, April 7 (U.P.).—Proposals for the creation of a tobacco monopoly in Brazil are being studied by Minister of Finance Oswaldo Aranha. Independent manufacturers, seriously affected in the last few years by foreign competition, are understood to favor the idea. The plans involve a special government loan with which to meet necessary payments to private enterprises.

Brazilian Law Hits Diplomats.

Rio de Janeiro, April 7 (A.P.).—The finance ministry today prohibited depositors from carrying accounts with local banks in foreign currency. Heretofore, foreign diplomats have been permitted accounts in the currencies of the countries which they represent. Henceforth, the Bank of Brazil will be the only agency of exchange, except in special cases when other banks will be permitted to make transactions at a rate fixed by the ministry.

Aviation Subsidies Suspended.

Buenos Aires, April 7 (A.P.).—As an economy measure the government today suspended all civil aviation subsidies. This action means that maintenance for mechanics and laborers in many civil airports throughout Argentina will cease, but it does not affect such airlines as the Pan-American, which have Argentine mail-carrying contracts but no subsidies. The government already had suspended several of its own air mail lines.

Honduran Minister Quits.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, April 7 (A.P.).—Ernesto Argueta, former minister to the United States, resigned today as minister of the interior and justice. Angel Sevilla was appointed to succeed him.

MARTIAL LAW ASKED IN MONETARY CRISIS

asked that Foreign Minister Carlos Balmaceda and Finance Minister Luis Izquierdo remain in office, but permitted the departure of Premier Marcial Mora, whose policies for some time have been at variance with those of other ministers.

The Central Bank, which is the reserve and issuing bank of Chile, paid out more than 1,000,000 pesos (about $120,000) in 20-centavo pieces of silver today in a heavy run. It satisfied the demands of people who wanted something solid in hand under the belief that bank notes, which are of 5 pesos and more in denomination, would go to a low value.

Officials said the fears were groundless, but the run persisted.

The heavy run for silver coins was started today by hundreds of men and women who fought their way into the Central Bank. Many Chileans are hoarding the coins for their silver content.

A riot call brought the police and the lobby was cleared but a line formed outside the bank. The tellers paid on demand until announcement that the bank had 3,500,000 of pesos in 20-centavo pieces caused many persons to drop out of the line and go home.

A bill to devalorize the peso, suspend the conversion of currency and allow the peso to seek its natural level in the open market is pending in Congress. It would virtually take Chile off the gold standard, as the country has been, in effect, for some months.

CHACO PEACE CLAIM PUZZLE TO CAPITAL

Reported Paraguayan and Bolivian Pact Is Not Known of Here.

(Associated Press.)

Officials here were at a loss yesterday to account for Buenos Aires reports announcing the solution of troubles between Paraguay and Bolivia over the disputed Chaco territory.

No account could be given by Bolivian, Paraguayan or State Department officials of the Buenos Aires version of a settlement, which stated Argentine Foreign Minister Lamas said the Bolivian and Paraguayan ministers had announced that their governments had ratified "a set of principles of peace."

As far as anyone here knows, the negotiations to find a basis for a nonagression treaty between Bolivia and Paraguay are still in progress. No announcement to the contrary has been received from either La Paz or Asuncion.

Buenos Aires, April 7 (A.P.).—Foreign Minister Lamas said today ministers of Paraguay and Bolivia, between whom differences have existed for many months, have notified him, under instructions from their governments, that a set of principles of peace between the two governments has been ratified.

Capital Man Arrested In Stock Fraud Scheme

Lynchburg, Va., April 7 (A.P.).—Constantinos Vlachos, who posed here yesterday as promoter for a Washington concern named the Rice Manufacturing & Aerial Transport Co., announcing that he was prospecting for a site for a plant to manufacture a new motor, is in jail today, facing a charge of obtaining $25 from Charles C. Christy, of this city, under fraudulent misrepresentation.

Christy claims he bought a share of stock in the Rice Company from Vlachos for $25. Although Vlachos said he was manager of the Rice Company, the police have a letter from Washington police in which they say the Rice Company is not known there.

Motor Tax Arrest Drive Is Postponed

Maryland Move Follows 13 Injunction Suits Attacking Law.

Plans to institute wholesale arrests of contract workers, who fail to comply with the common carrier tax, have been temporarily abandoned by Maryland motor vehicle authorities pending a court decision on the applicability of the tax law.

The decision of the Maryland officials was announced yesterday by Jerome Fanciulli, secretary of the Commercial Motor Vehicle Owners Association of the District, after he had conferred with the Office of the Maryland Motor Vehicle Commissioner, by whom the offensive was to be launched.

The temporary settlement was announced after thirteen injunction suits had been filed in Maryland by trucking concerns to stay the operation of the law. The Maryland authorities changed their plans after a conference between Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and other officials, it is said.

British Cabinet Meets To Study Irish Threats

London, April 7 (A.P.).—The Irish Free State's intention to abolish the oath of allegiance to the British king and retain land annuities was expected tonight to be considered by the entire cabinet before another note is sent to Ireland on the subject.

A subcommittee of the cabinet, established to deal with the Irish situation, met tonight in the House of Commons to consider the Free State's reply to Great Britain's recent note. That note warned that Britain would consider abolition of the oath and retention of the annuities breaches of the Anglo-Irish Treaty, which set up the Free State.

HOUSE UNIT BACKS TRACTION MERGER

eration was offered after John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., and S. R. Bowen, general counsel for the Washington Railway & Electric Co., informed the committee the provision was acceptable to the companies.

The bill as passed contains the power clause, extending for fifteen years' contracts, under which the Washington Railway & Electric Co. buys current below cost from the Potomac Electric Power Co. and retails it. Emphatic objection was made to a similar provision in the Senate bill in minority reports filed by Senators Capper (Republican), Kansas, and Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin.

During the hearings that preceded the vote, testimony turned on the Public Utilities Commission's meter order, until Chairman Mary T. Norton restricted the subject to merger. Representative Loring B. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, said taxicab competition was one of the arguments for merger; that if meters are required there would be fewer cabs and therefore less need for consolidation. He questioned the interest of the traction companies in the meter order.

Albert Jacobsen, counsel for the City Cab Co., informed Mrs. Norton that a petition requesting the House District committee to introduce a bill blocking the Public Utilities Commission from enforcing its order would be presented to the committee "within 24 hours." George E. Sullivan, vice president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, said the federation would indorse the petition.

A statement urging continuance of the present zone system, citing inequities under the meter method, and charging influx of outside competition, was presented to the committee by Leon Brill, jr., president of the Bell Cab Co.

Mrs. Marie Flynn Maddox, chairman of the utilities committee of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association, said she questioned the "sudden enthusiasm" of street car companies for a merger in the last two years, after they had opposed it over a long period.

NICARAGUAN REBELS KILL MARINE LEADER

Sergt. Levonski, New York, Is Victim of Mutiny in Guard Outpost.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, April 7 (A.P.). Sergt. Charles J. Levonski, U. S. Marine Corps, of New York, a lieutenant in the guardia nacional of Nicaragua, was killed early yesterday in a mutiny led by discontented native sergeants at Kisalaya, a guardia outpost at which he was in command.

His lieutenant, Carlos Reyes, a Nicaraguan, was wounded.

The remoteness of the outpost is believed to have inspired the natives to start the mutiny. Kisalaya is located on the Wanks River. Twenty-five men were stationed there with the two officers.

After the officers had been attacked ten loyal guards joined the nearest garrison, while fifteen fully armed men went up the river for Jinotega.

Col. Lloyd L. Leech, of Virginia, commander of the Atlantic Coast, is bending every effort with airplane reconnaisance and patrol ground work to capture the mutineers.

Levonski had been in Nicaragua for more than four years and had an excellent record for gallantry in the war with the Segovias.

He was considered popular with the native soldiers and was rated as one of the most efficient officers in the republic.

(Associated Press.)

The death of Sergt. Levonski was reported to the Navy Department yesterday by Lieut. Col. Calvin B. Matthews, commanding the Nicaraguan national guard detachment.

Col. Matthews reported that Levonski's body had not yet been recovered. One sergeant and fourteen enlisted guardia of the command had deserted from he post at Kisalaya.

Levonski was born in Warsaw, Poland, November 2, 1903. He had continuous Marine service since he first enlisted April 21, 1923. He participated in approximately 25 engagements with insurgents since he went to Nicaragua in January, 1928. His father, Alexander Levonski, lives at Dolgeville, N. Y.

$70,000 "Tiger Room" Summary Writ Denied

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—The County Trust Co.'s motion for a summary judgment in its suits to collect $50,000 from Timothy J. Mara, sports promoter, and $20,000 from Patrick J. Kenny, Yonkers contractor, on notes, was denied today in Supreme Court.

Both defendants refused to pay the notes on the ground they signed them at a "Tiger room" conference during the 1928 presidential campaign with the understanding the money would go into the Democratic campaign chest and they would never have to pay.

could hardly read and write. For the Government, Mr. Keogh contended that since the "information" in the case did not charge Amato with knowledge of the contents of the magazine, his ability to read and understanad English was unimportant, but Judge Hitt ruled the question proper.

More than 130 dealers, on whose shelves one or more of these different offensive magazines were found, were arrested in a police drive two months ago. Of that number two have been tried and found guilty. One dealer for each of the three magazines has been tried, and thus far Mr. Keogh has obtained a conviction in each case.

Chatting with surgeons during the two-hour operation performed by Dr. Hunt and Dr. Max Ginns, dental surgeon, Hawks attributed the accident to a soft spot on the field. Ether was not administered because of obstructions in the patient's respiratory tract. Instead the surgeons used only a local anesthetic.

Dr. Hunt said it was too early to determine if Hawks would be disfigured for life by lacerations on his face.

Governor of Kentucky Fails to See Students

Frankfort, Ky., April 7 (A.P.).—Five collegians from Arkansas bearing gifts for coal miners in southeastern Kentucky came to Kentucky's capital city today for an interview with Gov. Ruby Laffoon before proceeding on their mission.

The group, representing Commonwealth College, labor school at Mena, Ark., reported at the executive offices in the capitol late today but were told Gov. Lafoon had just gone to the mansion suffering from a slight illness. They decided to stay here tonight and make an effort to see the governor tomorrow morning.

Business Evils Held Greatest.

Chicago, April 7 (A.P.).—Philanthropy's greatest challenge is to solve the evils of the "business age," rather than health or educational problems, Evans Clark, of New York, director of the Twentieth Century Fund, today told a conference of the Federal Churches of Christ.

Cotton Plants Develop "Fever."

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Diseased cotton plants develop fevers so completely human in symptoms that Texas scientists have discovered they can use thermometers to diagnose the "illness." Walter N. Ezekiel and J. J. Taubenhaus, of the Texas' agricultural experiment station, announced this today in Science, official journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

NAZIS AND BAVARIA ROW OVER ELECTION

Government Decrees Against Storm Troops Mobilizing as Planned.

Munich, Germany, April 7 (A.P.).—Adolf Hitler's National Socialists and the authority of the Bavarian state came into direct conflict today when Ernst Roehm, commander of the Nazi storm troops, announced he would mobilize his Hitlerite battalions for the election next Sunday, and the Bavarian government decreed that no such mobilization might be held.

Commander Roehm took full responsibility for issuing the mobilization order that went out to the storm troops on the occasion of the indecisive presidential election March 13. He said the order was issued with the knowledge of the ministry of the interior and that it would be repeated Sunday because Nazi troopers were needed to distribute campaign pamphlets.

Order to Policemen.

When news of this decision reached the Bavarian ministry of interior, an order was issued forbidding any concentration of political organizations from Saturday to Monday. Police were instructed to enforce the regulation vigilantly.

Charges that the Nazis had perfected a comprehensive system of espionage were denied by Commander Roehm, who asserted that some of the documents seized from Nazi headquarters by Prussian authorities in a series of raids shortly after the March election had been forged. The charges were based on documents confiscated in the raids.

The fact that 174,328 out of 37,658,036 German voters, or less than half of 1 per cent, failed on March 13 to cast their ballots for President Paul von Hindenburg made next Sunday's run-off election necessary.

Two Candidates Withdraw.

Two of the candidates who ran in March have withdrawn from the race. These are Lieut. Col. Theodore Duesterberg, Nationalist, and Adolf Gustav Winter, Revolutionist, who is doing a term in a Saxon jail. Their withdrawals left the field to Von Hindenburg, nonpartisan; Hitler, National Socialist, and Ernst Thaelmann, Communist. Von Hindenburg polled 18,654,690 on the first ballot against a total opposition of 19,003,346.

On the second ballot, no absolute majority is necessary—a simple plurality decides the issue. As an arithmetical proposition, Von Hindenburg's reelection seems assured to many political observers.

Lamont to Go Abroad On Ship With Stimson

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., will sail tomorrow on the Ile de France for a brief trip to Europe.

While reports were current in Wall street that his trip was on international financial matters, it was stated in authoritative quarters that the financier was interested primarily in taking a rest.

Mr. Lamont will have as a shipmate on the Ile de France Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State. The departure of both on the same boat was described as a coincidence.

German Unemployment Drops.

Berlin, April 7 (A.P.).—Germany's unemployed at the end of March numbered 6,031,000, a decrease of 98,000 in two weeks.

These democratic "big guns" will marshall party forces for the 1932 drive at the annual Jefferson Day dinner here April 13. New York's presidential rivals, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt (left) and Alfred E. Smith, are shown above. Below, left to right, are—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, and Harry F. Byrd, former governor of Virginia.

PROGRESSIVES LOSE WISCONSIN CONTROL

State's G. O. P. Reverses Its 1928 Stand; Roosevelt Is Democrats' Choice.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 7 (A.P.).—Reversing its 1928 stand, Wisconsin apparently will send a conservative-controlled delegation to the Republican National Convention. Four years ago the La Follette progressive faction dominated.

Further returns today from Tuesday's delegate primary indictaed that fifteen conservatives and twelve progressives will represent the State in the Chicago convention.

In the Democratic primary 25 of the 26 leading delegates are pledged to support Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York. The other successful candidate ran as an independent for district delegate on a "Smith and prosperity" platform.

2,270 Precincts Report.

Returns from 2,270 of 2,845 precincts indicated that 4 Republican progressives and 3 conservatives were elected as delegates at large, but the conservatives took control of the delegation of 27 by leading, 12 to 8, in the district contests. The ten districts each have two delegates.

In selecting candidates at large, the Conservatives gave tacit approval of the Hoover administration, while the Progressives were pledged to support Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska.

The Progressive slate for delegates at large was led by Senator Robert M. Lafollette with 129,088 votes. Senator John J. Blaine had 120,143.

George S. Mead Leads.

George S. Mead, Wisconsin Rapids paper manufacturer, led the Conservative ticket at large with 109,636.

On the Roosevelt Democratic ticket, F. Ryan Duffy was high with 112,183 votes. John M. Callahan, national Democratic committeeman who headed an uninstructed slate of delegates which was defeated, had 84,063 votes, the highest for his faction.

In the Republican contest, each faction placed a full ticket in the field.

Returns from many rural precincts in Western and Northwestern counties will not be available for days because recent rains and the spring thaw made roads impassable.

Interest in Wisconsin's factional fights brought out a larger vote than in the 1928 delegate primary, with the Democrats showing substantial gains in the number of persons voting that party's ticket. Assuming that each person at the polls voted for a full ticket of delegates at large, approximately 216,519 Republicans and 151,102 Democrats voted in the precincts counted today.

Hot Massachusetts Fight Vexes Democratic Leaders

Republicans Are Elated as Clash of Roosevelt and Smith Factions Splits Opponents in State; See Battle as Aid to Hoover Chances.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The bitter factional fight in Massachusetts is causing the Democratic leaders in that State plenty of worry, according to word brought here. These leaders are not so much concerned about the outcome of the primary that is to take place April 26; this they think they can foresee already. What is troubling them is the possible effect that primary fight may have on the presidential election itself.

Conversely, the Republican leaders in Massachusetts are happy. They are counting on the row among the Democrats to produce a lasting bitterness, a bitterness that will carry over to November and result in a victory for President Hoover.

In 1928, Massachusetts was the only large State north of the Mason-Dixon line to give its electoral vote to Alfred E. Smith. Massachusetts has a large number of Irish Catholics. Consequently, it was one State where Smith's religion, instead of being a handicap as it was nearly everywhere else, was a decided asset.

Begin Work for Smith.

As the campaign of 1932 approached, the leaders of the regular Democratic organization in Massachusetts—Senator David I. Walsh, Gov. Joseph B. Ely, and Frank J. Donahue, the national committeeman — marked time, the while they waited for some word from Mr. Smith.

In the meantime, Mayor James J. Curley, of Boston, who is a sort of lone wolf in Massachusetts' Democracy, picked himself out a bandwagon and leaped on it. He declared himself for Franklin D. Roosevelt. That was last summer.

The regular organization crowd, meanwhile, was waiting to hear from Smith. When Smith finally announced that he would take the nomination if it came his way, the regulars moved swiftly to line up the State's 36 delegates for him.

Roosevelt Encouraged.

For a while it looked like he would get these delegates without a struggle. Roosevelt, knowing that there was tremendous enthusiasm for Smith in Massachusetts, thought he had better stay out of the primary.

Then came the primary in New Hampshire and Roosevelt's smashing victory over Smith. This encouraged Roosevelt to think that he could at least get a part of the Massachusetts delegates. Mayor Curley told him that he not only would get a part, but the lion's share of them.

After a futile attempt to work out a compromise with Smith, Roosevelt got into the race.

Party Is Split.

The result has been a primary fight that has the Democratic party in the State split wide open. Harsh language is being used. In his stump speeches for Roosevelt, Curley hammers away on one point: Smith, he says, can not be nominated, and he knows it. Why, then, is he running? To stop Roosevelt, Curley replies; to stop Roosevelt, and, if necessary, "wreck" the Democratic party.

Some unkind things are being said about Roosevelt, too. They are not being said openly. Democratic politicians can't afford to say things openly about Roosevelt; there is too great a likelihood that they will be out urging his election after the June convention.

Privately, however, they are saying that the New York Governor is a lightweight.

Division Seems Certain.

The primary on April 26 can only have one result—a division of the delegates between Smith and Roosevelt. If Roosevelt gets a dozen of the delegates he will be satisfied. If he gets more than that, his supporters will claim he has scored a triumph.

That Roosevelt looks like the next Democratic nominee is conceded privately in Massachusetts even by many of the Democratic leaders who are now opposing him. What is worrying them, as has been said, is the thought of carrying the State for him in the November election.

Because of Smith's victory in 1928, Massachusetts has come to be looked upon as Democratic territory. The record, however, shows that the Republicans have much more right to claim it in a national election. Since 1896, the Democrats have captured the State in only two presidential elections. The only victory, aside from that of Smith, was Wilson's in 1912. Wilson won then because of the Republican split. He lost the State to Hughes in 1916.

National Capital Committee Meets

Campaign Fund Group Is Encouraged by Results at Luncheon.

A luncheon of the Greater National Capital committee campaign fund group was given at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday afternoon at which Robert V. Fleming, chairman, and Lloyd B. Wilson, associate chairman, presided.

Mr. Fleming and Mr. Wilson both declared they had met with much favorable opinion of the work of the committee and were greatly encouraged in their campaign to have as many business firms on their committee as possible. The funds that were subscribed at the luncheon yesterday were not made public but Mr. Fleming said that it was 100 per cent better than the amount subscribed in the last campaign.

Dr. Albert O. Penny, of the National Soroptimist Association, praised the committee in a short address for the efficient manner in which they sold Washington to the association for their convention which was held here several weeks ago.

CONSERVATIVE GAINS RISING, FESS STATES

Decline in Progressive Vote in Wisconsin Is Cited as World Trend.

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Fess, of the Republican national committee, said in an interview yesterday that the regular Republican gains over the independents in the Wisconsin primary balloting for delegates was but another example of the "trend toward conservatism" in times of world economic distress.

The Ohio senator, who expects to retire as party chairman after the Chicago convention, alluded to returns showing the Conservative-Hoover Republicans were leading for 16 of the 27 delegate places in Wisconsin as against 11 for the La Follette independents. Four years ago, when the State had 26 votes, the independents controlled 17 against 9 for the conservatives.

Citing recent elections in Germany and England as other examples of conservative dominance in critical times, Mr. Fess said the "same thing would occur in France if the opportunity is opened" and the American people "are impressed with the same convictions."

Fundamental Principles.

He added: "Radicalism can go to the point where it becomes embarrassing to administrations, but when it extends to overturn fundamental principles under the head of social service or any other Socialist movement, whether it be in the matter of government finance or unemployment allowances, the American people will resist it."

Mr. Fess evidently referred to the Wisconsin independents' platform, to be read on the floor of the national convention in June, which calls for a Federal appropriation of $375,000,000 to the States for unemployment relief and a $5,500,000,000 prosperity bond issue by the Federal Government to finance additional public works and create new jobs.

"As an evidence of this (conservative) trend," he went on, "Wisconsin, generally regarded as the best example of modern radicalism, is in point.

"While we are only 30 years from the Bryan free coinage of silver at 16 to 1, which was thought to have been permanently buried, we are having the same principles revived, and even in the Congress of the United States the repetition of these principles, clothed in different verbiage, is heard every day."

Germany Is Example.

In an hour of "danger," Fess said, "it is the conservative judgment as against the radical that will appeal to the American mind; in fact, to any mind." He said further:

"As an illustration, Germany is an outstanding example. Germany, under a strain of reparations that extend over the future, is anxious to avoid the burden, but is more anxious to maintain the integrity of sound government.

"Hitler, the radical running on a platform of elimination of all burdens of reparations, is defeated by the president, (Von Hindenburg), whose age was against him, but who stands for the integrity of government obligations and orderly society. With such an appeal led by a spectacular figure the German voter emphatically registered."

As for England, the Ohian said: "In that country the leader (MacDonald), who had been known as a radical, but who was under the burdens of government responsibility as prime minister, announced the necessity of balancing the budget. The radicals resisted him to the extent of reading him out of the party, whereupon the people of England by an unprecedented vote repudiated the radical movement."

Wife of S. E. Norris, Actor, Wins Divorce

Philadelphia, April 7 (A.P.).—A final decree of divorce from Septimus Edward Norris, motion picture actor, was granted Mrs. Virginia Bell Hilier Norris today in common pleas court. The record in the case was impounded and the grounds for the divorce were not revealed.

The couple, both members of socially prominent Philadelphia families, eloped December 6, 1927, when Norris was 16 years old and his bride 18. They have one child. Norris left college to enter the movies several years ago when he was selected as a double for Charles "Buddy" Rogers in "Wings." He also had a part in "Beau Sabreur."

First Ball Game Near, Grandparents, Beware!

By JOHN J. DALY

GRANDFATHERS, beware!

Graadmothers, too.

The opening game is almost at hand. On that day, which has yet to be declared a national holiday, the ranks of grandfathers and grandmothers will be decimated, if only in fiction; for the office boys, and some of the office girls, too, must have a good excuse to be absent from their labors—and grandfathers and grandmothers, from time out of mind, have furnished the best possible alibi—on opening day.

Something really ought to be done about this. Either all work should be suspended on opening day, when the baseball season is officially ushered in, or the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Grandfathers and Grandmothers organized in an effort to preserve their peace of mind, if any. There is, too, the ethical angle that involves the pernicious habit of fabrication—telling fibs, little white lies.

• • • •

NO other country on earth encourages its lads and lassies to offer their grandfathers and grandmothers on the sacrificial block. In this fashion; for in no other country is baseball the national pastime, and opening day a veritable holy day of obligation, to be at the ball park.

The opening game in each new season is, of course, an event of events. There is nothing quite like it. The opening of Congress, the inauguration of a President, the celebration of Independence, the national elections, all these are as nothing compared to the importance of being in a ball park on opening day. In the Nation's Capital the President of the United States throws out the first ball, a rite in other places where governors, mayors and town managers are celebrants.

Bands play, flags fly and pop bottles pop on opening day, in keeping with the patriotic spirit of what is, essentially, the great American game.

• • • •

PATRICK HENRY may have said, "Give me Liberty, or give me death," a very fine sentiment. Decatur declared, "My country, right or wrong," and George Washington specifically warned against foreign entanglements, but what are these utterances compared to the immortal words of the umpire, "Play Ball!"? Then, there is that never-to-be-forgotten thrill that comes with the stentorian announcement of the park attendant, with a megaphone, "The bat-ter-eez, Ladeez and Jump-men, for Today's Game are Slattery and Mannouch, for the Joints, and Lefty Rhodes and Heinie Gutterson, for the Ath-a-letticks!"

Is it any wonder, then, that grandfathers and grandmothers should now be shaking in their boots and their slippers?

Peace be with them, for their grandchildren will not, on opening day.

ROOSEVELT SCORES HOOVER'S AID PLANS

Makes First Direct Attack on President in Plea for the "Little Man."

Albany, N. Y., April 7 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, tonight criticized the Hoover relief proposals and himself outlined a program which he said would reach "the forgotten man at the bottom of the economic pyramid."

Mr. Roosevelt, in a radio address, said the first thought should be the restoration of the farmers' buying power, relief to the small banks and home owners and a reconstructed tariff policy.

"They seem to be beyond the concern of a national administration which can think in terms only of the top of the social and economic structure," he asserted. "They have sought temporary relief from the top down rather than permanent relief from the bottom up."

First Attack on Hoover.

Several times within the last six months, Gov. Roosevelt has criticized the administration's attitude toward the distress of the country and its projects for alleviating it. But tonight was the first time Roosevelt has directly referred to Mr. Hoover. He did so in discussing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation set-up.

"The $2,000,000,000 fund which President Hoover and the Congress have put at the disposal of the big banks, the railroads and the corporations is not for the farmer and small home owner," the governor asserted.

"In my calm judgment, the Nation faces today a more grave emergency than in 1917 when the war began for us," said the governor. "It is said Napoleon lost at Waterloo because he forgot his infantry—he staked too much on the more spectacular but less substantial cavalry. The administration in Washington provides a close parallel. It has either forgotten or it does not want to remember the infantry of our economic army.

"It is high time to admit with courage that we are in the midst of an emergency at least equal to that of war. Let us mobilize to meet it."

Pleads Tariff Revision.

Linked with restoration of the farmer's buying power in Mr. Roosevelt's argument was relief for the rural and urban home owner from dispossession by foreclosure of mortgage holders.

The Hawley-Smoot tariff act of 1929 "compelled the world to build tariff fences so high that world trade is decreasing to the vanishing point," the executive asserted. "The value of goods internationally exchanged is today less than half of what it was three or four years ago."

"The only way outside nations can pay us for goods we desire to sell them is in their own goods or raw materials, but this foolish tariff of ours makes that impossible. What we must do is this—revise our tariff on the basis of reciprocal exchange of goods, allowing other nations to buy and to pay for our goods by sending us such goods as will not seriously throw any of our industries out of balance, and incidentally making impossible in this country the continuance of pure monopolies which cause us to pay excessive prices for many of the necessities of life."

Son's Candidacy Held Vetoed by Wilhelm

Berlin, April 7 (A.P.).—A story that the former kaiser had vetoed a plan whereby former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm would have been the joint candidate for president of the Nationalists and Adolph Hitler's Nazis appeared in the Monarchist weekly Fridericus today.

Adolf Hitler's headquarters promptly denied the report, calling it a "palpable campaign lie," and a spokesman for the Hohenzollerns said the story was "doubtless untrue."

Democratic Leader's Qualifications Told

Frank Van de Kritziner was the principal speaker last night at a meeting of the "Al" Smith Club in the Arlington Hotel. He spoke on the necessity of a national leader whose interests would solely embody the needs of the American people.

District primaries will be the topic of discussion at the next meeting, April 14.

Utility Regulation Leader Dies.

Chicago, April 7 (A.P.).—Halford Erickson, 67, known as the "father of State utility regulation," died today at his home, in Suburban Oak Park. For fifteen years he had been a vice president of the Byllesby Engineering & Management Corporation. The late Senator La Follette, when Governor of Wisconsin, in 1905, made Erickson a member of the Nation's first State railroad commission, which later was given power to regulate utilities.

30 German Clergymen Are Tortured in Russia

Berlin, April 7 (A.P.).—The Protestant News Service Evangelische Pressedienst today said that 30 German clergymen were being held in a Siberian concentration camp and forced to fell 39 trees daily while standing breast-high in snow. The news service said food and living accommodations were terrible.

The organization said the pastors were banished to Siberia after they had been tortured to extract "confessions." One form of torture was described as standing the victim in a cell for seven days and nights without sleep and beating him when he collapsed.

Austrian Field Marshal Dies.

Vienna, April 7 (A.P.).—Field Marshal Arthur von Huebl, former commandant of the Austro-Hungarian Military Geographical Institute and a pioneer in color photography and photographic survey developments, died today, aged 79. For five years after the war Marshal von Huebl was in Brazil organizing a geographical institute there.

Leader of Indian Cult Leaves Ship in England

Dover, England, April 7 (A.P.).—Meher Baba, proclaimed by his followers as the "god man" and "new Messiah," arrived here tonight from Bombay and had considerable difficulty with port officials on account of his eight-year vow of silence.

Other members of the party of the Parsee and mystic, who has said he was going to the United States to convert them to his faith, did the necessary talking for him, and he was permitted to proceed. The Parsee left by automobile, presumably for the college of his followers at East Challacombe, in Devon.

Briton Found Shot to Death.

London, April 7 (A.P.).—Cecil Arthur Campell, 63, son of the third Baron Stratheden and uncle of the present peer, was found dead in his home here today with a bullet wound in his temple. A pistol was found nearby. He married Josephine Williams, daughter of Richard Henry Williams, of New York, in 1915.

RICHARDSON REPORT ON HAWAII ASSAILED

Gov. Judd Hits Proposals to Change Law Enforcement Plans of Island.

(Associated Press.)

Lawrence M. Judd, Governor of Hawaii, yesterday took distant but vigorous exception to the recommendations of Assistant Attorney General Richardson for changes in the island law enforcement machinery, characterizing them as an effort to "confiscate" some of Hawaii's "most treasured rights of self-government."

Gov. Judd's communication to Secretary Wilbur, under whose department the island is governed, was made public by the Cabinet member without comment.

Mr. Richardson investigated crime conditions in Hawaii following the killing of Joseph Kahahawai, for which Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and two naval enlisted men are now being tried on murder charges. Kahahawai had been accused of being one of four men who criminally assaulted Mrs. Massie, Mrs. Fortescue's daughter.

Loss in Efficiency Seen.

To transfer to Washington the appointment of a territorial attorney general and police head, Gov. Judd said, would result in divided authority between the governor and these officers with a resultant loss in efficiency and no centralized responsibility.

Mr. Richardson, in his report, recommended such action along with a change in the court system.

The Hawaiian Governor said that Hawaii had voluntarily ceded its sovereignty to the Federal Government "with the assurance of a considerable degree of autonomy and for over 30 years has judiciously exercised that privilege."

After a number of years, he said, local authority had worked out a satisfactory police law under which existing county and city governments were set up.

"As testimonial to the excellence of this act," Gov. Judd said, "Richardson finds we have no organized crime, no important criminal class, no crime rackets, no substantial evidence of a crime wave disproportionate with the increase in population or in comparison with the crime record of cities of similar size on the mainland and no present sericus racial prejudices."

Claims Conditions Improved.

Gov. Judd said that Mr. Richardson criticized the police department, but that his criticism was based upon conditions no longer existent. He pointed out that the last session of the Legislature had created a police commission composed of five of the most outstanding men in the community.

Criticism Mr. Richardson directed against the Honolulu county attorney, Gov. Judd met by saying that office had already been relieved of all criminal prosecutions which had been placed in the hands of an appointive prosecutor "who Mr. Richardson states seems competent."

road land department, educated in public and private schools.

Sharles Akana, 32, Chinese ancestry, an accountant, with high school education.

Willy Beyer, 42, of German ancestry, a potato chip manufacturer with grammar school education.

Theodore Bush, 40, American born civil engineer, from Lititz, Pa.

Henry Chang, 25, Chinese, grammar school education.

Theodore Char, 31, Chinese accountant, educated at Chicago University and the University of Illinois.

Edward Goeas, 25, Portuguese ancestry, a clerk.

George McIntyre, 41, American, a clerk.

All except Sorensen, Akana, Bush and McIntyre said they were without jury experience.

Two hours before the jury was obtained, the racial run of the drawings from the venire began to favor the defense in its efforts to get 12 Anglo-Saxons in the box.

Darrow, who previously had predicted the beginning of testimony would find no more than three Caucasians on the jury, said he was satisfied with the line-up—six men of American extraction and the other six of various other races.

"It looks pretty good to me," he said.

Veteran of hundreds of legal battles, Darrow admitted that he could not quite "tell about" some of the veniremen of Oriental blood whom he questioned.

"I never tried a case before Chinese jurymen," he said. "Probably, though, they are no different than anybody else. It's all a matter of environment, I guess."

But the chances in the drawing veered in his favor. From the opening of court this morning until recess all but one man drawn from the venire were of Caucasian stock and the jury box contained eight of that percentage.

From Napoleon, Hawaiian meat cutter, the court heard a novel excuse for not wanting to serve. Napoleon said he attended the Mormon Church and expressed fear that if he decided on the case some of his customers would boycott him.

Napoleon, thoroughly at ease, said the case was none of his business.

"If anybody wants to go about and commit a crime it is their business, not mine," he said.

Napoleon's position, obviously one of strict neutrality, caused both sides to accept him.

Honolulu, T. H., April 7 (U.P.).—Temporary insanity is almost certain to be the defense of the four Americans on trial for second degree murder in the "honor" slaying of Joe Kahahawai, jr., it was learned tonight.

Two noted mainland psychiatrists, Huntington Williams and James Orbison, of Los Angeles, arrived incognito aboard the liner Malolo, accompanied by their wives.

Indicating the defense had planned a bombshell of surprise, the utmost secrecy surrounded the departure of Williams and Orbison, and their arrival here. The United Press representative, meeting the ship offshore, recognized Williams. He reluctantly admitted his identity.

"I have been requested to come," he said. "I have no idea what I am supposed to do. All I know is that we received a wire to come. I can not say more until I have conferred with those who sent for us."

SENOR DON JUAN FRANCISCO DE CARDENAS
Ambassador from the Spanish Republic.

IN his notable study of international psychology, "Frenchmen, Englishmen and Spaniards," former Spanish Ambassador Salvador de Madariaga thus differentiates between the mentalities of these three types as follows: "Reason, fair play and honor."

Senor de Madariaga was the first ambassador from the new Spanish republic to the United States. His successor, Ambassador de Cardenas, is the prototype of the modern Spaniard, respectful of tradition, passionately eager for the future.

When the newly appointed ambassador arrived in San Francisco from his former post in Japan, he made the trip across the continent with a memorable stop-over at the Grand Canyon where one of his ancestors had first discovered the mountain range now bearing his name.

In Ambassador de Cardenas, the link between the early Spanish explorers in the New World and the political kinship of sister republics has a fitting symbol. The present ambassador is a diplomatist of career. While he was an attache in the Spanish foreign office in the spacious days of the king, he came to the United States at a conference on behalf of the Spanish-speaking residents of Texas.

He subsequently returned here as counselor of the embassy during the well-remembered days of Ambassador Padilla. He was appointed Ambassador to Japan soon after the Spanish revolution had forced the dissolution of the old guard in the foreign office and from Tokyo he was transferred to Washington.

His friends here greeted him as "Jack," and he liked it.

HOOVER SLATES ECONOMY MEETING FOR TOMORROW

trenchment bills already have been agreed to by his committee. He told newspapermen that the long-threatened Federal pay cut may be reported next week, but declined to divulge detailed provisions.

Responsibility for the proposed Army-Navy consolidation, a measure Democratic leaders claim will save $100,000,000, was shifted yesterday from the House expenditures committee to the economy group. By a vote of 12 to 8, Chairman John J. Cochran's expeditures body, which three times has passed over the bill, voted to table it.

Representative William Williamson (Republican), South Dakota, voted with seven Democrats to report the bill, while five Democrats voted with seven Republicans against it. Economy committee action on the bill was presaged afterward in a statement by Speaker Garner.

"I think you'll find the bill will be reported from another source," he said.

Pay Cut Issue Up Again.

The pay cut issue, dormant in the House since the economy committee passed on to consideration of other retrenchment proposals, cropped up again yesterday in the Senate. Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), Texas, author of a salary slash bill reducing wages in excess of $2,000, charged Senator Smith W. Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, with "sitting" on the Borah pay cut measure and his own bill.

Senator Brookhart, chairman of the civil service subcommittee to which the Borah bill was referred, admitted he had taken no action on the Borah bill.

"The one I am sitting on would not reduce the expenses of the Government by much more than $4,000,000," he said.

Senator Connally replied that Senator Brookhart talked of $4,000,000 "as though it were a mere bagatelle."

Senator Borah has not agitated for action on his salary cut measure since he announced his intention of incorporating his proposals as a rider to the revenue bill.

House and Senate comment on the President's acceptance of the House economy committee invitation was largely favorable. Chairman McDuffie said his committee "welcomed the opportunity" to confer with the President. Satisfaction was expressed by Senate Democratic leaders, including Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas.

Specific Program Sought.

Nevertheless, it was being planned to seek Senate action today on the Byrnes resolution asking the President to announce a "specific" economy program. The Senate expenditures committee will consider the Jones resolution, for a joint group of both houses to confer with the President on economy objectives.

Protests of seven members of the Cabinet against arbitrary cuts of 10 per cent ordered in departmental supply bills by the Senate were read into the record by Senate Appropriations Chairman Jones.

Secretaries Stimson, Lamont, Doak, Wilbur, Mills, Attorney General Mitchell and Postmaster General Brown were those who complained.

Temporarily closing twelve embassies and legations and fifteen consulates would be better than striking at efficiency and morale through salary cuts, Secretary Stimson said.

Expenses Are Cited.

He urged appropriations for the State Department are the smallest for any executive department except one, and are largely expended for salaries at home and abroad, and for necessary support of agents in all parts of the world. Budget Bureau reductions, and cuts in the House and Senate amount to 18 per cent of the total asked by the department, he said.

Attorney General Mitchell said cuts in Justice appropriations already made by the House "will have a severely detrimental effect upon the efforts of this department to fulfill its responsibilities." He suggested 10 per cent salary cuts, reduction in personnel and in subsistence allowances for Federal prisoners as the best way to further reduce appropriations in his department, if this must be done.

Secretary Lamont said he saw no economy in discharging hundreds of efficient and experienced employes.

"I feel obliged to take the position of not assuming any responsibility for the results of the effect of the proposed additional cut of 10 per cent," he said.

Secretary Doak declared he was unable to suggest "any way in which we could do the work we are required to do for our people if the 10 per cent were inaugurated."

Likewise Secretary Mills wrote he was at a loss to say where further Treasury reductions can be made "without curtailing and severely hampering activities of the Government." He suggested withholding 300 building projects, at $23,000,000 saving.

House friction on the subject of retrenchment was precipitated by Representative Byrns shortly after reading of the $985,000,000 independent offices bill had been resumed.

He said Mr. Hoover's economy message was so indefinite he had to explain it to the country through newspapermen the following day. He denied that $80,000,000 of the boasted $113,000,000 Democratic appropriations savings would have to be made up later in a deficiency bill, as charged by the President and Mr. Simmons.

Cooperation Charge.

"While I am chairman of the appropriations committee there will be no deficiency bill next December," he said.

He said every Republican member of the appropriations committee "save one" had "worked shoulder to shoulder" with the Democrats in attempting to curtail costs.

Representative Simmons followed him on the floor. He said Mr. Byrns referred to him when he said one member had not cooperated.

"I have charged and I again charge that the committee on appropriations is making cuts and claiming savings to the Treasury as a result of bills that will not be reflected in the saving of one cent to the taxpayers of the country," he asserted.

The Nebraskan declared that "85 specific suggestions" had been made to the economy committee by Government chiefs, and that so far no action had been taken on them. Representative Byrns declared there have not been that number of proposals. Representative McDuffie interjected that there have been "many," but few that would result in substantial savings.

Two Others Join Attack.

Representative William H. Stafford (Republican), Wisconsin, and Earl C. Michener (Republican), Michigan, joined in the attack on the Democratic economy and appropriations committees.

Mr. Stafford charged "only paper savings" had been shown thus far by the appropriations committee. Mr. Michener declared the economy committee "has done nothing and begs for the President to tell them what to do."

Representative William B. Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama, replied the condition of the country is due to "ten years of undisputed control of the Government by the Republicans, and their mismanagement of it."

Cullen Hits Pay Cuts.

Coincident with Chairman McDuffie's announcement that a salary cut bill might be reported out of the economy committee next week, Representative Thomas H. Cullen, leader of the New York Democratic delegation, issued a statement opposing all "schemes" for reducing wages.

"The pay cut fight is the first major battle to sustain the American standard of living," he said.

Representative Charles L. Abernethy (Democrat), North Carolina, made public a letter to a constituent defending salaries paid Government employes and the necessary nature of their services.

Text of Hoover Letter On Economy Meeting

The text of President Hoover's letter inviting the House economy committee to a conference follows:

My Dear Mr. Chairman:

I am in receipt of your letter of April 6. I greatly welcome the response of your committee to my suggestion that the fiscal situation necessitates honest, courageous and nonpartisan action in the development of a national economy program and the preparation of a definite comprehensive bill that will assure its accomplishment. With this purpose in mind, I would be glad if your committee would meet with me at this office at 11 o'clock on Saturday morning, April 9, with a view to taking stock of the progress made by your committee in the development of a program of economy, and affording the Executive an opportunity to make suggestions. Through the interchange of ideas we can thus lay the foundation for the development of such national program.

It is my understanding that your suggestion carries with it the thought that in such development the representatives whom I may appoint from the executive branches of the Government will sit in and cooperate with your committee. I shall continue to urge that a similar committee be appointed by the Senate in order that we shall not need to traverse the whole subject again.

Yours faithfully,

HERBERT HOOVER.

NUTT HITS CRITICISM ON MISSOURI PACIFIC

G.O.P. Committee Treasurer Denies Taking Any Part in Loan to Road.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 7 (A.P.).—In a statement interpreted as answering Senate critics, J. R. Nutt, treasurere of the Republican national committee, today made denial of any connection with the recent loan granted the Missouri Pacific Railroad by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Mr. Nutt, who has just returned from a five-week Mediterranean cruise, explained he was not a stockholder in the Missouri Pacific, although he retains stock interest in the Van Ess Co., a Van Sweringen enterprise.

"I have never talked with an officer or employe of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation since that body was organized, nor any one else, and I have no connection whatever with the granting of the loan to the Missouri Pacific Railroad or any other loan," he said. "I returned to Cleveland yesterday after an absence since March 1, spent with my family in a Mediterranean cruise. The Missouri Pacific loan was made during my absence."

(Associated Press.)

The Pennsylvania Railroad has informed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that unless a loan is forthcoming within a short time it will be necessary to halt work on the New York-to-Washington electrification project.

The railroad has an application before the corporation and the Interstate Commerce Commission for a $55,000,000 loan to be used in electrification work this year.

A. J. County, vice president in charge of finance for the railroad, wrote Eugene Meyer, chairman of the board of the corporation, that his project contemplated an expenditure of $124,000,000 during 1932, but that owing to business conditions this had been cut to $55,000,000. The money would be supplied, Mr. County said, by the $55,000,000 loan and from funds already in the carrier's treasury.

Letter Sets Forth Needs.

The letter said the expenditure would have a general beneficial result on business and unemployment.

The Aberdeen & Rockfish Railroad Co. yesterday was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to borrow $127,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The loan is to run three years, and will be used for temporary funding of an issue of 6 per cent first mortgage bonds maturing May 1 of this year. The security is to be bonds.

Road Serves Army.

The Aberdeen & Rockfish Railroad is 50 miles long and runs from Aberdeen to Fayetteville, N. C. It serves the United States Army camp at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Gibson A. Marr, chief counsel of the reconstruction corporation, has resigned to return to private practice at his home in Salt Lake City.

Mr. Marr, who was chief counsel of the old War Finance Corporation, came here to organize the legal division of the reconstruction corporation, with the understanding that he would leave as soon as this work was completed.

His resignation probably will become effective officially the last of April, but he already has left for Salt Lake City. No one has been selected to take his place.

Memorial Light Will Honor Rowe

Father Hurney to Conduct Services Sunday in Tribute to Trainer.

A perpetual light, to commemorate the memory of James G. Rowe, jr., late trainer of the Payne Whitney Stables, will be lighted next Sunday afternoon at 6 o'clock, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Eighth and N streets northwest.

The memorial lamp will be lighted by his 5-year-old son, James G. Rowe 3d. The family will attend the dedication.

The light was endowed by the late trainer's turf associates: William J. Booth, William Brannan, Frank J. Bryan, Preston Burch, George F. Burke, R. F. Carman, jr., E. F. Cooney, Joe Dowling, James Fitzmorris, James E. Gaffney, John M. Gaver, Thomas J. Healey, S. P. Hebert, Max Hirsch, E. J. Holland, Fred Hopkins, William Irvin, Charles Kurtsinger, A. T. Morris, Maj. Ral Parr, Vincent Powers, Albert Robertson, T. J. Shaw, J. P. Smith, John H. Stotler, Gyn Thomkins, W. W. Vaughn and Raymond Workman.

The address will be delivered by the Rev. Francis J. Hurney. The soloists of the occasion will be Miss Florence Yocum, soprano; Mr. Fred Nolan, barytone, and Miss Ann Arlen, violinist. The Boys' Sanctuary Choir will sing the processional and recessional.

Gilman Will Oversee Carolina Memorial Job

(Associated Press.)

Capt. John A. Gilman, of the Army Quartermaster Corps, yesterday was ordered to Manteo, N. C., on June 21, to take personal charge of erection of the Wright Memorial at Kill Devil Hill, Kitty Hawk, N. C.

Gilman has been on duty here as construction quartermaster, with additional duty as constructing quartermaster for Fort Myer, Va.; Arlington National Cemetery, Appomattox Court House, Monocacy, Md., and Edenton, N. C.

Virginia Has Final Word In Mount Vernon Transfer

Charter of Association Holding Property Provides State Assembly Must Approve Any Change in Title of Realty.

The State of Virginia will have the deciding word in the event that the present protectors—the Mount Vernon Ladies Association—should be disposed to transfer the property to the Federal Government, which is something they have shown no indication of doing.

Representative Smith, of Alexandria, who was asked yesterday by the Mount Vernon Ladies Association to appear in their behalf at hearings on the Treadway resolution, said the association charter of incorporation provides against "alienation" of the property by the association without the consent of the General Assembly.

The resolution by Representative Treadway, of Massachusetts, would provide an investigation by the Secretary of the Interior to ascertain the terms and conditions on which the Government might purchase the shrine. Representative Treadway centers his fight for acquisition of the property by the Federal Government on the 25-cent gate fee and the week-end closing rule, which keeps out week-end visitors to Washington.

Representative Smith will go before the House lands committee on April 19 to protest the Treadway resolution. Officers of the association are conferring with Gaidner Boothe, of Alexandria, their counsel, in connection with the resolution. Although Mrs. Alice H. Richards, head regent of the association, and Mrs. Fairfax Harrison, regent for Virginia, refused comment on the resolution, it is apparent that they are opposed to relinquishment of Mount Vernon by their organization.

The resolution brought forth protests from officers of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, and other organizations in Virginia.

Knapps Narrows Project Favored

Larger Channel Included in $68,700 Work Asked of Congress.

(Associated Press.)

A $68,700 project for the improvement of Knapps Narrows, on the eastern shore of Chesapeake Bay, about 40 miles south of Baltimore, was reported favorably to Congress yesterday by the War Department.

Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of Army engineers, specified that local interests should construct an adequate drawbridge and efficient operating machinery "to replace the present inadequate structure."

He recommended against an anchorage basin at Federal expense but said that since larger fishing vessels now have to take a longer and more exposed route, that Knapps Narrows be given a channel 9 feet deep and 75 feet wide.

Unemployed Drive Total Is 451,802

District Contributes 803 Jobs and West Virginia 183 Toward Goal.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—The War-Against-Depression headquarters announced tonight 451,802 jobs had been found for unemployed men and women since its campaign began.

Reports from 66 communities in 25 States, the announcement said, listed 7,855 men and women put back to work. The headquarters' statistics showed New York still leading the States with a total to date of 40,673 jobs, followed by Minnesota with 36,782, and Pennsylvania with 28,964.

Today's reports, showing in parentheses the State totals to date, include: District of Columbia (803)—Washington, 316. West Virginia (13,570)—Charleston, 100; Keyser, 40, and Buckhannon, 43.

CHINESE ARE FACING TWO REBEL THREATS

Soviet Movements Watched Also as Progress in Peace Work Is Slow.

Shanghai (Friday), April 8 (A.P.).—While Sino-Japanese peace negotiations simmered in deadlock today, there appeared two threats of civil war against the Nanking government, one from the Communists in the West, and the other from a group of war lords in the North.

Immediate attention was centering on a coalition of Yellow River war lords, the most powerful of whom appeared to be Gen. Han Fu Chu, who within the year has gained control of Shantung Province with 70,000 well-armed and thoroughly trained troops.

Little attention has been paid to him until today when rumors began to circulate that he would band with other war lords in Hupei, Shensi and Shansi Provinces to overthrow China's foremost generalissimo, Chiang Kai-Shek.

Shanghai also turned its attention to speculation about Soviet troop movements into western Siberia and along the Manchurian border recently, when Soviet government officials reportedly purchased 585,000 bags of flour in the Shanghai market for immediate shipment to Vladivostok.

Reliable sources added that Soviet agents were seeking to buy 1,000,000 more bags, but that all local supplies had been absorbed.

It was brought out that only six months ago Shanghai was getting wheat from Vladivostok, and it was regarded in some circles as possible that famine conditions in western Siberian districts might be responsible for secret purchases of grain here.

Meanwhile Sino-Japanese negotiations for an armistice in this area were making little headway.

Sir Miles Lampson, the British minister, succeeded in having the negotiators submit to their governments three plans for troop withdrawals, the details of which were kept secret. Both sides appeared pessimistic about them, however.

The league commission arrived here from Hankow at noon yesterday, and four hours later was bound for Peiping in a special express train equipped with luxurious accommodations.

NAVY LEAGUE AGAIN CRITICIZES HOOVER

Allowing Military Divisions to Run Down, Is Charged by Gardiner.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy League which last fall accused President Hoover of "abysmal ignorance" in naval affairs returned to the attack yesterday with a sweeping condemnation of the administration policy toward the sea service, including a charge of "neglect."

Through its president, William H. Gardiner, the league made a specific accusation that the Hoover administration had done "virtually nothing" to replace vessels that have become and will soon become over age.

"While Europe smolders and Asia is ablaze," the statement said, "the President insists that we can not afford even to start moderate measures for building up our fleet to treaty terms."

After comparing increases in cost of operating other Government bureaus between 1913 and the 1932 and 1933 budget estimates, the statement said:

"The conclusion seems inescapable that in searching for the causes of the evident increase in the 'crushing burden of taxation' we must look elsewhere than to the armaments scapegoat that Mr. Hoover and the pacifists parade."

Sensational Controversy.

Gardiner precipitated one of the most sensational controversies of President Hoover's regime with his attack last fall on the Chief Executive and his naval policies. Mr. Hoover replied heatedly, demanding an apology, and appointed an investigating commission which found that Gardiner's charges contained "many inaccuracies, false assertions and erroneous conclusions."

The Navy League head declined the apology, however, and proposed a more neutral inquiry into his assertions.

Yesterday's statement was contained in a seventeen-page printed pamphlet, reviewing military expenditures minutely and contending that "under Mr. Hoover's management nonmilitary expenditures have gone up 30 per cent while he has reduced expenditures for military purposes by 2 per cent."

The statement cited military budget figures of the United States and the British Empire to deny an assertion made by the President in 1929 that American "current expenditures on strictly military activities of the Army and Navy constitute the largest military budget of any nation in the world."

Mistake Is Cited.

During the next year, the league pamphlet said, military expenditures by the United States amounted to $700,337,191, while those of the British Empire totaled more than $785,000,000.

"If Mr. Hoover seems to have been mistaken in stating that our military activities cost more than those of any other nation," the statement asked, "may one not doubt the value of his simultaneous statement that this was no at a time when there is less real danger of extensive disturbance to peace than at any time in more than half a century?"

The league said that special funds which had been set up in the Navy were "dwindling and that the carry over from year to year was growing less."

"Thus the Navy," it added, "has more and more to 'live off the shelf' to get by at all instead of keeping healthy balances in special funds and in physical stocks."

Tribute Is Given Bishop McDowell

Churchman Is Honored by Colored M. E. Units in Program.

A testimonial program, in honor of Bishop William Fraser McDowell, who is expected to retire from active service in this area next month, was held last night at the sessions of the Washington Annual Conference of Colored units of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Tributes were paid him by ministers, laymen and representatives of various church organizations. R. F. Coates presided.

Addresses were made by F. F. King, representing district superintendents; W. A. C. Hughes, representing the ministry; Perry W. Howard, representing laymen; by Bishop M. W. Clair, Bishop R. E. Jones and Bishop McDowell. A banquet and reception followed the program, with music by the Columbia Quartet under the auspices of the Asbury Men's Club.

Sessions yesterday featured the anniversary of the Women's Home Missionary Society, Mrs. Florence D. Carroll, presiding, when addresses were made by Mrs. Grace Harper, Mrs. Florence Gaither, and Mrs. Mamie P. Thomas. A playlet was presented under the direction of Mrs. Callie Nelson. The anniversary of the Women's Foreign Mission Society will be the principal feature of sessions today and tonight.

Capital Man Is Held On County Rum Charge

Leon Harris, 912 S street northwest, was arrested yesterday by Montgomery County Policeman Charles Barnes on charges of possession of intoxicating liquor with intent to sell and failing to keep to the right of the center of the highway. Harris was released to appear at County Police Court when he posted bond of $500.

Policeman Barnes said he chased the Harris car for several miles. He was riding a motorcycle and was unable to halt the car, he said. He charged that Harris attempted to run him off the road on several occasions when he attempted to pull alongside.

Children who for any reason are unable to be present in this brief and final ceremony which officially closes The Washington Post George Washington Essay Contest will not lose their rewards, however, for checks will be mailed to them Saturday.

New 'Deadly War Weapon' Inventor Calls on President

Offers Instrument to U. S. on Certain Terms Not Publicly Bared.

(Associated Press.)

Lester P. Barlow, inventor of a secret new military weapon, said yesterday after a conference at the White House he had offered it to President Hoover "upon certain terms." He says the invention could destroy cities a thousand miles distant.

Asked if President Hoover had accepted his offer, Mr. Barlow replied Mr. Hoover had been "amiable." He did not divulge his "terms."

A resolution was introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Frazier (Republican), North Dakota, seeking to create a secret commission to study and pass upon the reportedly deadly weapon.

Mr. Barlow was introduced to the President by Gutzon Borgium, sculptor, who has been carving the huge figures on the Stone Mountainside which will make up the Mount Rushmore (South Dakota) National Memorial.

U. S. MAY DEMAND ARMS CUT AS DEBT PRUNING CONDITION

because of the impasse which seems to prevail regarding solution of the war debts they owe this country.

However, the position of Senator Borah was interpreted in many quarters as providing the most encouraging point from which to begin a general reconsideration of intergovernmental debts.

It was not believed possible that Secretary Stimson, in the disarmament sessions, will insist upon this factor being brought into any conversations which may crop up inadvertently on the debt question, but he will be able to point to the statements of the chairman of the foreign relations committee as a hopeful sign for future debt conversations between this country and Europe.

War Budgets Held Barrier.

If the European nations present in Geneva entertain any hopes of a successful adjustment of their indebtedness to the United States, one of the most effective methods of winning congressional support of their case will be a general reduction of their war budgets.

Last November 27 Senator Borah spoke over the radio in an international broadcast which was the climax of the most disorderly public meeting recently held in Paris. Former American Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton was drowned out in a popular clamor of protest and rebukes at the Trocadero Palace and the voice of Senator Borah, speaking from his own home here, was drowned out before it could be heard.

Part of the Borah speech was as follows:

"While millions are on the verge of starvation, growing restless and ugly, nearly five billion is being annually expended for armaments and from 80 per cent to 85 per cent of all taxes exacted from the people go for war purposes. All this is another name of slow but inevitable national suicide."

Stimson Plans to Fish In Scotland's Streams

Secretary Stimson will take his fishing tackle when he leaves for the General Disarmament Conference at Geneva today. The Secretary of State intends to spend some time in the Scottish streams he found so inviting to his angling skill last summer.

The Secretary and Mrs. Stimson will not spend much time in England after the disarmament conference but they plan to spend at least three or four days there before returning to this country.

Former Secretary of State Frank Billings Kellogg and Mrs. Kellogg will sail with the Secretary, and Norman H. Davis, American member of the disarmament delegation, will also accompany them. The Stimson party will include Capt. Eugene Regnier and Allen T. Klots and a code expert.

Navy Discontinues Reserve Training

Aviation Unit Only One Not Affected by Move for Economy.

(Associated Press.)

Discontinuance of naval reserve cruises and other reserve training except that of reserve aviators during the next fiscal year was announced last night by the Navy Department. The Navy also said five old ships used for naval reserve training on the Great Lakes would be decommissioned about September 1. The discontinuance of the training and decommissioning of the ships was explained as an economy move.

The savings from training discontinuance, it was estimated, will be $516,000. The savings from the decommissioning of the vessels will be approximately $36,000 a year. Henceforth, the Navy said, Great Lakes reserviats will be trained on vessels of the fleet. Fleet training in the future, it was added, would bring "an increase in efficiency."

The five ships to be decommissioned on the Great Lakes are the old gunboats, Paducah, Dubuque and Wilmington, the old converted yacht, Hawk, and the old toll ship, Wilmette. All will be available during the coming summer for short week-end cruises on a volunteer basis.

ECUADOR IN REVOLT AS PLAZA RETURNS

Guayaquil and ordered them to Punta Piedra to quell the revolt there. Communication with the fort was interrupted and it was impossible to ascertain what was developing.

Commander Diogenes Fernandez was said by the authorities to be the leader of the rebellious movement, with Commander Ildefonso Mendoza as one of his lieutenants.

Former President Plaza had asserted before he was to land that he would participate in no political activities in Ecuador, but a reception in his honor had been planned by prominent members of the Liberal party.

Lynchburg, Va., April 7 (A.P.).—Gen. Plaza, former President of Ecuador and formerly Minister to the United States from that country, has visited in Lynchburg and Lexington, Va., where members of his family attended college. His second son, Jose Maria Plaza, was graduated from Virginia Military Institute in the class of 1929, and is attached to the United States Army at Fort Sill, Okla., as lieutenant. His daughter, Miss Maria Plaza, who is traveling with her parents, attended Randolph-Macon Woman's College here in 1928-1929.

Gen. Plaza and his family lived in New York State at the time that his son and daughter were at school in Virginia, and they visited in this section, motoring here for college events. Mrs. Plaza and another son, Gale, who is connected with the South American diplomatic service and stationed in Washington, spent weeks here in the spring of 1929.

Cardinal Holds Peace Most Needed.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—An appeal for universal peace and universal cooperation among nations and individuals, "based on the mandate of divine charity," was issued by Patrick Cardinal Hayes, Archbishop of New York, today as being "the pressing need of our times." The cardinal called for a rerouting of human progress along the lines of humility and charity, saying it was greed and the worship of riches that led to the present economic crisis.

New Amsterdam Is Sold at Auction

G. E. Roosevelt Committee Takes Over Property for $200,000.

The New Amsterdam, eight-story brick and limestone apartment hotel, at the northeast corner of Fourteenth and Fairmont streets northwest, was sold at public auction yesterday for $200,000 to A. A. Laporte, of New York, who said he represented the New Amsterdam Corporation which is organized and controlled by the George E. Roosevelt committee representing more than 90 per cent of bondholders on the property. The current assessed valuation of the property is $522,138, of which $72,138 is for land and $450,000 for building. Vernon G. Owen was the auctioneer.

Mr. Laporte, who recently purchased the Hamilton Hotel for a corporation controlled by the Roosevelt committee, was the sole bidder.

The sale was advertised by the American Security & Trust Co., trustee. The building was erected in 1927, Howard Etchison being the builder and original owner and Louis R. Moss the architect. The main section has a width and depth of 110 feet and a rear section, a width of 25 feet and a depth of 55. There are 140 apartments. Its original estimated cost was $450,000. Its subsequent owners are listed as Andrew B. Duvall and Harry L. Rust, jr., Hartland Co., Inc., McKinley Co., Inc., New Amsterdam Co., Inc., and Fairmont Corporation, Inc.

Bank Trophy Won By A. W. Sherman

Victor to Represent Chapter in District Contest; Schreiner Second.

The Bank Presidents' Trophy, awarded annually by the Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, to the winner of a public speaking contest held among members, was won last night by A. W. Sherman, of the American Security & Trust Co. His selection for first prize entitles him to represent the Washington Chapter in a district contest which will bring together representatives from Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Virginia, North and South Carolina to compete for the A. P. Giannini prize.

E. Wallace Schreiner, of the First National Bank of Alexandria, was chosen for second place last night, with J. Earle McGeary, W. B. Hibbs & Co., third, and Henry W. Evans, American Security & Trust Co., fourth. Judges were Justice Joseph W. Cox, District Supreme Court; Francis G. Addison, president of the Security Savings & Commercial Bank, and Raymond B. Dickey, dean of the faculty, Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking.

BONUS HELD PERIL TO GOLD STANDARD

Unbearable Taxes Would Be Alternative, Democratic Leader Says.

(Associated Press.)

A statement that cash payment of the soldiers' bonus either will make taxes unbearable or ruin Federal finances was issued yesterday by Representative Milligan, of Missouri, assistant Democratic whip of the House.

Though leaders in both parties are known to be opposed to cashing the veteran certificates at this session, Milligan was among the first to make a public statement in opposition. Acting Chairman Crisp, of the ways and means committee, also has announced his opposition.

"If Congress now passes a law providing for the immediate payment of these certificates," Milligan said, "it will means an additional increase in taxes of approximately $2,423,000,000, or the issuance of new money in that amount.

Sees Gold Standard Peril.

"To increase taxes in amounts sufficient to pay these certificates would make taxes unbearable. If we issue bonds or money to pay them I feel that it would ruin the financial standing of the Federal Government and might drive the United States off the gold standard and bring about the greatest financial panic that ever confronted any nation."

Meanwhile, the Veterans of Foreign Wars announced plans to present petitions urging the bonus payments and bearing 2,500,000 signatures to the ways and means committee on the Capitol steps today.

Legion Action Hit.

Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, one of the leading bonus advocates, made public a number of telegrams received from veterans and veteran organizations in nine States, denouncing the opposition to bonus payment voiced by Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion.

One of these messages, signed by Colquit Brown, of the Veterans of Bee County, Tex., said "request impeachment of Commander Stevens."

"The following telegrams are not all I have received, but are typical of the ones received indicating the reaction to Commander Stevens, of the American Legion, statement that he was backing Mr. Hoover," Patman said in a statement.

Hyattsville Post Fails To Indorse Bonus Plan

Holding that the immediate payment in cash of the soldiers' bonus would constitute an unnecessary drain on the Treasury, a motion favoring the payment has been indefinitely tabled by Snyder-Farmer Post, No. 3, of the American Legion, of Hyattsville.

Suggestion that a resolution favoring the payment be introduced was received in a circular letter from the Stanley L. Cochrane Post, No. 16, of Crisfield, Md. This letter stated that the Crisfield post had indorsed the payment, and that notice of their action was being sent to the representatives in Congress and to the other posts in the Department of Maryland. It asked for similar action by the Hyattsville, post, on the plea that "the former service man needs the money" and that the immediate payment would not raise taxes. The circular suggested that any other post indorsing the payment should write to its senators and representatives.

The letter was brought up at the Hyattsville meeting in the regular course of business, and there was little discussion of it before the motion to table it was made. The vote in favor of ignoring the communication for the time was almost unanimous, it was reported. The Crisfield letter stated that either the bill introduced by Representative Johnson, of South Dakota, or that proposed by Representative Rice, of Texas, would be satisfactory.

New York Legion Post Scores Bonus Proposal

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—The commander of Willard Straight Post of the American Legion announced today it had sent a telegram to the national commander, Henry L. Stevens, jr., demanding an end to "all attempts to coerce Congress."

"We demand discontinuance of the Washington lobby," the telegram said, "and all attempts to coerce Congress to vote additional billions and special privileges which will thereby degrade patriotism of war service, imperil Government finance, gouge taxpayers and make the word veteran synonymous with panhandler and grafter."

Minneapolis Posts Hit Bonus Stand of Stevens

Minneapolis, Minn., April 7 (A.P.). A resolution condemning the anti-bonus stand of H. L. Stevens, national American Legion commander, was sent to him in behalf of 23 local posts of the organization today.

The resolution, adopted at a joint meeting last night, demand an immediate poll of all posts in the Nation to determine their attitude on further bonus payments to World War veterans. O. F. Youngdahl, State commander, yesterday said 120 of the 467 posts in Minnesota had notified him they favored bonus legislation.

U. S. Bridge Test To Open Tonight

320 Federal Employes Expected to Take Part in Tournamnet.

The opening round of the bridge tournament sponsored by the National Federation of Federal Employes will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock, at the Carlton Hotel, with indications that about 320 players, or 80 tables of contestants will take part. Only 70 tables were expected when the entry lists were opened.

The tournament will be managed by A. P. Stockvis, of the Shoreham Hotel. Scoring will be under supervision of Mrs. V. A. Clark. She and Mr. Stockvis will be assisted by members of the Bridge Teachers Association and the following committee:

Mrs. James H. Lemon, Mrs. Clemence Keene, Miss Lucile Clair Smith, Mrs. David E. Stephan, Mrs. G. B. Hill, Mrs. Frank B. Guest, Mrs. Howard Priest, Mrs. Merriam Robinson, Miss Nancy Beadle. The finals in the tournament will be held at the Carlton tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

"Say, your front wheels are out of balance, the spindle bushings are worn out, your brakes are shot. Better put the old car in a garage."

LEGION COMMANDER AGAIN SCORES BONUS

Cites Stand of Convention at Detroit in Opposing Cash Plan Now Pending.

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 7 (A.P.).—Defense of his support for President Hoover's opposition to the pending soldiers' bonus bill was made here today by Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion.

Passing here en route to the Florida State convention of the legion at Miami, he said his indorsement of the President's stand was in accord with action taken by the legion's last national convention at Detroit.

He also expressed the belief that passage of the bonus measure by Congress would result in reduced compensation for disabled veterans.

Mandate From Authority.

The Detroit convention, he said, had gone on record as not asking for immediate cash payment of a service men's bonus.

"That is a mandate from the supreme authority. It's not a question of standing behind Hoover or not standing behind him. It's a question of living up to the mandate of the national convention which was enacted by the duly elected delegates representing all men and women of the legion.

"The national commander and all the posts are bound by the national convention and any action which fails to come up to the convention mandate is ultra vires. Regardless of what my personal opinion is, I'd be bound to live up to the convention vote.

Widows and Orphans.

"In my opinion, passage of the bonus bill at this time would unquestionably bring about considerable reduction by Congress in the compensation now received by disabled service men and a disabled man sponsoring it is doing something calculated to harm himself.

"The American Legion this year through convention declared itself as favoring the passage of legislation for the protection, care and maintenance of widows and orphans or our comrades who are sleeping in the graves of France. It also sought additional hospitalization for sick service men that are now denied their legal hospitalization rights because of lack of hospital facilities.

"Irrespective of economic conditions, helpless women and children and sick persons should come first."

Georgetown Plans For Founders' Day

Honors Will Be Bestowed on Chilean Envoy at Program Tonight.

Founders' Day will be celebrated at Georgetown University tonight at 8:30 o'clock with ceremonies inaugurating an honorary Academy of Law named in memory of William Gaston, the first student enrolled at Georgetown College in 1791.

The first honors of the new academy will be bestowed upon a distinguished lawyer and diplomat, the Chilean Ambassador, Senor Don Miguel Cruchaga. The exercises will be held in Gaston Hall, also named after the first student, who later became one of North Carolina's foremost statesmen and jurists.

Founders' Day came on March 25, but owing to the fact that the date fell on Good Friday, President W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., postponed the celebration until tonight. With its earliest history dating back to the arrival of Father Andrew White, Jesuit priest of the Lord Baltimore colony, in 1634, the university will have on exhibit tonight many relics of old St. Marys City, as well as historic documents from the college archives. A reception in honor of Ambassador Cruchaga will follow the academic program.

3 Speakers Stress Work in Palestine

Symposium on Zionism Is Held at Jewish Center; Projects Reviewed.

The importance and necessity of carrying on the work of Palestine rehabilitation was stressed by three speakers last night in a symposium on Zionism at the Jewish Community Center. All agreed that any let-up in the work would endanger the whole homeland project.

Dr. Carl Goldenberg traced the early phases of the Palestine movement from the establishment of the first two Jewish colonies 50 years ago to the issuance of the Balfour declaration 10 years ago which recognized the Jewish right to establish a homeland. Ben Zion Emanuel, of the Jewish Education Association, discussed the recent developments in the Holy Land.

The Rev. Louis Novick, cantor of the Sixth street Synagogue, stressed the religious phases of Zionism and told of the work that the Mizrachi organization is doing in Palestine.

IMPORTS INCREASE CITED IN REED PLEA

Shows Data Since Dropping of Gold Basis in Urging Probe Into Tariff.

(Associated Press.)

Increased importations of foreign goods since Great Britain and other countries went off the gold standard were cited yesterday by Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, in urging the Senate to adopt his resolution for a Tariff Commission investigation of the effect of depreciated foreign currencies on American trade.

He said his objective was a temporary provision that the invoice value of imported goods be changed by the amount the currency of the importing country has gone up or down.

Copper and wool were mentioned as examples of commodities which have been brought to the United States in increasing quantities since foreign currencies were depreciated.

Price of Copper Off.

Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, borrowed Reed's list to read figures showing that imports of refined copper increased from 769,000 pounds in December, 1930, to 30,225,000 in December, 1931.

"The price of copper yesterday in New York," Reed said, "was the lowest ever known in the history of the world and they're still making money down there in the mines of Rhodesia.

"They pay their labor little enough wages anyway and when they pay them in depreciated currency it costs them hardly anything."

Imports of a particular grade of wool from England more than doubled in the same period, he said.

Reed argued that the cost of production in countries abandoning the gold standard has declined and that accordingly ad valorem duties are "out of line."

Would Go By Study.

In response to questions from Senator Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, Reed said that if the investigation shows present rates are too low he favors increasing them, but added he favors reductions if the study shows they are too high.

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, joined the discussion to urge that America abandon the gold standard, saying that otherwise nations which have departed from it have a great advantage in foreign trade.

Senator Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, said he had been informed by Secretary Lamont of the Commerce Department that there had been a decrease in the amount of importations since Great Britain went off the gold standard except from one or two small countries. The general decrease, he said, was about 20 per cent.

Three Capital Men Facing Drug Trial

Washington Trio Indicted by Federal Grand Jury in Baltimore.

Baltimore, April 7 (A.P.).—Three Washingtonians, Dennis A. Mahoney, Lawrence McNally and Julius F. Beuchert, were indicted by the Federal grand jury here today for violation of the narcotic laws.

The three, accused of possession and transportation of narcotics, were arrested last month at Belair by a State policeman. While Mahoney and McNally were being searched, Beuchert fled and has not been recaptured.

The grand jury also indicted three men arrested by the Coast Guard in Wicomico County last July charged with transporting and possessing liquor. They were Jack Coler, Capt. Suthard Woodfield and Edward Diggs.

Why you should try the "COLUMBIAN"

to PHILADELPHIA and NEW YORK

PEOPLE have spoken of the COLUMBIAN as "the most beautiful train we were ever on." Perhaps beauty isn't your first concern when you plan a train trip. You may ask first of all: "When does the train leave?... Will it give me a comfortable ride?... Where in New York will it leave me?"

The COLUMBIAN leaves Union Station every day at 4:00 P. M. It offers you the comforts of a Club-lounge car, an Observation-sunroom car, a Colonial diner, Parlor cars with individual wall lamps and tables, or the comfortable economy of individual seat coaches. And all this at no extra fare! Furthermore, we believe you will enjoy the attitude of the train personnel on the COLUMBIAN, as on all our trains; the engineer tries to run his train smoothly, to pull in and out of stations easily and gently. Stewards try to do everything to make your trip restful and enjoyable.

And because we believe your final destination in New York is not a railroad station, motor coaches meet you directly at trainside at Jersey City, take you and your hand baggage over the Hudson in a ferry (New York's skyline is fascinating to the most seasoned traveler), and deliver you at any one of 13 points in New York and Brooklyn, including many of the best known hotels.

COOPERATION FOR ECONOMY.

President Hoover will not be outmaneuvered in his drive for economy. He has invited the House economy committee to the White House for a conference on this vital issue. If the Democrats in the Senate continue to withhold their cooperation the onus of responsibility for perpetuating waste and extravagance will fall upon their shoulders.

When Senator Harrison, speaking of the need for economy and retrenchment, said "the President did not catch the idea until the last few days" he was merely trying to improve his batting average for facetious jibes. The President last December urged Congress to economize. In various forms the plea for reduced expenditures has been repeated. The President offered to undertake reorganization of the Government service with a view to the elimination of waste and red tape. Congress did nothing but talk. The President forced the issue before both houses and refused to let the subject drop.

If the House economy committee expected to embarrass Mr. Hoover by asking for specific recommendations it is already disappointed. Throughout the controversy the President has urged cooperative and nonpartisan action by the House, the Senate and the Executive. He is prepared to make suggestions and to have representatives work with the committee. By accepting his invitation to the White House the House group has capitulated to his previous suggestion and brought the economy issue to a showdown.

President Hoover has already made a number of specific suggestions to Congress, besides trimming an enormous sum from the budget estimates. He refrained from outlining a detailed program of economy because of the tendency of Congress to reject any legislation that comes ready-made from the White House. He asked for cooperation. If that cooperation is now forthcoming on the part of the House leaders a real economy program may be the result.

It behooves the Senate to attend the economy party. The House is now committed to give consideration to any measure for reduction of expenditures that may be originated through the White House conference. If the Senate wisecrackers would use their influence to promote this movement instead of trying to obstruct it for political purposes, substantial savings could be anticipated by taxpayers.

EXCESSIVE PUNISHMENT.

New York's experiment with life imprisonment for any individual convicted of four felonies is at an end. Gov. Roosevelt has signed a bill changing the minimum sentence for fourth offenders to fifteen years. The amendment was supported by the Lewisohn Crime Commission, and public opinion approved it. The life penalty of the so-called Baumes law failed to serve the purpose for which it was intended.

Widespread interest has been attached to this experiment. Other States have followed developments in New York with a view to adopting the drastic provision against fourth offenders if it should prove successful. The results have been disappointing. Only 213 felons were convicted under the statute. In some cases women have gone to prison for life for the repetition of petty thefts. But in recent years both the courts and juries have successfully circumvented the law where the punishment seemed too harsh for the crime at bar. The courts have allowed prisoners facing life terms to plead guilty to lesser charges. Juries have acquitted criminals whose guilt was beyond question, because they considered the penalty too drastic.

Once more circumstances have proved that crime can not be prevented by unreasonable methods of punishment. New York authorities discovered that life sentences for a series of petty crimes left prisoners in a mood of hopelessness and desperation. Inmates serving life terms under the Baumes law are blamed for the prison riots at Auburn and Dannemora. Furthermore, crime was encouraged by the excellent chances for fourth offenders to escape with light sentences or acquittal.

Certainty of conviction and not severity of punishment is the best deterrent to crime. American law-enforcement agencies are weak chiefly in the detection of crime and the conviction of criminals. It is doubtful whether any improvement can be made by providing more severe punishments. Anything that might be gained by making examples of a few egregious criminals is lost by the refusal of juries to inflict excessive punishment upon the rank and file of offenders who are taken before the courts. The greatest need in the United States is for more effective means of apprehending criminals and for the elimination of technicalities and loopholes in the judicial system which allow felons to escape punishment even after they have been indicted.

ATTENTION, MOTORISTS.

A wise disposition is manifested by various members of the finance committee of the Senate in favor of eliminating the tariff items masquerading in the tax bill as excise levies on petroleum and its products. Without further consideration of the methods by which this virtual embargo measure was forced into a revenue bill it is fitting that the public should be more fully apprised as to what would result if this tax should become law.

The enactment of an oil tax of 1 cent a gallon on imports would impose charges upon the Nation as a whole out of all proportion to the benefits unjustly gained by a favored few oil well owners. The first objection to the oil tariff is that it will add to the cost of automobile operation by adding to the cost of gasoline. This burden would come at a most inopportune time, when car owners must count every expenditure, and when the automobile industry, with its far-flung ramifications, is making strenuous efforts to revive business.

The contention of the oil tariff advocates that the proposed tariff would not increase the cost of gasoline to the consumer is not supported by reliable statistics. Crude oil and gasoline price relationships are closely correlated and follow the same trend over any appreciable period.

As surely as this tax is levied on imported oil, just so surely will every motorist pay a higher price for gasoline.

GERMAN FINANCES.

If any further confirmation were needed of Chancellor Bruening's statement some months ago that Germany would not make further reparation payments it is now provided by the announcement that the budget for the next fiscal year makes no provision for such payments. With this omission the German government is making an effort to balance the budget at about $2,000,000,000. Meanwhile the German people have lost something of the optimism of recent months. The elimination of the Hitler menace was momentarily cheering, but there has been no relenting in the French armament stand, and correspondents on the ground find Germans somewhat apprehensive, since the Manchurian episode has demonstrated what can happen to a nation comparatively unarmed. Possibly the French attitude will be better after the elections of May 1.

Notwithstanding a prospective deficit of more than half a billion marks in Germany this year, and no provisions in next year's budget for reparations, extensive plans are being made to put a large part of the more than 6,000,000 unemployed back to work. The vast private loans received in Germany in recent years, as well as available government funds, were very largely expended in substantial, revenue-producing improvements. The same procedure will be followed now with an extensive program of public works, in which more than three-fourths of the improvements will be revenue-producing. It is planned to spend one and a half billion marks in the expansion and replacement of the German inland telegraph system, railways, canals, roads and housing facilities.

DISGRACEFUL CRIME RECORD.

The homicide record of the United States is one that calls for drastic reorganization of police methods and the handling of criminal cases in the courts. In the last three decades murders committed every year have more than doubled. This annual death rate now exceeds 10 per 100,000, or the sacrifice of 12,000 lives. Dr. Frederick Hoffman has compiled statistics for the Spectator that present in striking manner the seriousness of the problem which confronts this country.

Detailed information gathered from 164 American cities with a population of 45,500,000 show some surprising results. The five cities having more than a million population are far from being at the head of the homicide list. The ten cities in which the highest murder rate occurred last year, ranging from 59.9 to 34.7 per 100,000, were Birmingham, Ala.; Memphis, Tenn.; Atlanta, Ga.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Macon, Ga.; Montgomery, Ala.; Little Rock, Ark.; Lexington, Ky.; Nashville, Tenn., and Mobile, Ala.

Chicago, as most persons would surmise, leads the larger cities, yet its rate of 14.1 murders per 100,000 is only about one-fourth that of Birmingham and less than half that of Mobile. Next in order with their homicide rates come Detroit, 10.8; New York City, 8.3; Philadelphia, 7.2, and Los Angeles, 7. It is said for the particularly high rate attributed to Birmingham and Memphis that more than half of those murdered were not residents of those cities, yet the same customary method of tabulation was used in all cities. Memphis figures show that murders counted 20 white victims and 120 colored. The other side of the picture is that while 69 of the cities showed an increased number of homicides, in 82 there was a decrease last year, and six cities certainly deserve a place on the honor roll, having had no murders within their limits during either 1930 or 1931. They are Berkeley, Calif.; Lincoln, Nebr.; Lynn, Mass.; Manchester, N. H.; Newport, R. I., and Quincy, Mass. The rate for Chicago actually declined last year as compared with 1930 from 14.4 to 14.1, but since the number of murders was exactly the same it is evident that the city's somewhat notorious reputation recently has not prevented an increase in population.

In comparison with the United States Canada makes a remarkably favorable showing in connection with such violent deaths. Fourteen of the leading cities show an average homicide rate of only 1.6, half of the cities recording no murders at all last year. Windsor, opposite Detroit, with a population of 63,000, is one of them. In a long list of foreign cities Mexico City is at the top with a rate of 41.2, and Amsterdam at the honorable bottom with only 0.3. Havana and Leningrad rate 10 and Honolulu, 8.7, while London is 0.8.

As to remedies, Dr. Hoffman, who for years has made a study of homicides in the United States and what he terms the "indifference to the frightful consequences of a drifting attitude of mind which stamps this country as the most lawless among the great civilized and industrial nations of the world," offers nothing sensational or particularly new. Prompt trial and life imprisonment for murderers and recreational facilities and education among the young are necessary. Then, Dr. Hoffman says, it all comes down to a question of a really efficient police and detective force provided with modern, scientific means of crime detection. These cost money, but the expenditure is called for on the highest grounds of public policy.

What about the New York newspapers that kidnap all chances of safe recovery of the Lindbergh baby?

JAPAN AND THE PHILIPPINES

By VICENTE VILLAMIN.

Hearing of the imminence of Philippine independence and of the warning of the American Secretary of State as to the necessity of security from external dangers of a Philippine republic, a Japanese foreign office spokesman seized the occasion to express Japan's friendship for the Filipinos and to assert Japan's readiness to sign a treaty with America guaranteeing perpetually the independence of the Philippines.

This is a world literary event. To the Filipinos it is intriguing, inspiring, inspiriting. All that is needed to make that declaration the international magna charta of Filipino freedom is for Japan to redefine what she means by friendship. Japan has her own code of right and wrong, which speaks her imponderable psychology and philosophy, and she has time and again practiced her friendship upon her neighbors in a manner that has made them everything but grateful.

The merciless strangulation of Korea by Japan was preceded by a series of treaties and solemn declarations guaranteeing in perpetuity the Korean territorial integrity and political independence. Japan's course in China during the last six months is proof conclusive that she is to be feared despite her protestations of benevolence. And this is an Oriental tragedy in a world setting, for the Oriental peoples who admire Japan for her progress and progressiveness are prayerfully wishing that instead of an invader and oppressor she may be a leader and a friend in a civilized sense.

The Japanese spokesman says that the fact that the Philippines are in the tropics is another guarantee against Japanese penetration, for the Japanese are a cold-weather people. This assertion is easily exploded. The British, the Dutch and the French are cold-weather peoples, too, but they control most of the tropical areas of the world. Certainly Japan does not want to be merely a vest-pocket edition as a colonizing nation in comparison with European nations. In fact, she is assaying to be a de luxe edition.

During the last few years some 100,000 Japanese have emigrated to Brazil, where most of them are engaged in tropical agriculture. They are 8,000 miles away from home. Mindanao, the second largest and the most fertile island in the Philippine Archipelago, is fast becoming a Japanese commercial domain. This island is considered a potential rubber dominion and is known to have around 400,000,000 tons of unexploited iron ore deposits. That mountainous Formosa has not yielded fully the economic advantages that Japan expected makes the Philippines all the more attractive.

In challenging the United States to join her in a pact to guarantee the international independence of the future Filipino nation, Japan is leading her upon a field that is practically foreign to American diplomacy. America's signature has not yet appeared on a neutralization treaty. If America is to abandon this historic policy in the case of the Philippines it must be with the knowledge that she is prepared to wage a continuous struggle with Japan to keep her from violating the treaty. Japanese contemporary precedents compel this thought.

The Philippines are geographically of the Orient and the Filipinos are ethnologically Oriental. This argues the theory that if the Philippines are to have an associate among the nations of the world it should be an Oriental power like Japan. But fate has placed the Filipinos for four centuries under Western direction and inspiration, and as a result they have acquired the Western outlook on life, the Western standards and the Western aspirations. So, while they live in the Orient their cultural home is the Occident. It is elemental that to effect a major sociological readjustment adequate time is essential to obviate social upheavals and national disintegration.

Fate, too, has kept the Japanese flag from flying over the Philippines. If America had not come to the Philippines in 1898 the islands would have become a German colony as the result of the negotiations going on at that time for their transfer to Germany by Spain. And if they had become a German colony before the battle of Manila Bay was fought they would be, today, instead of a near self-governing commonwealth under the Stars and Stripes, a mandated territory under the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles allocating all German colonies and possessions in the Pacific Ocean, north of the equator, to Japan as the mandatory power.

It is well to remind the Japanese foreign office spokesman who describes America as imperialistic that American imperialism has meant to the Filipinos peace and security, justice and fair play, religious freedom and civil liberty, progress and prosperity, democracy and universal opportunity. Can the Chinese and the Koreans say half as much about Japanese imperialism? If so, then the Philippines can be genuinely elated at the epochal declaration of the Japanese foreign office.

Would This Be "Independence?"

POST HASTE.

In this republic it is as inconsistent to attempt to raise all the taxes from the rich as to limit the suffrage to them.

By all means have a record vote on the bonus bill. The people want to know just how many representatives there are with a Patman-Rankin complex.

Gen. Butler says that if elected he will "clean up the Senate." Huey Long may have some help.

Telephone and Coca Cola stocks are the only active issues still above $100. Even a depression can't nick the nickel business.

Berlin expects the Lausanne conference to announce the end of reparation payments. Since Germany announced she would pay no more and has failed to provide for reparations in her forthcoming budget, why all this verbigeration?

While the Senate is considering in secret a new and deadly weapon of destruction, it should not overlook the fact that there is a time fuse attached to the tax dynamite mixed by the House.

Now that bonus advocates are frankly proposing the payment through inflation and adulterated money, the question will be more readily disposed of.

Senator Pat Harrison probably had little to do with the selection of his name, but it is a cold day when he can't pat himself on the back.

Those consistent senators are titillated to titters over the inclusion of nonproductive import duties in a tax bill by an incoherent House.

The Pan-American Conference is to be postponed until there is a possibility of considering other topics besides panning American bankers for loaning too much money on inadequate security.

Also upon occasion Secretary Mills is not afraid to speak the conviction of his courage.

Prexy Butler will have to stop his theoretical excursions into internationalism and Republican reformations to learn whether 30,000 Columbia students can be wrong about the expulsion of their young editor.

Plain-clothes traffic inspectors are suggested, but they would need to be proficient in performing a transformation act to protect them from being mistaken for holdup men.

A tax on losses might make folks more careful about their investments.

WASHINGTON'S SPELLING.

George Washington had great natural gifts of expression, but he was sometimes "a bad speller." He lived in a time when the English language was still in a formative state, when English grammar and rhetoric were far less rigidly defined than they are now and when spelling and pronunciation were far more amenable to personal choice and taste. He lived in the days before Noah Webster compiled his famous dictionary. Viewed in the light of these facts, it is of little consequence that he wrote "rheam of paper," "beaver hatt," "a suit of cloaths," "a pair of sattin shoes," and so forth. Washington was by nature a cultivated man. His schooling was of small consequence, but he had an inborn capacity to hold his own with professional scholars, however pedantic.

He Never Builds Any Bridges Until He Loses Faith in Fairies.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE rulers of the world are its realists.

And, by the same token, a boy taught to be a realist is a boy well started on the way to success and shielded from the wiles of the wicked.

There are but two classes of people in the world—the realists and the romanticists, the leaders and the led, the practical and the gullible.

The stupid are romanticists, but it doesn't follow that all romanticists are stupid. They may be victims of environment and foolish example.

The romanticists comprise the unfortunate group commonly called "suckers." They are fodder for the world's confidence men. They are guided by faith and hope, never by reason.

They delight in superlatives and tall tales. They accept at face value the most improbable rumors; the more unreasonable a gossip's tale, the more willingly they swallow it; the wilder the prophecy, the more readily they believe it.

They are the people who support and proclaim strange isms. They are the enthusiasts who injure every good cause by their excesses; they are the "lunatic fringe" abominated by Roosevelt.

Their beliefs are fathered by desire. They have no regard for facts that discount their dreams. They send committees to stop the march of armies.

They are good-hearted, well-meaning folk, but their disregard of stubborn facts and their enthusiasm for the impossible make them a stumbling block in the way of all progress.

The world needs its dreamers and idealists, but one can dream of better things and advocate the highest of ideals without losing touch with reality.

There is no virtue in being a simpleton.

Being a realist doesn't require being a cynic or a smart Aleck. You need not say "Oh, yeah?" or "Nerts!" to show how wise you are. Refusing to believe anything is just as silly as the habit of believing everything.

The mind of the realist is the mind of a scientist. He reserves judgment until he gets the evidence. He has a passion for truth.

The truth is realism. And in a world of blind prejudice and unthinking partisanship, it is the truth that makes men free.

A War to Be Encouraged.
Brooklyn Eagle.

President Hoover's special message urging Congress to create a board to map "a complete program of national economy" has started the kind of war that should be encouraged. When he proposes bigger slashes in the budget than those recommended by the House he deserves the hearty applause of the country. But Congress can win similar plaudits by meeting the President's proposals more than half way.

All that President Hoover has to say about the urgency of drastic reductions in Federal expenditures is incontrovertible. The country can not, and will not, stand for a continuance of peace-time budgets of over $4,000,000,000. This public spending is on a scale matching the bull market days when the country's income was four or five times what it is today.

Senator Robinson's criticism of the President's message was hasty and ill-considered. It is surprising to find senators complaining that the Chief Executive is passing over his functions to them. They are usually eager enough to assume such functions. What Mr. Hoover has proposed goes quite beyond the ordinary business of budget making.

Well, it is hard to explain, but it must be that Mr. Curry's organization has some little influence with the New York voters.

Inconsistent Democrats.
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The Democratic attitude of resentment toward President Hoover's special economy message is most inconsistent. When he asked, last February, for blanket authority "under proper safeguards" to reorganize the departments and bureaus and eliminate many useless independent agencies, Speaker Garner asserted that he was "trying to steal our thunder" and other Democratic leaders declared that they would take the matter in hand without the President's "interference." Now when the President asks for the active cooperation by Congress in a drastic economy program and suggests as the first step the organization of a joint committee to work with him and put through this long-delayed reform, he is accused of trying to shirk his responsibility with regard to budget-making.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Many Needless Expenditures in Government Departments Should Be Exposed, Says Attorney Garrett.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your article in The Post of April 4, 1932, entitled "Throwing Money Away in Washington" is one which is very helpful to the American people at this time.

It is my opinion that if additional study along this line were given and investigation made along similar lines you would find that innumerable minor Government officials are furnished automobile transportation in Packard cars and others similarly priced to and from their offices, which expense is borne by the people of the country, and which is an expense not in keeping with the importance and necessities of the officials involved.

The District of Columbia expenditures could likewise be gone into, and I think many facts would be unearthed to the surprise of the taxpayer.

You newspaper men are in a peculiarly advantageous position to aid the taxpayer of the Nation and this city, not in howling as some do about taxes to be paid by the taxpayer, but in investigating and giving publicity to the innumerable economies which should and could be effected without any detriment to the public service received.

I trust that you will find it possible to go further into these matters and inform the public concerning them. CLYDE D. GARRETT.

Reader Demands Punishment of Bus and Taxi Drivers Who Violate Traffic Rules.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read with much interest your editorial on the bus situation in Washington and suburbs, and find your comments alive with common sense and justice.

Not only should bus drivers be severely punished for violating traffic rules, but the company should be forced to pay heavy damages to the injured passengers and the families of those who were killed. Perhaps they will then learn to employ responsible drivers. I also recommend drastic action with offending taxi drivers, who also have no regard for human life and rights.

Trolley Cars Cause of Noise in Washington, Protesting Reader Declares.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Washington ought to be a quiet city in the evening, but it isn't. A good deal of the noise which renders hideous the leisure hours of the day is caused by trolley cars.

However, a trolley need not be noisy. The motormen are to blame in some instances. They throw on and turn off the power so abruptly that the cars literally bounce; they crash over intersections regardless of the comfort of passengers and of the thunderous din of steel contacting with steel.

But the trolley company is responsible for flat wheels, and flat wheels are many. They can be corrected, and they should be.

Columbus Did Not Land at Watlings, Says Old Historian, Quoting Scientist.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: School children are taught to believe that Christopher Columbus first trod the soil of the Western Hemisphere at Watlings Island, in the Bahamas. The navigator spoke of the isle as being heavily wooded. Now comes David Fairchild, botanist and explorer, to render the verdict of science that Watlings never had any proper trees. Ergo, another historical myth dissolves before the logic of common sense.

To some people the matter is without importance. The landing place of Leif Ericsson is the one they want to find. OLD HISTORIAN.

High Backs on Buses.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have ridden in the Chevy Chase buses a good many times, and have often thought how dangerous those seats with high backs would be in case of an accident. It seems quite probable that the death list, as well as the injured list, were both larger last Friday on account of those seats. As a result of the tragedy it is to be hoped that the bus company officials will see fit to do away with seats with unnecessarily high backs on their coaches. D. A. B.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

RUINS.

Since ever man began to think, 'tis plain as plain can be,
That he has chiseled things on stone for other men to see,
And he has spent his precious time
whatever gain he'd lose,
Perpetuating truths he'd learned for other men to use.

Strange races of the by-gone times have labored side by side,
To leave some lasting proof on earth
that they have lived and died,
And when a pretty tale was told or came some daring deed,
They needs must chisel it in stone for other men to read.

They've builded temples to their faiths, and clearly it appears
All men have struggled to outlive the devastating years.
Knowing that they must go away
they tried to leave behind
Some record of the things they'd learned for other men to find.

They might have lived in peace and died, and gone their ways alone,
But for that urge which prompted them to chisel truths in stone.
And now how heavy seems the cost
they paid in wealth and pain,
To glorify their curious gods and monument their slain.

NEW FRENCH ATTACK ON DOLLAR STARTED

Value Sags on Paris Market After Launching of Violent Drive.

Paris, April 7 (U.P.).—A new and more violent attack on the American dollar was launched today in Paris.

As a result of the antidollar campaign the dollar sagged in late trading to 25.32 francs, below the gold point, although it was significant that it previously had closed officially at 25.35.

The campaign was climaxed by an article in the newspaper l'Ordre, owned by the French steel interests, which contended that a large American bank had ceased payments. The article was false and considered unusually brazen as compared to previous underhanded attacks on the dollar since last November.

The Paris branch of the bank in question appealed to the United States Embassy, asking that the State Department be notified. The attention of Premier Andre Tardieu also was called to the article.

Nevertheless, afternoon newspapers published rumors that three large New York banks were in difficulties. The anti-American newspaper, Journal des Debats, asserted that the decline of the dollar foreshadows "an immediate gold embargo," which would mean abandonment of the gold standard in the United States.

At the same time the Journal du Commerce devoted its entire front page to articles disparaging to the United States, particularly in connection with American reaction to the economic and financial crisis.

"Their inordinate pride, their ignorance of the outside world, has led the people of the United States to a fatal position in which their prosperity depends upon the rest of the world, whereas they formerly believed that the prosperity of the rest of the world depended upon the United States."

The antidollar campaign was perhaps more violent and more widespread than at any other time since last summer's financial crisis, which later led to a series of attacks on American currency throughout Europe.

It was the first time that obviously false and misleading statements had been published as facts and also was believed to be the first time American interests had been led to appeal to governmental authorities against such misstatements.

Princess May Become Nun As Romance Again Breaks

Princess Beatrice, daughter of Alfonso, exiled King of Spain, was to have been married to Don Antonio Alvaro de Orleans (inset) in July. Don Antonio is the son of Don Alfonso of Orleans.

Prince Alvaro "Unable" to Quit Studies to Wed Alfonso's Daughter.

Fontainebleau, France, April 7 (U.P.).—The wedding plans of Princess Beatrice, daughter of the exiled King of Spain, were disrupted again today and friends of the princess expressed the belief that recent disappointment in her romance with Prince Alvaro might lead her to enter a convent.

The princess has often said she might become a nun, her friends disclosed, and it was believed that new difficulties in the way of her marriage might strengthen this desire.

The wedding, informally scheduled for July, was indefinitely postponed after the prince, who is Princess Beatrice's cousin, had visited Fontainebleau. The reason given was that Prince Alvaro is unable to leave his engineering studies in Switzerland in July because of examinations at that time.

It was understood King Alfonso had not yet been informed of the situation. The former monarch had intended to announce the marriage date upon his return from Dartmouth next Sunday.

Princess Beatrice, who previously had great difficulty in persuading her father to consent to the engagement, was said to be greatly upset by the postponement.

In an effort to overcome her disappointment, the princess accepted an invitation to visit Queen Elena of Italy and will leave for Rome on April 15. She will be accompanied by her sister, Princess Christina, who has been reported engaged to her cousin, Prince Alfonso de Bourbon-Orleans, brother of Prince Alvaro.

In accordance with a family tradition, Prince Alvaro could not marry without the former king's consent, which would force him to ask permission of Alfonso if his engagement to Princess Beatrice is permanently broken and he should desire to marry someone else.

It was learned that negotiations for engagement of the king's eldest son, Prince of Asturia, to Kyra, daughter of the Russian Grand Duke Cyril, had been dropped.

RECAPTURE CLAUSE REPEAL IS FAVORED

House Committee Votes for Action on Law as Aid to Railroads.

(Associated Press.)

The House commerce committee yesterday voted to lift a possible $361,466,815 burden from hard-pressed railroads by abolishing the law requiring them to pay half of their excess profits to the Government.

Chairman Rayburn said an "overwhelming majority" of the committee approved retroactive repeal of the recapture clause of section 15-A of the 1920 transportation act.

At the same time, he asserted there was an unanimous vote for a provision in his bill to establish a new rate-making base under which the Interstate Commerce Commission, if it chose, could ignore valuations. He promised prompt action in the House and Speaker Garner indicated he favored the bill.

The law requires all carriers to pay into a revolving contingent fund one-half of the profits amounting to more than 5¾ per cent of the value of their property. They have paid—most of them under protest—$10,679,085. Interest has increased the fund to more than $13,000,000.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has estimated it would find the railroads owing the fund $361,465,815 more. Of this amount $336,443,378, it figured, would come from class 1 railroads, $15,929,742 from class 2, $2,259,036 from class 3 and $6,833,659 from class 4.

Repeal would relieve the roads of the possible necessity of paying these amounts in the future and entitle them to refunds money they already have paid. The committee has not yet decided what to do with the $3,000,000 interest that has accumulated in the fund.

The new rate provision would let the commission set charges without consideration of value. The law requires the commission to set "just and reasonable rates" so carriers can "earn an aggregate net railway operating income equal, as nearly as may be, to a fair return upon the aggregate value of the railway property."

Gypsy Slayer Sentenced for Life.

Los Angeles, April 7 (A.P.).—Louis Adams, a gypsy who was convicted of second degree murder for the slaying of his wife, Princess Annie Adams, during a quarrel with her over their separation, was sentenced to prison today by Superior Judge C. S. Burnell, who recommended the maximum penalty of life. Adams said Princess Annie was shot while he was scuffling with her brother, John Uwanawich, who, he said, took her away after Adams had paid $1,750 for her.

Moscow Charges Poles With Terroristic Plots

Moscow, April 7 (A.P.).—The Soviet newspapers Pravday and Izwestia today charged that persons "hiding in Polish diplomatic uniforms have directed terroristic plots on Soviet territory."

Voicing the first reaction of Soviet officialdom to the trials of Judas Stern and Sergei Vassiliev, the newspapers' articles were regarded as a veiled warning to the neighboring republic to put down anti-Soviet provocation.

TWO RAIL SYSTEMS IN SOUTH APPRAISED

I. C. C. Announces Valuation Figures of Seaboard Air Line and Southern.

(Associated Press.)

Basic valuations—the figures on which freight rates are predicated—of two important Southern railroad properties yesterday were announced by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The statement fixed the value of the Southern Railway System on the valuation dates—three being used for different portions—at $475,188,476 and of the Seaboard Air Line on June 30, 1918, at $141,550,275.

The figures included only property used for common carrier purposes and consequently figuring in rate making values. Each company owns other property, which was not included.

40 Leased Lines Held.

The Southern Railway System at the time of valuation was composed of the Southern Railway Co. and 40 leased lines. The valuation of the Southern and a group of 29 leased lines was fixed by the commission as of June 30, 1916.

The Southern Co. itself was valued at $256,680,000, excluding $4,265,421 of property owned but not used for common carrier purposes and of the group of 29 leased lines at $100,859,221.

The Woodstock & Blocton Railroad, a leased line, was valued at $295,200 as of June 30, 1917. The remainder of the total consisted of a value of $115,689,255 as of June 30, 1918, for the Harriman & Northeastern Railroad Co., the Cincinnati, Burnside & Cumberland River Railway Co., the Alabama Great Southern, the Belt Railway Co. of Chattanooga, the Chattanooga Terminal Railway Co., the New Orleans & Northeastern, the New Orleans Terminal Co., the Carolina & Northwestern Railway, the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific, and the Cincinnati Southern.

WILKERSON DETAILS CAPONE TRIAL STORY

Judge, in Letter to Senate Group, Denies Rejection of Guilty Pleas.

(Associated Press.)

The story of Al Capone's conviction was told to a Senate committee yesterday by Judge James H. Wilkerson, who sentenced him to eleven years in the penitentiary.

Wilkerson said he allowed the gangster's pleas of guilty to be withdrawn because Capone's counsel claimed that under them the court was bound to limit the sentence to two and one-half years.

The Chicago judge explained the circumstances of the case in a letter to the Senate judiciary committee which is considering his nomination to the circuit court.

Wilkerson said he had given District Attorney Johnson permission to recommend a two and one-half-year sentence, "subject to such action as would be taken after a hearing of the facts in open court."

"When the cases were called for hearing," he said, "there was a sharp disagreement between the attorneys for the Government and those for the defense as to the conditions under which the pleas were entered.

"The attorneys for the Government were ready to proceed with a presentation of the facts, as is usual when the court is imposing sentences either with or without a recommendation from the prosecutor.

"The attorneys for the defendant claimed to have an agreement with the Government to the effect that their pleas were not to stand unless the recommendation was unqualifiedly followed by the court, that evidence was not to be heard by the court and that the defendant was not to be questioned by the court.

"The attorneys for the Government denied that they had made such an agreement. After some discussion, the court, exercising its discretion in defendant's favor, allowed the pleas to be withdrawn."

Wilkerson denied that he had rejected the pleas of guilty or disregarded the Government's recommendation.

"The hearing did not reach the point where the court was required to decide whether or not it would accept the Government's suggestion," he said.

Wilkerson's statement checked with the testimony before the committee last week by Johnson. The district attorney told the committee he realized the court was not bound by his recommendation and said he believed Wilkerson had done right.

Receipt of the letter completes the committee's inquiry into Wilkerson's qualification for office. A meeting is to be held within a day or two to vote on the nomination.

Woman's Council Will Meet Today

Church Group Will Hold Session; Addresses Are on Program.

The annual "ingathering" of the Woman's Council of the Federation of Churches will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the National City Christian Church, on Thomas Circle. Because of the illness of Mrs. Harvey S. Irwin, president of the council, Mrs. H. M. Kendrick, the first vice president, will serve as chairman.

Dr. Earl Wilfrey, pastor emeritus of the entertaining church and former president of the federation, will give the address of welcome. One of the features will be a solo by Justin Lawrie, musical director of Foundry Methodist Church. The organist will be Mrs. James S. Montgomery. The devotional service will be conducted by Mrs. H. E. Beatty.

The address of the occasion will be by Mrs. John Ferguson, of New York City, president of the National Council of Federated Church Women. An interesting feature will be the presentation of "funds and flowers" by representatives of the various denominations. The money contributed will be used for the purpose of maintaining the work in the Juvenile Court and the hospitals here.

Idle Aid Meeting To Be Held Sunday

Monday Evening Club to Sponsor Session for Jobless Relief.

A mass meeting in the interest of the 20,000 unemployed persons of the District will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building, under auspices of the employment stabilization committee of the Monday Evening Club.

The unemployment situation and steps necessary to bring about relief will be explained by leaders of charitable and welfare organizations here.

Dr. Frederick W. Perkins, president of the Council of Social Agencies, will preside, and speakers will include Walter S. Ufford, of the Associated Charities; Mrs. Charles H. Goldsmith, of the Hebrew Relief Society, and, it is expected, a spokesman for the District Commissioners.

U. S. Trade Body Hits Further Ban on Aliens

(Associated Press.)

A committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States yesterday issued a report opposing pending legislation for further immigration restriction on the ground that it threatens to establish a permanent policy instead of being limited to the present emergency period.

The bill, awaiting action in the House, provides for a reduction of alien entries to 10 per cent of the existing annual quota of each nation and extends the quota system of regulating immigration to Western Hemisphere countries including Canada and Mexico. The chamber committee suggested a three-year limit for the legislation. The report will be presented to the annual meeting of the organization in San Francisco next month.

Future Farmer Heads Visit President Today

Officers of the Future Farmers of America, representing boys in five States who are studying vocational agriculture, will be presented to President Hoover today at the opening of their four-day meeting at the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

Plans for the fifth national convention of the organization, to be held in November, are nearing completion. The business meetings of the conference will be interspersed with sight-seeing trips around Washington.

Washington Cleric Chaplains' Official

Rev. Howard E. Snyder Is New Vice President of Army Group.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, April 7.—The Rev. Gustav Stearns, of Milwaukee, Wis., was elected president of the Chaplains Association of the Army of the United States today, to succeed Mgr. William Hughes, of Washington.

The Rev. Howard E. Snyder, of Washington, was elected vice president, and the Rev. Donald H. Gerrish, of East Orange, N. J., secretary-treasurer. New members of the executive staff include the Rev. Mr. Gerrish, the Rev. Daniel Lynch, of Boston, and the Rev. Dr. Paul Dwight Moody, president of Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt.

National Balloon Race Will Be Held in Omaha

(Associated Press.)

President Hiram Bingham of the National Aeronautic Association has announced the 1932 national balloon race will be held at Omaha in connection with the second annual Omaha air races, May 27-30 at Omaha Municipal Airport.

Following the long-standing custom, the winner of the race will have the opportunity of becoming one of the balloon team to represent the United States in the international balloon race for the Gordon Bennett Cup to be held September 25 at Basel, Switzerland. Three Army balloons are expected to compete in this year's national race and two Goodyear balloons have been entered.

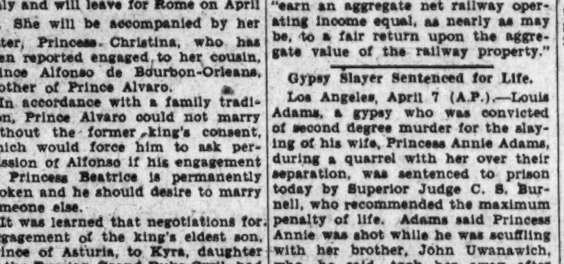
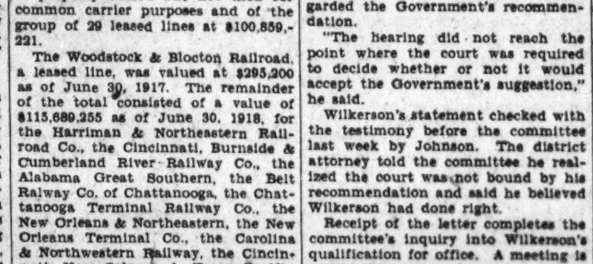
THE NEWEST
Motor Car Style
Slip-Stream Design





Come to our showroom and see a really different motor car style—the Slip-Stream body. It's new. It's modern. It's unusually beautiful.

Along with its new distinction in appearance it has the great value of actually making Nash performance even finer because of its aerodynamic design.

Frontal air resistance is reduced by the V-radiator and sloping windshield for their aerodynamic contours go "with" the wind instead of "against" it as do the old-style snub-nose radiator and upright windshield.

At the same time the body taper and Beavertail back minimize rear end "hold-back," because Nash slip-streams the rear as well as the front.

Thus power-waste is avoided and miles are added to Nash top speed.

All new Nash models are longer in wheelbase, with greater power and greater speed, and so low even with no decrease in head room and road clearance that the width is considerably greater than its height—a contribution to greater safety.

Prices at the factory range from $777 to $2055. Wheelbases from 116 to 142 inches.

"Centrifuse" Brake Drums
Steel supports cast iron drums of special formula in all Eights. Assures trouble-free service and softer and more positive brake action.

Full-Range Ride Control
A lever enables you instantly to regulate your travel-comfort, regardless of road, or load, speed, or temperature. (All models.)

X-Dual Frame, Super-rigid
Strongest type of frame. The massive inside girders extend practically entire length of chassis, giving car, virtually, a double frame. (All models)

Underslung Worm Drive Axle
Lowers center of gravity without decreasing head room or road clearance. (Ambassador, Advanced, and Special Eights.)

President and Mrs. Hoover Entertain at Dinner for Admiral and Mrs. Sims; Herridge Host to Vice President.

PRESIDENT AND MRS HOOVER entertained a company at dinner last evening in compliment to Admiral and Mrs. William S. Sims, who are spending a few days at the White House. The other guests were the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams, Mrs. William V. Pratt, Rear Admiral and Mrs. H. I. Cone, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Ridley McLean, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Thomas C. Hart, Rear Admiral Walton R. Sexton, Capt. and Mrs. Dudley W. Knox, Capt. and Mrs. Frank D. Berrien, Capt. and Mrs. Emory S. Land, Capt. and Mrs. Harold R. Stark, Chaplain Sydney K. Evans, Commander and Mrs. Ralph C. Parker, Dr. and Mrs. William Holland Wilmer, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke, Miss Gertrude W. Myer, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Mrs. Paul Shoup, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Corcoran Thom, Capt. and Mrs. Charles Russell Train, Col. Campbell B. Hodges and Dr. and Mrs. Joel T. Boone.

The table was beautiful with its gold service and mounds and vases of pink roses, pink snapdragons, and gloriosum fern scattered over the cloth.

Eight hundred women, presumably all Republicans, lunched yesterday at the Willard as members and guests of the Republican Women's League of the District of Columbia, when Mrs. Hoover was their guest of honor. Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, wife of the former representative from Wyoming, president of the league, received the company in the small ballroom, assisted by Mrs. Gann, sister of the Vice President. The luncheon was served in the large ballroom adjoining, Mrs. Mondell presiding.

Mrs. Hoover and her house guest, Mrs. William S. Sims, arrived promptly after the guests were seated. Mrs. Hoover was escorted to the seat of honor at the speakers' table by Miss Clara McQuon and Miss Edna Patton amid much enthusiasm. The ballroom looked like a garden in spring, between the fresh flowers on the tables and the spring gowns and hats of bright colors worn by the company. The speakers' table was a very long one, and one man was seated there, the Secretary of the Interior, Ray Lyman Wilbur, who was the principal speaker after Mrs. Hoover. The others of the huge company were seated at tables accommodating ten, which filled the ballroom.

When the dessert was reached on the menu it was brought in, Willard fashion, by the waiters in formal parade from the pantries, the ices set on spur sugar, lighted from underneath. The leader yesterday carried a large elephant made of clear, dripping ice, all he could carry, and it was the cause of much merriment. A wag at one of the tables near the speakers asked, "Is this a frozen asset?" More merriment.

Mrs. Mondell made a very happy speech of welcome, at the close of which she read a greeting to the league from President Hoover, and announced the gift of an autographed portrait of him sent to hang in the league's handsome headquarters on Thomas Circle. There was one hitch. Mrs. Mondell started to read the President's letter of cordial greeting, but she stopped short in the middle, hesitated, and then exclaimed, "Well, I just can't read it!" She was greatly chagrined and made several efforts, until Mrs. Hoover came to the rescue and easily deciphered her husband's chirography. Mrs. Mondell then presented Mrs. Hoover, who made a short but graceful little speech in a clear, telling voice, with clear enunciation. Secretary Wilbur followed, and the other speakers were Mrs. Gann, Mrs. Alvin T. Hert and Mrs. Ellis A. Yost. Mrs. Virginia White Speel was scheduled as a speaker, but unfortunately was detained at home by illness.

Justin Lawrie, New York tenor, sang a group of interesting songs, accompanied by Winifred McCall Lawrie.

Precedent was disregarded in the seating of the guests of honor and speakers, so that Cabinet hostesses were mixed up with unofficial hostesses and officers of the league. Mrs. Mondell had at her right Mrs. Hoover and at her left Mrs. Gann. Others at that table were Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury; Mrs. Hurley, wife of the Secretary of War; Mrs. Mitchell, wife of the Attorney General; Mrs. Brown, wife of the Postmaster General; Mrs Adams, wife of the Secretary of the Navy; Mrs. Wilbur, wife of the Secretary of the Interior; Mrs Hyde, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture; Mrs. Lamont, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, and Mrs. Doak wife of the Secretary of Labor. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, of Kentucky, vice chairman of the Republican national committee; Mrs. Ellis Yost, director of Women's Division; Mrs. W. Reginald Baker, national committeewoman from New Jersey; Mrs. Paul Newman, national committeewoman from South Dakota; Mrs. Virginia White Speel, national committeewoman, District of Columbia; Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, national committeewoman from Massachusetts; Mrs. Wilmer Sinclair Levan, national committeewoman from Ohio; Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons, national committeewoman from Rhode Island; Mrs. Jacob Baur, national committeewoman from Illinois; Mrs Calvin Gabriel, vice chairman Republican State committee of Maryland; Mrs. Murray Boocock, vice chairman Republican State committee of Virginia; Mrs. Robert W Irvine, president Women's Auxiliary of the National Republican Club, of New Orleans; Mrs. C. L. Barber, president Republican Women's Federation, Lansing, Mich.; Mrs. Charles H. Tuttle, president New York State Woman's Republican Club, New York; Mrs. Helen C. Springer, president Republican Business Women, New York City; Mrs. Carl H. Wilson, president Ohio Council of Republican Women, Medina, Ohio; Mrs. Katharine V. Parker, president Women's Republican Club, Boston; Mrs. George H. Lorimer, president Republican Women of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia; Mrs. George E. Viles, president Women's State Republican Club, Trenton, N. J.; Mrs. Lula E. Powell, president Federation of Republican Women, Baltimore; Miss S. M. R. O'Hara, president Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Mrs. Mary Colt'Gross, president Women's Republican Club, of Providence, R. I., and Mrs. Paul Shoup, guest of Mrs. Wilbur.

Others at the table were Mrs. Luther Reichelderfer, Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, Mrs. Harry K. Daugherty and Mrs. Edward A. Keyes, vice presidents of the league, and Mrs. E. A. Harriman, former president of the league, who served for several years.

The Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, was the guest of honor at a dinner given last evening by the Canadian Minister, Mr. William Duncan Herridge. In the absence of Mrs. Herridge, Mrs. Hume Wrong, wife of the counselor of the legation, acted as hostess.

The other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Robert P. Lamont, the Egyptian Minister, Sesostris Sidarouss Pasha; the Siamese Minister, Mr. Phya Subarn Sompati; the United States Minister to Canada and Mrs. Hanford MacNider, who are guests at the Canadian Legation; Representative Charles Eaton, the Chief of Staff, U. S. A., Gen. Douglas MacArthur; the first secretary of the British Embassy and Mrs. Terrence A. Shone, the Commercial Secretary of the British Embassy and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart, the Rev. # ALEXANDRIA COUNCIL IS LEFT BY LAMOND

Defeat of Government Form He Upheld Is Cited as One of Reasons.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 933.

Councilman Clyde C. Lamond, whose term would have expired September 1, 1934, submitted his resignation to the council yesterday, and it was accepted, with expressions of regret.

In his resignation Mr. Lamond stated two reason which actuated him: First, that he had been elected under a form of city government which had recently been repudiated by the voters, and, he therefore felt it would be inconsistent for him to hold office under a form of government of which he did not approve; second, that he has recently removed his residence outside the city limits and that, while he still retained interests in the city, he was not an actual resident.

A resolution appropriating $300 for construction of an auxiliary culvert across Russell road south of the St. Agnes School for Girls was approved, as was one appropriating $600 for the construction of a concrete curb and gutter on the Maury School grounds.

A resolution appropriating $1,000 for additional expenses in connection with the parade to be held May 12, during the dedication of the George Washington Masonic Memorial Temple, was held over under the rules. This amount is required for the construction of a reviewing stand and the employment of additional police. A resolution previously introduced, appropriating $11,733.39 for payment to the United States Department of Agriculture for the city's part of the cost of the reconstruction of Washington street, was formally approved. This includes bills rendered to June 30, 1931, only.

Rezoning Pleas Received.

Communications of V. Ward Boswell relative to the rezoning of property on the southwest corner of Washington and Jefferson streets; B. B. Earine and James Murphy for rezoning a strip of land abutting on Washington street from Franklin to Jefferson street, and John M. Tregar for permission to operate a dry goods store at 319 North Henry street, were received and these applications will be advertised for a public hearing on April 28.

Permission was requested by the General Outdoor Advertising Co. to reerect two signs which had been blown down by the recent storm, one on the Jefferson Davis highway near the Potomac Yards, and the other at Diagonal road and Duke street. The city manager was instructed to inform the company that the city ordinance prohibits the reerection of these signs.

A petition was received from residents of East Raymond avenue, Mount Vernon avenue and Hume avenue, relative to drainage conditions after heavy rains. The city manager stated he has under way a survey of the conditions complained of, and will report the result of this survey at the next meeting.

A request from Wallace Lindsey and C. C. Lamond for permit to operate a gasoline filling station at the northwest corner of Washington and Mount Vernon avenues, was granted, it appearing that this location already had a filling station permit which had been inactive.

Signs Request Refused.

A communication from J. E. Walker, manager of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, requesting permission to reerect a sign at 708 North Washington street and a permit to erect a sign on the 500 block South Washington street was received and the request denied, since such signs do not conform to existing ordinances.

Attorney R. Lindsey Carne appeared in behalf of Samuel Arnell, who complained of drainage conditions on his property near the North Braddock station, stating that a ditch recently constructed by the city prevented access to his property. The city manager stated a driveway into Mr. Arnell's property would be constructed by the city as soon as he was advised of the location desired for such driveway.

Councilman Dwyer presented a request from members of the police department for permission to sell tickets on the streets to a baseball game, the proceeds to go toward the purchase of uniforms for the police department team. Permission was granted for one game, the date to be announced.

Mrs. Augusta Everett, widow of David Everett, died on Wednesday night at her home, 217 North Payne street. She was a native of St. Catherines, Ontario, Canada. She is survived by three children, Harold Everett and Miss Nellie Everett, of Alexandria, and Mrs. Florence Sothcott, of Barker, N. Y.; two sisters, Mrs. George Reyb, Sanborn, N. Y., and Mrs. Alice Harner, St. Catherines, Canada, and two brothers, Charles Ryckman, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Harry E. Ryckman, of Canada.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Cunningham funeral home, 909 Cameron street, conducted by the Rev. Dr. William B. McIlwaine, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Miss Annie B. Rutherford, aged 56 years, a native of Fauquier County, Va., died on Wednesday night at her home, 210 South Pitt street. The funeral will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Cunningham funeral home, with burial in Bethel Cemetery.

---

Joseph M. Rogers, a World War veteran, died on Wednesday in the Naval Hospital, Washington. Funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from Beulah Church, Fairfax County, with burial in the church cemetery. He is survived by his widow and seven children.

New Prince Georges Treasurer Sworn In

Thomas N. Magruder, of Marlboro, was sworn in yesterday as new treasurer of Prince Georges County after his bond of $85,000 had been approved at a special meeting of the county commissioners. Mr. Magruder took the oath of office from Brice Bowie, new clerk of the circuit court. Mr. Bowie was treasurer until he resigned recently on being appointed clerk of the court in place of Summerfield D. Hall, who died Monday.

Of Mr. Magruder's bond, $50,000 is for the protection of county funds, while $35,000 protects State taxes as collects.

Another Link in Arlington Bridge to Open Tomorrow

Roadway on Virginia Side Leading to East Gate of Cemetery Finished; Memorial Project Is Three Months Ahead of Schedule.

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Cla. 509. Clarendon, Va.

One more section of the Arlington Memorial Bridge development will be opened for public use tomorrow, according to an announcement made yesterday by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission.

Providing the weather continues favorable it is planned to open the new gravel roadway leading from the boundary channel bridge on the Virginia side to the east gate of the Arlington National Cemetery.

Work on the entire project is going ahead steadily and within a month bids will be opened on the laying of the granite for the monument which forms the western terminus of the bridge development at the east end of the Arlington National Cemetery.

Immediate opening of the bridge is announced in a letter to Arthur Orr, president of the Arlington County Bicentennial Council.

Col. Grant extends an invitation to the members of the executive committee of the council to meet him tomorrow at 2 o'clock at the cemetery at the head of the temporary roadway leading to the bridge, when they will go over it preparatory to its being opened to the public.

Officials of the Arlington County Bicentennial Council are credited with having brought about the opening of the bridge three months earlier than had been originally planned by the bridge commission. Due to delays in completing the railroad overpass and the question of the best type of pavement for the roadway from the Virginia end of the bridge to the cemetery, the commission did not expect to open the bridge from the Virginia end until July 1.

Upon representations from Bicentennial council officials that such a long delay would be likely to invoke criticism from thousands of Bicentennial visitors, Col. Grant and the bridge commission decided upon the expedient of a temporary roadway. This road is now ready to open to traffic, according to Col. Grant's letter.

Members of the executive committee of the council who will meet Col Grant are:

Arthur Orr, chairman; Mrs. Dorothy Dunn, secretary; Albert H. Cohen, treasurer; Robert N. Anderson and Louis C. Carl, together with one representative from each organization affiliated with the council, as follows:

American Legion, George D. Ricker; American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. DeLans Robertson; Arlington County government, Harry A. Fellows; Arlington County Ministerial Union, the Rev. Elmer Lucas; Arlington County public schools, Fletcher Kemp; Boy Scouts, William A. Van Doren, jr; Business and Professional Woman's Club, Mrs. Katherine G. Cohen; Chamber of Commerce, F. S. Loos; Civic Federation, Mrs. Ruby G. Simpson; Creative Arts Club, Mrs. Sade Catherine Coles; Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Ellen S. Wallis; Daughters of Isabella, Mrs. Ida Frank; Garden Club, Miss Evelyn B. Cannon; Girl Scouts, Mrs. Stanton Moore; Kiwanis Club, Amos C. Crounse; Knights of Columbus, the Rev. J. A. Curran; Masonic Order, Freeland F. Chew; Monarch Club, A. J. Porter; Odd Fellows, William J. Bragg; Order of the Eastern Star, Mrs. Martha Rauh; Organized Women Voters, Mrs. Florence E. Cannon; Parent-Teacher Council, F. P. Dewey; Rebekah Lodge, Mrs. Eula Clements; Rotary Club, A. F. Thelander, and United Daughters of the Confederacy, Mrs. Eula T. Maffett.

OFFUTT IS SELECTED SANITARY INSPECTOR

Roby Is Named Supervisor of Montgomery County Aid by Commission.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post.
9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md.
Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

William Ernest Offutt, of Rockville, Md., was appointed sanitary inspector for the new county health department, and Odorion W. Roby, of Silver Spring, Md., was appointed supervisor of county aid yesterday by the Montgomery County Commissioners at their meeting in Rockville, Md. Mr. Offutt resigned as supervisor of county aid to accept the new post.

Mr. Offutt was graduated in civil engineering from Washington and Lee University in 1908 and for three years served as an engineer with the Yazoo and Mississippi Delta Levee Board at Clarksville, Miss., and then became attached to the Saguen Allen Engineering Co., in which his duties were supervision of construction of water works and sewage systems in Southern States. The Maryland Department of Health had requested that the sanitary inspector be an engineer in order to discharge properly his duties in the suburban section.

Mr. Roby at present is with the State Roads Commission and is a Montgomery County member of the Maryland House of Delegates. He formerly was a member of the board of county commissioners and is in a position to understand the needs of the people of the county and the laws governing public aid.

In connection with the new health department the commissioners yesterday approved the budget prepared after a series of conferences between the county authorities and the State health department in which Dr. V. L. Ellicott, newly appointed county health officer, participated. The budget will become effective April 15, when Dr. Ellicott takes office.

The budget provides for an annual outlay of $21,700 for the maintenance of the health department, of which the State will contribute $10,200, Montgomery County, $8,500, and the Federal Government $3,000. The increase by the county is $2,100 more than it formerly paid.

The commissioners approved an amendment to the building regulations for section 4, Chevy Chase, which provides that the citizens' committee may make exceptions to the rule regarding a 60-foot frontage for building permits where it finds the law to be imposing undue hardship because of topography or other reasons. The road from Sunshine to Brighton was ordered closed to travel while construction work is being carried on.

Amendments to the code of the Village of Chevy Chase, which includes section 2 and part of section 1, which provide for a health officer and building inspector, and delegate to them the usual powers of such officers, restrict parking by hucksters and commercial trucks and regulate the running at large of dogs, and makes the motor vehicle code of Maryland a part of the village code, were received by the commissioners for approval from Curtis Walker, secretary of the citizens' committee.

Douglas Appoints Aid in Arlington

R. Bleakley James Will Assist in County's Prosecutions.

With the increased work which has come to his office as a result of the present financial conditions at the Arlington County Courthouse, Lawrence W. Douglas, Commonwealth's attorney, announces that he has appointed R. Bleakley James, former attorney for the Washington & Old Dominion Railway, as his associate. Mr. Douglas stated yesterday that it was impossible for him to take care of all the duties of the office without some assistance.

Mr. James for the present will take care of prosecution of all cases coming before the county court. Mr. Douglas took office the first of the year and since has been deluged with work, the principal of which is now the matter of the alleged shortage in the offices of former County Treasurer E. Wade Ball, William H. Duncan, county clerk, and F. J. Hallock, clerk to the county school board.

POLICEMAN ESCAPES GUNFIRE THIRD TIME

Falls Church Officer Again Target of Bullets From Fleeing Auto.

Although the windshield of his car was honeycombed by a barrage of machine gun bullets from a fleeing sedan yesterday morning in a running gun duel through Falls Church, Va., Town Sergt. Paul Herrman again escaped injury.

It was the third narrow call for Herrman in recent months. On each occasion he was fired upon from an automobile. In yesterday's affair eight slugs pierced the glass of the police car, two so close that they burned his face.

The police sergeant had received a call that three men in a large sedan had robbed a man of $38 and a watch at Merrifield. He was en route there when he spotted the car coming east on the Lee highway. It had Maryland tags.

Turning the police car about he pursued and when he drew abreast a fusillade of shots ripped through it. Herrman dropped back and emptied his revolver at the car. As the two machines sped past the Falls Church Police Station the bandit car replied with another burst of bullets which zoomed through the windshield of Herrman's car.

With his gun empty and the large car rapidly outdistancing him, he abandoned the chase to flash a lookout for the car to police in Washington.

Arlington Girl Scouts Will Stage Celebration

The Arlington County Girl Scouts will hold a court of awards and Bicentennial celebration tomorrow afternoon at Washington Lee High School. The affair will be under the direction of Mrs. Stanton Moore, district chairman of the Arlington County Girl Scouts.

The first activity will be a tree planting. The tree will be presented to the school by the Girl Scouts and the planting will be followed by the awarding of 125 merit badges. Each troop will put on stunts demonstrating their efficiency. The program will be concluded with community singing, led by Harold M. Brown.

Group in Bethesda Asks Sign Removal

Committee of Chamber Asks Directors for Early Action.

Removal of the sign on Wisconsin avenue near Bradley lane which says, "You are now entering Bethesda," is asked in a resolution unanimously adopted by the industrial and retail interests committee of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce. The resolution asks the board of directors, already on record as opposing the removal of the sign, to have the sign removed as soon as possible.

The business men stated that the residents of Section 8, Leland, are boycotting them because of the sign and that they have told them they will continue boycotting them until the sign is removed. Section 8 Citizens Association has presented a petition to the board of directors asking removal of the sign. The sign has been the cause of considerable argument for about two years. The Leland residents claim they are not residents of Bethesda, but of Chevy Chase, and that the sign is misleading.

The meeting was presided over by Thomas Laffin, who was elected president of the chamber Monday.

Baby Drowning Victim Funeral Services Set

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock, at the home in Seat Pleasant, Md., for Thelma Gene Sparks, 18-month-old child, who was drowned Wednesday while playing near a shallow pool in the back yard of her parents' home. She will be buried in Addison Chapel Cemetery.

The child was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sparks, and is survived by a brother, Robert, three years old, and a sister, Mildred, four years old, besides her parents.

GAMBLING LEFT OUT OF CHARGE TO JURY

List of Judge's Instructions in Prince Georges One of Shortest in Years.

For the first time in many years an instruction to inquire into gambling in Prince Georges County was left out of the charge to the grand jury when it convened yesterday.

Circuit Court Judge Joseph C. Mattingly made no mention of gambling when he instructed the new jurors, and the charge was one of the shortest made in recent years. He gave them special instructions only in regard to narcotics and other offenses which the law requires to be mentioned in the opening address to the jury.

The house in the county which is the target of the most persistent gambling rumors has been closed for several months, although there are rumors that it will reopen about the middle of May. By this time the sessions of the jury will have closed.

The following men were chosen from the first panels as members of the grand jury, the remainder of the panel constituting the first week's petit jury: A. H. Seidenspinner, foreman; Albert Townshend, Dominic Lancaster, James H. Marshall, Bernard F. Brown, Benjamin F. Disney, William T. Beall, Vernon O. Arnold, John F. Ridgely, Franz Walzel, Raymond W. Walker, George B. Alvin, Norman F. Alsop, Arthur B. Campbell, O. B. Zantzinger, John A. Gude, John G. A. Donnell, Benjamin A. Underwood, R. P. Phibbons, Earl W. Phelps, Herbert T. Pullman, Rudolph Giese and George Fennell.

The court was occupied most of yesterday with calling the names of those under peace bonds or required to appear on the opening day of court to go before the grand jury. The grand jury is understood to have considered a statutory charge, taking place near Capitol Heights, and two burglaries in the same neighborhood, at yesterday's session. The trial of criminal appeals is expected to start today.

New Zoning Plea Lost in County

Chevy Chase Land Company Denied Change to Allow Apartments.

The Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission last night disapproved the petition of the Chevy Chase Land Co. for changes in zoning on Wisconsin avenue at the District line and in the vicinity of Chevy Chase Lake on Connecticut avenue. The company had planned to erect apartment houses and commercial establishments on the properties.

The planning commission will recommend to the Montgomery County commissioners that the petitions be disapproved. The commissioners probably will hold hearings on the applications, sitting as a district council. The land company had not submitted plans showing the types of buildings it planned to erect, commission officials said last night.

The proposals had been opposed by the civic organizations of the Bethesda and Chevy Chase area and also had been the subject of considerable discussion by business organizations. The petitions had been approved by the Rockville Chamber of Commerce and several Kensington bodies.

Highway to Fort Will Be Improved

State to Finance Work on Road to Army Post in Prince Georges.

The long and intense agitation for the improvement of the road from the Livingston road in Prince Georges County to Fort Washington bore fruit yesterday when the Maryland State Roads Commission announced that it would build a 16-foot oiled gravel roadway into the Army post.

The work will be done out of State funds, and will be started this spring, according to Maj. E. Brooke Lee, a member of the roads commission.

Lieut. Col. L. A. Kunzig, commanding officer of the fort, has appeared before the county commissioners several times before asking that the county improve the road. At one time road officials in the district stated that the bad conditions of the road was due to the number of automobiles which went over it en route to the boxing bouts at the fort.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Appropriate Clothes Are a Mark of Good Taste.

WHILE writing yesterday's article about rainy weather as a boon to the skin's beauty, and urging readers to go outdoors during light drizzles, you remember that I warned "but do dress properly." I inserted this because I had a fleeting picture of a bedraggled, ridiculous-looking creature I had seen not so long ago.

Elsie Pierce.

Being caught in a storm or shower is something we can not avoid. We may think not nice thoughts about the weather man, but are powerless to do any more about it. However, the young lady of my story was not caught in the rain. I saw her as she was leaving her home that morning, umbrella in hand. Her short fur jacket and long, trailing, thin silk dress seemed very badly mated. Her large hat seemed designed as a sun shade. A glimpse of high galoshes seemed to confirm the suspicion that she had known it was raining and was prepared for it. An automobile swished by, splashing the bottom of her dress, which, by the way, was a light shade. I pictured her arriving at school or office, a woeful looking figure, her thin dress rain-soaked and creased, her hat out of shape, her whole costume looking as though it had been through the worst stages of war.

Appropriate clothes are a mark of good taste. And studied simplicity is often the best way to play safe. Will it surprise you when I tell you of a lovely lady I know who has only a limited number of "outfits" and whose budget is extremely small. Occasion is what counts with her. For rainy weather she has a leather coat, dark blue in color and simple but chic in style. A small blue hat, tan galoshes or rubbers, tan gloves and blue umbrella complete the outfit. If the weather is chilly she wears a heavy cloth dress or sweater under the coat. For business she has three very simple and inexpensive outfits; one a semisport skirt and sweater combination which she wears for spectator or active sports, a simple suit for spring and a smart jacket dress that becomes a lovely informal dinner dress when jacket is removed which she wears to business on days when she has an appointment immediately following office hours. Needless to say, the jacket is worn at the office.

Haven't you seen the woman bound for business who was either overdressed or overmade-up and looked as though she belonged in a circus instead of an office? Or the woman who arrived on tennis court or golf links in high heels and lace, feeling she was perpetuating the feminine type? Or the woman who wore an afternoon dress at an evening function? Or a chiffon dress on a rainy day?

Know your needs and budget for them. Remember that you will not only look better but feel more comfortable if your clothes, your make-up, your accessories are appropriate to the occasion.

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF April 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to noon, from 6 p. m. to 7:15 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Astrological influences on April 8 will be propitious for most undertakings, and your efforts will not be ineffectual or impotent. Excellent time for those things which entail initiative and forceful handling. Minor illnesses are threatened, which should receive proper attention.

The child born on this April 8 will exhibit both practicality and industry in most everything he does. It will have an orderly mind and will not muddle things. It will be cool-headed at its sports and also in the more serious games of life. It will rather suppress its emotions, although it will not be unfeeling or unsympathetic.

Born on April 8, you take a business-like attitude toward life. You are not a schemer or promoter, but blue-prints in hand, you can carry out with success any work which appeals to you. You are often able to bring order out of chaos, or to turn others' failures into successes. Your work is not that of a genius, and you only reach your goals through your steady, industrious persistency. You become rather self-centered and selfish through the close pursuit of your aims. You are not thoughtless or selfish at heart, but through absorption in your own interest do not notice the many small acts of courtesy or kindness which you could do for others in order to give pleasure and happiness.

You will never be bound down by poverty, and on the other hand no great wealth is foreseen. You are not a hoarder, and like to spend as you go along, each day enjoying your customary comforts and those luxuries which you can afford.

You have an inborn respect for law and order, and are conventional minded. If you have any vices, you hypocritically try to hide them from the world in general. You believe in the eleventh commandment, "Thou shalt not be found out." You should have a natural immunity to most diseases, but will always be rather nervous about your health.

Successful people born April 8:

David Rittenhouse, astronomer.

Howell E. Jackson, a justice of the United States Supreme Court.

Irving R. Wiles, artist.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Introducing the sports note into evening wear, with buttons and wrap-around lines. (A Paris model.)

NEW YORK, April 7.—A reader asks me if I do really believe in making one's own dresses. Of course I do, under certain conditions, also, of course. My, but there is a lot both for and against home dressmaking!

Myself, I like to make dresses, and more especially, underwear. Still, sometimes it doesn't "turn out" as expected, and at such times I bewail the fact that had it been a ready-to-wear dress, I could have seen just how it would "turn out" and even tried it on before deciding. Other times I spend days shopping for just the right dress, something that I have specially in mind. And never quite find it, being obliged eventually to accept some sort of a compromise; or don't, but make or have the dress made. Which is usually exactly as and what I wanted, and for a fourth of the price that any of the dresses I didn't want were.

So it goes. There simply isn't any argument for and against making one's own clothes. I think the right compromise is six of one and half a dozen of the other in one's wardrobe. When you see the very dress you exactly want, buy it. If you have to talk yourself into buying a dress, don't buy it—it is never the dress you really want or really enjoy after you have it. When you feel like making a dress, make it. Be careful in this making. There is no use spoiling good material and wasting good time. Make the kind of a dress you want and think you are able to make. Finish it nicely, and enjoy it after it is done.

My answer to that reader is that I have about as many ready-made as hand-made dresses, undies and whatnots in my 32 trunks of Paris gowns! And that I know many lovely ladies with much more time and more sewing ability, who have more of one, whilst I know many lovely ladies with very little time and no sewing ability who have more of the other.

Hat Chat.

And after little Queen Marie Antoinette's straw hat with its not unpicturesque ribbons, came the noise of firing, the howl of frenzied mobs, revolutionary songs, the guillotine and the execution of many people who had to pay dearly for their frivolity. And the hat of these dreadful times was the phrygian cap, which has ever since, and small wonder, been associated with ideas of blood and massacre.

And then Empress Josephine, lovely and indolent creole, who cared nothing for any headgear, including, it is said, the imperial crown which she wore so insecurely, bound her hair with ribbons, after the style of antiquity, Mme. Tallien, Mme. Remusat, Mme. Recamier, are said to have worn their "hats" in this manner. Ribbons, and the cabriolet hats with big wings of the directoire period, which were quite amusing, continued for quite a period.

* * * *

A handful of flowers, a handful of hours, and you have a love of a new bedspread! May not cost anything at all, except the stamped, self-addressed envelope that you send to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet telling you how to do it. Because you could make this lovely counterpane out of silken scraps from the rag bag, you see.

And is it lovely! And is it different! And is it easy to make! And do you have a millyun uses for it! Yes, you do!

* * * *

A Paris designer offered this very elegant evening gown, introducing a new note into the evening wear—the sports note. The simple styling of the dress, the large, flat buttons, the wrap-around movement, are all sportswear details. The material was a new sheer one of diagonal weave, the buttons and girdle were flat and polished silver, and the cape buttoned right to it in the popular way of making a formal evening gown more informal. And a New York shop imported it!

Au revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Intolerance and Incompatibility.

DEAR Frances McDonald: It seems that my letter to you must have given you the impression that the reason I wished my husband to give up his medical school was because I wished to go to dances, &c. Of course, you had nothing to go by except what I wrote in my letter, and I'll admit that I didn't make things very clear. The very thing that I should have told you, I left out.

First I will ask your opinion of the following: Is it wrong to go to a movie, dance, play cards, wear jewelry, wear a sleeveless dress, and should people, because they eat meat be considered "animated garbage eaters?" Frankly, I don't believe in all this, and I doubt if the average person does either. I don't mean that I want to be running out to a dance or a movie every night, but when I do go, I don't like the idea of being criticized for it. This is the environment that my husband is now in and although he honestly does not believe in these things himself, as long as he is attending the school in which these laws exist, he must pretend to live up to them.

As I told you in my last letter, he had a very good position in one of our theaters, and I encouraged him to give it up as his people were ashamed of his working in such a place because of their antipathy to all amusements and asked me to get him to attend this school with which his father was connected. His people had always treated me very nice and said that they were glad he had picked such a nice girl. I can hardly believe now that they were sincere, because it seemed as soon as I had satisfied them by encouraging their son to go back to school their attitude changed. Although it was always just a little petty remark that peeved me. I knew that G. and I would soon break under these circumstances, because I resent being criticized just because I have different beliefs.

G. saw too that things were not working out right and never would work out under these conditions, so what I wanted to know is if he had really loved me as much as he said he did, don't you think he should quit school altogether if necessary? I have made many sacrifices for him and honestly feel that I have been just as good a wife to him as any other girl could be. He had many faults and I always took up for him when anybody criticized him and satisfied myself with the idea that they just didn't understand him.

He says that I was responsible for his going to school and I am unreasonable to ask him to give it up now. He looks at things one way and I look at them another, so we have broken up for good, and I have made up my mind to forget him. What do you think about it? T. E. G.

Well, my dear, it is not marriage, this flitting out of a man's life because things go wrong. But under the conditions you now describe, a bitter struggle is all that could result from your marriage.

People whose views are violent should all herd together in a nice big lot. They make life too uncomfortable when they try to live with the everyday, serene brethren, who take their meat or leave it, and above all else, let others and their beliefs alone. The normal calm human simply can not see what all the intensity and hate are about, and the fanatic can not abide to be taken lightly. So there you are.

Do promise to choose carefully next time, for let us confide a secret—this getting divorced gets to be a habit! So watch out!

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

ALWAYS THE SUIT FIRST.

A VIVID illustration of the superiority of approach bidding occurred in the recent final session of the Eastern championship tournament for the possession of the Reisinger Cup, emblematic of team-of-four supremacy. Two of the greatest contract teams in the world were pitted against each other. The members of the bridge world team were Mrs. Culbertson and Messrs. Waldemar von Zedtwitz, Theodore A. Lightner and Michael Gottlieb. Playing against them was the team, the captain of which was Mr. P. Hal Sims, who had as teammates Messrs. Willard Karn, Oswald Jacoby and David Burnstine.

Almost all contract players have learned that the rest results are attained in almost all bidding situations by opening the bidding with suit bids and gradually approaching the correct final contract. Mr. Sims is a believer in the approach principle, but also considerable of an individualist, which, on the hand below, proved extremely disadvantageous:

West—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| | ♠ K 9 2♡ Q 5 3 2◇ 9 4♣ J 5 4 2 | |
| Mr. Sims♠ Q 5 4 3♡ A 9◇ A K 7 2♣ Q 10 8 | | Mr. Karn♠ A 10 6♡ J 10 8 4◇ 8 6 3♣ A 9 6 |
| | ♠ J 8 7♡ K 7 6◇ Q J 10 5♣ K 7 3 | |

The Bidding:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1NT(1) | Pass | 2NT | Pass |
| 3NT | Pass | Pass | Pass |

1—One diamond would be better.

Contrast this bidding with that in the other room, where Mr. Lightner held the same hand as Mr. Sims, and Mr. Gottlieb held Mr. Karn's cards:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1◇ | Pass | 1NT | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

Mr. Sims was defeated 2 in his contract of three notrump. Mr. Gottlieb made one notrump.

A Raise of an Opening Bid of one notrump is clearly indicated with East's holdings, but if West opens with a bid of one diamond and East responds with a bid of one notrump, West's hand does not justify a raise to three notrump, nor, in fact, does it particularly suggest any further action at all. If partner can merely overcall a bid of one diamond with one notrump, it carries with it the inference that he does not have a biddable suit to show. West's distributional values are practically nil, and thus, when partner responds with a bid of one notrump, showing also marked lack of distributional values, a further bid, even though holding 3½ honor-tricks, is extremely questionable.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The Approach principle, which requires that on hands containing a choice between opening with a suit bid or notrump, the suit should first be bid, works with almost unfailing accuracy, both in making easier the choice of the correct eventual declaration and in avoiding losses due to notrump Opening bids.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| | ♠ 5♡ J 2◇ K Q J 10 9 7 5♣ K 9 6 | |
| ♠ K 10 9 4 3♡ Q 9 8 5◇ —♣ J 7 3 2 | | ♠ A 8 6♡ 6 4 3◇ 8 4 3♣ Q 10 5 4 |
| | ♠ Q J 7 2♡ A K 10 7◇ A 6 2♣ A 8 | |

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

West Virginia Gold Ore Assays Are Confirmed

Clarksburg, W. Va., April 7.—Gold strike enthusiasm ran high today in Tucker County as reports were received from the Pittsburgh testing laboratory that ore samples from Porterwood had assayed more than $50 to the ton. Dr. A. O. Miller, vice president of the Tucker County Mining & Development Co., said this estimate was based on the figure of $20 an ounce for the gold, which ran about 2½ ounces to the ton of ore.

The report from Pittsburgh, it was stated, confirmed assays made by a Washington laboratory. Six Parsons business men have leased 650 acres of land at Porterwood, 2 miles from Parsons, and plan to construct a gold recovery plant on the banks of Shavers Fork. It is expected the plant will cost in the neighborhood of $25,000.

Spain's President Rides Train Piloted by Duke

Madrid, April 7 (A.P.).—The Duke of Zaragoza today retained his place as Spain's foremost locomotive engineer by piloting President Alcala Zamora from Valencia to Madrid this morning. The duke's last special assignment was as engineer of Queen Victoria's train.

The royal engineer took to the locomotive throttle early in life for the thrill of it. He has become a Republican and continues his trade by necessity.

Sunday's Dinner Begins With Cucumber Soup.

NOW again does a week-end bear close upon us, with its need of Saturday and Sunday planning and marketing. So what shall it be? For Saturday, a supper which is easy, of course, but for Sunday comes the need of the week's most elaborate dinner. And Sundays come so often, often enough, indeed, to leave all of us at our wits' ends sometimes to know what to plan for them. But I have it! It shall be chicken en casserole, spicy and succulent, a dish fit for any king, although chicken be a far cry from the renowned blackbirds. So here, then, are the two menus * * * and note our Sunday dessert of strawberry mint whip, we pray of you!

SUNDAY'S DINNER.

Cucumber Soup
Spring Onions Radishes
Chicken en Casserole
New Potatoes With Parsley Butter Sauce
Cream Peas and Mushrooms
Celery and Stuffed Olive Salad
Strawberry Mint Whip
Coffee

SATURDAY'S SUPPER.

Cream of Asparagus Soup
Baked Lima Beans With Sausage
Grilled Tomatoes
Whole-Wheat Nut Bread
Honeycomb Pudding
Tea

Baked Lima Beans With Sausage.

2 pounds dried lima beans
1 large onion, peeled
1 pound sausage
3 tablespoonfuls molasses if desired
1 teaspoonful salt
Water

Wash and soak beans overnight in cold water. Drain and bring to boiling point in water to cover, add a pinch of soda and mix. Drain well. Place beans in a deep baking dish with a large raw onion in the center. Mix the molasses and salt with one pint boiling water and pour over the beans. Add enough boiling water to cover entirely and add more as needed. Bake in a moderate oven for two hours. Cover with sausage and continue baking until beans are tender (one hour). Serve hot. One cupful strained tomato may be used in place of the molasses, if desired.

Grilled Tomatoes.

10 slices tomatoes
6 teaspoonfuls butter, melted
¼ cupful cracked crumbs
Salt and pepper to taste

Mix the cracker crumbs with the melted butter. Slice the tomatoes about a half inch thick. Sprinkle with salt and pepper dip in egg and then in cracker crumbs. Bake for a few minutes and then brown under the broiler.

Whole-Wheat Nut Bread.

1 cupful water
½ yeast cake
1 tablespoonful shortening
2 tablespoonfuls molasses
1 teaspoon salt
2½ cupfuls whole-wheat flour
½ cupful or more white flour
½ cupful chopped nut meats

Heat the water, add shortening and molasses. When cooled to lukewarm, dissolve yeast in it. Stir in the whole-wheat flour. Sift the salt with the white flour and add. Place dough on floured board and knead well. If sticky, add a little more white flour. Put dough in bowl and let rise 2½ hours. Knead and spread out in thin sheet. Sprinkle with the nut meats. Roll dough like jelly roll, fold over the ends and knead. Let rise 15 minutes. Shape and place in well-greased pan. Let rise to double its size and bake in a hot oven from 50 to 60 minutes.

Honeycomb Pudding.

1 cupful flour
1 cupful molasses
1 cupful sugar
½ cupful milk, lukewarm
½ cupful butter
4 eggs, well beaten
1 tablespoonful soda

Mix flour and sugar and add molasses. Melt butter in milk and add soda. Combine mixtures, beat well and add the eggs. Bake in a buttered dish in a moderate (350 degrees) oven. Serve with hard or foamy sauce or with sweetened whipped cream.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

BREATHING TOO DEEPLY.

THERE are a small number of persons who need to pay some attention to their breathing, at least at times. The balance of the world performs best when it keeps it mind on other matters and leaves its breathing to take care of itself.

One of these groups is the singers. With them, the air in the lungs performs a double purpose. It ventilates the lungs, vibrates the vocal cords, and then strikes the mouth and nose for the purpose of resonance. They must breathe so as to have a reservoir of air on which they can draw for the purposes of making musical sounds.

Musicians who blow on wind instruments use their lungs as double purpose machines. Since they must interfere with nature's plans for breathing, they are quite likely to develop a lung disorder which goes by the name emphysema. This rarely happens among singers, but I know of no evidence that trained, professional singers are any freer than the general run of people from consumption, pneumonia and other lung diseases.

Stammerers and stutterers are so constituted mentally that they fall into panic when speaking, and they feel that they have exhausted the supply of reservoir air in the lungs. In such panics word sounds fail them and in their efforts to escape they make unusual sounds and motions. Learning to breathe so as to keep a stock of air in hand is one way of avoiding panic.

Swimmers learn two breathing techniques. Long distance divers take several very deep breaths, expand their lungs to the utmost, and then plunge. The theory is that by blowing out all the carbonic acid possible they can go the maximum length of time without breathing, since the impulse to breathe is carbonic acid in the blood. There is a good physiological reason for the several deep breaths, though there is much question to the gain from the final deep inspiration. Crawl swimmers develop a rhythm between breathing and the arm stroke. Old-style glass blowers fill the lungs with air preliminary to blowing a flask.

These are about the only illustrations that occur to me of tasks in which deep or controlled breathing serves a useful purpose and, as we have seen in some of these instances, the ability has its offsets. On the other hand, deep breathing, fixing the diaphragm, and increasing the air pressure may do much harm.

Dr. F. A. Schmidt thinks that weight lifters, bar benders, tuggers and jumpers—all athletes who hold their breath as they make one brief, stupendous effort—are in danger of heart disease. The brief period of increase of tension inside the chest may overstrain the heart or break down compensation.

Wrestlers who strain every muscle in some supreme effort run other risks besides broken cartilages and cauliflower ears. Any muscular effort which causes one to turn red in the face until the "blood seems about ready to pop out" increases the tension within the chest and thus loads the heart. If the process of increasing the air tension is repeated a great many times the lungs feel the effort in that they develop emphysema.

PSYLLIUM SEED.

J. M. S. writes: What can you say for psyllium seed for the treatment of constipation?

REPLY.

It is a much better method than taking purgatives and laxatives. Psyllium seed belong in the class with flaxseed, and help in the same way in overcoming constipation.

FLAT FINGER NAILS.

R. G. writes:

1. What are flat or concave finger nails caused by?
2. Is this a sign of some disease approaching?
3. Is there any cure for it?

REPLY.

1. I don't know.
2. Not that I know of.
3. Same as answer 2.

I can talk much more learnedly about convex finger nails.

Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

SOME OF THE NEWER VARIETIES.

WE ALL desire varieties that are a bit different, provided they are worth while. To enjoy fullly the lovely colors of the newer flowers—to add to the beauty of one's garden and home—we must have some knowledge of the plants before we purchase them.

Among the recent introductions, and you know there are dozens of new varieties that find their way into the catalogs each year, there is none that excels the hardy chrysanthemum. In fact, there are no plants in the garden which in the autumn bring more enjoyment than do the chrysanthemums. The splendid new varieties rival in brilliancy the annuals of summer.

Each year has seen a greater appreciation for these flowers, and justly so. Among the pompon varieties, the Ouray is a rich bronze with a coppery glow, which blooms quite early in the season and is of medium height. The Capt. R. H. Cook is another pompon variety that you are sure to like. Its color is clear deep rose, with each petal tipped with bronze. Boston is another of the newer varieties you will enjoy. It is a beautiful bronzy orange. The plant produces a great number of well-branched heads, borne on tall stems, and is outstanding in its hardiness. Any of these chrysanthemums measure up to the claims the growers make for them.

The hardy blue sage (salvia pitcheri) is new and can not have too much said in praise of it. This lovely dark blue meadow sage originally came from the wilds of Colorado. The color of this sage is a deep gentian blue. The plant blooms during August, September and October and thrives in almost any situation. It is quite willing to take care of itself and is so hardy that it will winter without protection in any part of the country. Salvia pitcheri will prove a noteworthy addition to any garden.

The other plant I want to tell you about and also to recommend is the Gypsophila Bristol Fairy, the new double babybreath. This plant was introduced in 1927. Its popularity grew and today it is considered one of the finest flowers we have for cutting. Bristol Fairy is a strong growing, exceedingly graceful plant. While the great display of snow-white blossoms occurs in June, periodically masses of flowers appear until stopped by frost.

MANY ARE ENTERING RECORDING CONTEST

$700 in Prizes to Be Given in Post's Audition Competition.

The thrill of hearing their voices on a phonograph record is being experienced by increasing numbers who are taking advantage of the great free offer made by The Washington Post in cooperation with the RCA-Victor Co.

Throughout the city "home recording" stations have been established where, at your leisure, you may have your voice or your playing of a musical instrument recorded on a small disc by means of the new RCA-Victor Radio combination sets.

In addition to giving you a free audition your record is entered in a contest in which $700 in merchandising prizes are being offered to those who register best on the records.

Contest Open to All.

Only one record will be given to any one person, but the contest is open to all, including children when accompanied by a parent.

There will be a contest for amateurs and one for professionals and each person will compete in his own particular class.

The contest ends at 6 p. m. Saturday, April 23. Winners in each class will be picked according to the character of registry whether the recording is of vocal or instrumental type.

Records to Be Rated.

Your record will be submitted to a group of judges and after you have been given a rating the record will be mailed to you to keep. Should your record show unusual merit, however, The Washington Post reserves the right to retain it until the conclusion of the contest.

The decision of the judges will be final and in the event of ties duplicate prizes will be awarded.

To enter this contest it is only necessary to call at one of the recording stations listed below, during regular store hours.

Audition Stations.

Free auditions will be given at the following establishments:

Star Radio Co., 409 Eleventh street northwest.

Ristig's, 1352 H street northeast.

S. Kann's Sons, Eighth street and Market place northwest.

Mayer & Co., 419 Seventh street northwest.

E. F. Droop & Sons, 1300 G street northwest.

Maria Astore, 236 Four-and-a-half street southwest.

National Furniture Co., Seventh and H street northwest.

F. O. Sexton Co., 647 H street northeast.

Arthur Jordan Piano Co. Thirteenth and G stree's northwest.

Julius Lansburgh Furniture Co., 909 F street northwest.

F. S. Harris Co., 2900 Fourteenth street northwest.

Homer L. Kitt Co., 1330 G street northwest.

House & Herman, Seventh and I streets northwest.

H. P. Furniture Co., Seventh and D streets northwest.

Hugo Worch, 1110 G street northwest.

Louis & Co., 713 Seventh street northwest.

Indian Nationalists to Ignore Ban.

Bombay, April 7 (A.P.).—Despite the government's ban on a meeting of the Nationalist Congress called for April 24, Mrs. Sarojinin Naidu announced today that she was making all preparations to hold the convention as scheduled.

Milk and Water Sources Praised

Dr. W. C. Fowler States District Is Fortunate in Health Guards.

Members of the Cosmopolitan Club were assured that no other city in the world has a better milk or water supply than Washington and that few if any have as good, by Dr. William C. Fowler, health officer of the District, who was guest speaker at yesterday's meeting at the Carlton Hotel. Dr. Fowler was introduced by Dr. Joseph Elward, chairman of the forum committee.

The speaker outlined the methods by which the District Health Department keeps in close touch with milk supplies through inspection of all farms shipping this product into Washington. He said that every dairy farm supplying milk to Washington has a steam sterilizer and that most of them have installed electric refrigeration. He spoke of inspection of restaurants, oyster wharves, soda fountains and other public food depots and how this results in keeping down illness in Washington.

He also called attention to the eight-hour law for women in the District, pointing out that a former corporation counsel had ruled that women could work seven days a week, provided they do not exceed the 48-hour law. A ruling by Corporation Counsel Bride, Dr. Fowler said, upholds his opinion that women must be allowed one day in seven for rest and must not work more than eight hours a day.

$700 in Prizes in The Washington Post RCA-Victor Recording Contest

For the best auditions on the "home recording" records furnished by The Washington Post the following prizes will be awarded:

FOR AMATEURS

First Prize—RCA-Victor Radio combination (No. RAE-26), equipped for home recording. Value, $287.50. Also a special audition at the laboratories of the RCA-Victor Company at Camden, N. J., with all traveling expenses paid.

Second Prize—R-4 Latest model 7-tube Victor Superheterodyne Radio. Value, $45.75.

Third Prize—One hundred Assorted Victor Records.

Fourth Prize—Fifty Assorted Victor Records.

Fifth to Seventh Prizes—Twenty-five Assorted Victor Records, each.

Eighth to Thirtieth Prizes—Ten Assorted Victor Records, each.

Thirty-first to Fiftieth Prizes—Five Assorted Victor Records, each.

FOR PROFESSIONALS

In this class the two professionals whose auditions on the home recording records are considered best, a special audition at the RCA-Victor laboratories in Camden, N. J., with all expenses paid, will be awarded.

African Government Assailed.

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, April 7 (A.P.).—Jan Christiaan Smuts, leader of the opposition in Parliament, assailed the "spendthrift policy" of the Hertzog government in the Assembly today and submitted an alternative budget based on the pound sterling, although the Union of South Africa is still on the gold standard.

Spanish Destroyer Runs Aground.

Madrid, April 7 (A.P.).—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Iviza, in the Balearic Islands, today said the Spanish destroyer Diez had run aground and probably would be a total loss. It was thought it would be necessary to jettison the guns before there could be any attempt to refloat her.

New Bus Company Files Entry Plea

Arlington-Fairfax Line to Suggest Two Routes to Commision.

The newly organized Arlington & Fairfax Motor Transportation Co., which is designed to replace the rail service of the Arlington & Fairfax Railway with ten motor buses, applied yesterday to the Public Utilities Commission for permission to enter the District at the Highway bridge and proceed to the W. B. & A. terminal at 1013 D street.

Two routes were suggested for the buses to follow, but this matter was turned over to the traffic coordinating committee for recommendation before the commission acts.

The utilities body yesterday rerouted the W. B. & A. and the Washington & Alexandria line buses off Fourteenth street at D street, instead of E, and thence up Thirteenth street. The other parts of the routes will remain as heretofore.

Mrs. Biddle Arrives in Yukon.

Seattle, Wash., April 7 (A.P.).—A special dispatch to the Times today from White Horse, Yukon Territory, said Mrs. Edward Biddle, Philadelphia society woman, on her way to the States after several months in Alaska, arrived there from Fairbanks yesterday in a plane piloted by Joe Barrows. Mrs. Biddle will go by train from there to Skagway and then board a steamship for Vancouver, British Columbia.

Battleship Utah Off To Face Monster Guns

Norfolk, Va., April 7 (A.P.).—Unaware that the guns of the great gray ships with whom she paraded proudly for decades will soon rake her with their devastating fire, the battleship Utah steams to sea today, fitted as a radio-controlled ship.

Off the Virginia capes commander Randall Jacobs and a skeleton crew tested her new apparatus, but without use of the remote control which will enable her, without a crew, to change her speed and course at will, and even to lay a smoke screen. In May the Utah will go to the West Coast, where she will become a target for the monster guns of the battle fleet.

About The Showshops

With NELSON B. BELL

If Reri, Polynesian movie star and dancer, were to return to her native Tahiti today, she would not be recognized by her former playmates on those tropical beaches, according to Mark Barron, principal theatrical snooper for the A. P., in case you happen to know that that means Associated Press.

In less than a year, says Mr. Barron, this pagan daughter of the South Sea Isles has become thoroughly Americanized, a successful big business woman.

The Reri that walks along Broadway today, chicly dressed in the latest Paris modes, has traveled a long way from the frightened little dancer, attired in a grass skirt and wearing a love flower over her left ear, who arrived here eleven months ago to do her bora bora dance in the "Follies," says Mr. Barron, writing from New York.

It was the motion picture, "Tabu," filmed in the South Seas, that brought this half-French, half-Polynesian girl to world-wide attention. She was then 15 years old and her life followed the usual Tahitian routine of swimming, fishing and avoidance of cares.

Reri's debut in the "Follies" was somewhat smothered by the galaxy of stars in that cast, and afterward she had to begin her fight for recognition. Unable to speak any English except the two words, "hot dog," she found progress difficult, but she wasn't handicapped with the expected tropical languor.

She began to study, to work hard. She gradually learned English and now speaks it very well, although when excited she reverts to a mixture of French and Tahitian. She quit wearing a halo of flowers in her hair and adopted the newest modes in millinery and dresses.

Her exuberance and gay spirits have made her a favorite in the salons of the intelligentzia. Her quick wit and disregard of convention make her welcome at parties where literary and theatrical lights gather.

Now she has won the stardom for which she has been fighting, she is heading a new Fanchon & Marco show beginning a Nation-wide tour.

Although she has become much Americanized, there still remain many of the traditional customs of her native isles. She constantly wears a flower over one ear, although she insists that it doesn't mean she is in love.

The brusqueness and rush of New York have not robbed her of the friendly spirit of Tahitians. Without the slightest embarrassment she strikes up conversations with total strangers and quickly wins them for friends. She is amazed to find that they had heard of her, or have seen her in "Tabu."

Her ambition is to live part of the year in New York and part in Tahiti. "I think I want to live on a boat that goes from America to Tahiti and back," she explains.

The dates, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 26 and 27; the place, the Wardman Park Theater; the event, the Columbia Players' presentation of Philip Barry's engaging play of "Holliday."

"Holiday" tells the story of Johnny Case, a rich young poor man who doesn't want to become a poor young rich man, and his adventures with the wealthy Seton family, its reverence for riches and its inner conflict.

On the nice question, which is harder and more profitable to do: Go to an office, rustle papers and make more money than you need; or, sit under a tree and look at your own soul, the Seton family stands two against two. Father Seton and daughter Julia are on the paper rustling side. Daughter Linda and son Ned are sold on the soul idea.

Young Johnny, who wants to retire young and work old, is emphatically on the side of the young rebels and so, although Julia's his fiancee, Linda's his champion. Such a situation is naturally charged with dynamite and drama and, living up to its comedy label, much delightful and delirious dialogue.

"Holiday" was chosen as one of the ten best plays of the 1928-29 New York season and then made a great success in the movies, with Ann Harding in the role of Linda.

You may go along with Will Shakespeare on the idea that parting is such sweet sorrow, or not, just as you choose, but the fact remains that it turns up a surprising number of interesting people.

For example, last night when I dropped around at the stage entrance of Loew's Palace to bid a last minute au revoir to Jean Harlow and her parents, Count and Countess Merino Bello, there were no number of celebrities dangling about the place.

Don Barclay, sharing m. c. honors with Bert Frohman for the week, seemed surprised that I could trace his stellar genealogy from Ninth street through the "Follies" to his present engagement. A substantial citizen, Don, with a son about ready to enter West Point—and who would have believed that! The late Samuel Gompers, was busy fixing it all up, but the junior comedian seems to be all set, regardless.

Then there was Bob Pitkin, the Ko-Ko of Mme. Schumann-Heink's revival of Gilbert & Sullivan's "The Mikado," flitting about from upstairs to down in quest of a place to leave Don's extra pair of suspenders.

But the pay-off of all this occurred when the big Brooks John heaved in from across Thirteenth street where he was trying, with Mrs. John, to see Ernst Lubitsch's production of "One Hour With You," played by Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald, Genevieve Tobin and Roland Young, and to pass a word of greeting with his old pal, Don Barclay.

Brooks stands a mere 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs only 209, but he is a grand host for all that. Asked us to come out to his farm and drink a mug of milk with all five of his kids, which he has accumulated since he abandoned the banjo for the career of a gentleman farmer.

He may not be much of a farmer, but he is still a swell gentleman. And that, as any one will tell you, is something.

This staid old town of ours has been on its toes for many weeks, meeting Hollywood's fairest feminine stars in person. RKO-Keith's has presented more than its share of these lovely and talented ladies. Now that theater is turning to the comedy field, and on Saturday will bring to Washington, as the headline attraction of a six-act RKO vaudeville bill, no other than Charley Chase.

Chase has starred in so many of the short comedy reels as well as full-length pictures that most of us have forgotten that he was famous as a vaudevillian and musical comedy star before his advent in those same movies.

Charley Chase is versatile. He doesn't depend on his accomplishments in the comedy field of the pictures to "put him across." In fact, he is rather inclined to "kid" the proceedings, in that he states he realizes everybody wants to see what a comedian looks like—and that now is their chance.

Chase plays all sorts of musical instruments—all for the purpose of creating laughter.

Calling Mr. Bell from suite 541, the Willard. You will pardon me, please—although I am sure no good can come of this summons.

Long George, Former Giant, to Fill in for Bissonette.

Played in 4 World Series; Starred in Minors.

NEW YORK, April 7 (A.P.).—Once again "Long George" Kelly, once the idol of the Polo Grounds, is coming back to the major leagues to plug a temporary hole at first base.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, worried over an operation on Del Bissonette's ankle that will incapacitate the club's regular first baseman during the early portion of the National League season, announced today that Kelly had been purchased from Minneapolis and would be on hand for the opening game of the season with Boston Tuesday.

Kelly, now 36 years old and a star with the Giants from 1919 to 1927, was the best first baseman available when the Dodgers failed to induce the Cardinals, Giants or Washington to loose a man capable of filling Bissonette's shoes.

Brookly to Send Pitcher.

Brooklyn will deliver a pitcher and an unannounced cash sum within two weeks for Kelly, who had refused to sign with Minneapolis because of contract differences. The first baseman has been working out in California, and is reported in fine condition.

After the Giants released him to Cincinnati in 1927, and the Reds passed him along to Minneapolis in 1930, "Long George" answered the Chicago Cubs' call for aid when Charley Grimm was injured near the close of that season. He played fine ball for the club, but went back to Minneapolis again as soon as Grimm recovered. Kelly, who hit .328 for the Giants in 1922, his best year in the majors, has a lifetime batting average of .299. Although he never hit hard in four world series with the Giants in 1921, 1922, 1923 and 1924, his fielding always was good. He clouted American Association pitching for an average of .320 in 155 games last season.

Tunney Meets Friend Of His A. E. F. Days

Rochester, N. Y., April 7 (A.P.).—Gene Tunney knows today that at least one baby has been named for him. It's a girl—Gene Haley.

And "Kid" Haley, stubby little truck driver, knows what he has always suspected, that the former Marine and heavyweight champion of the world isn't really "high hat."

It started last night when Tunney addressed a Knights of Columbus meeting here. After his remarks, he invited his audience to ask questions.

"Do you remember the chap who went A. W. O. L. with you in Brest?" some one shouted.

"I certainly do," replied Tunney, his face lighting up. "It was Kid Haley."

"Well, I'm here," shouted the "Kid."

"Bring that man right up here," cried Tunney, how gleeful.

They stood on the speaker's platform, Tunney looking like a fashion plate in his tuxedo, Haley in his truck driver's clothes. Tunney grabbed the "Kid's" hand before the latter could rub it off on his spotty trousers. Then other admirers swarmed about the former champion and the renewal of friendship with Haley was broken up.

Reporters had a hard time finding Haley again, but they cornered him today as he was backing his truck into an express company's shed.

"I didn't want to tell Tunney at first that we named our baby after him," said the "Kid," suddenly becoming shy. "I had hopes it would be a boy."

High-Powered Offense Is Shown by Purdue

Lafayette, Ind., April 7 (A.P.).—When the 1932 edition of the Purdue basket ball team brought to Lafayette the second undisputed Big Ten championship in three years it was largely the result of expert basket shooting by Johnny Wooden and others.

A record of the season includes the following points:

Purdue scored 718 points in eighteen games.

Opponents scored 443 points.

Average victory margin was 15.2 points.

Average Big Ten victory margin was 13.5 points.

The team averaged less than twelve personal fouls per game.

FOREMAN LOSES TITLE.

London, April 7 (A.P.).—The British Boxing Association today deprived Al Foreman, of Montreal, of his lightweight boxing championship fro failure to comply with its regulations.

The association announced it had selected Johnny Cuthbert and Ned Tarleton to contend for the vacant championship.

NO HIT, NO RUN GAME.

Houston, Tex., April 7 (A.P.).—Chester Klaerner, of Rice Institute, pitched a no-hit, no-run game here today, leading the Owls to a 4-to-0 victory over Baylor University. It was a Southwest Conference contest.

GOLF RALLY WINS FOR RYERSON

Comes From 3 Down on 14th to Cop at Pinehurst.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 7 (A.P.).—Favorites, including the aggregation of golfers from Yale, found the going hard today in the second round of the annual North and South Amateur Tournament here. Three of the quartet representing old Eli were eliminated along with Dick Wilson, of Southern Pines, the medalist.

Forbes K. Wilson, of York Harbor, Me., who played with the Yale intercollegiate championship outfit last year, was victim of a sensational burst of golf by J. B. Ryerson, a veteran of the links from Cooperstown, N. Y.

Ryerson found himself 3 down with only four holes to play, and Wilson's chances of losing the match seemed gone. But Ryerson shot 3 birdies and a par 5 to win, 1 up. His card for the final four holes was 2, 5, 2, 3.

Former G. U. Star Beaten 3 and 2.

Dick Wilson, one time Georgetown University star, trailed J. M. Robbins, Merion, Pa., former Princeton golf captain, three holes at the turn. He succeeded in holding his own for the remainder of the match by halving the next seven holes, but he was unable to reclaim any of the ground lost on the first nine, and Robbins won, 3 and 2.

M. P. Warner, Pine Orchard, Conn., was the only Yale entry to survive. He defeated his fellow collegian, J. E. Parker, jr., Orange, N. J., 2 and 1. Parker had a two-up margin at the turn, holding it for the remainder of the match.

Yale's captain, S. W. Noyes, jr., Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., lost a close battle with Halbert J. Blue, of Aberdeen, one of the steadiest shooters among the Sand Hills contingent. Noyes carried Blue to the nineteenth hole before losing, 1 up.

Pairings for tomorrow place Robbins against Warner and Blue against Ryerson.

One Sport Is Enough For Eli Mat Champion

New Haven, Conn., April 7 (A.P.).—Henry Taft Snowden, Yale sophomore substitute who won the Eastern Intercollegiate heavyweight wrestling championship, is content to be a one-sport man.

Since his victory over Harry Herchberg of Lehigh in the finals of the intercollegiate meet at Syracuse, N. Y., Yale coaches have implored him to try for the crew and to go out for spring football.

But Snowden, nephew of the late William Howard Taft, says wrestling is his only athletic interest.

The 206-pound youth first went to the mat as a sophomore at Taft School at Watertown, Conn. He wanted to start wrestling as a freshman, but his father thought he was too young.

After a successful career at Taft, he easily won a place on Yale's freshman squad last season. This year Snowden and Ed Rotan, Eli captain, did most of their practicing together. In an intramural meet, Snowden gained a 40-minute time advantage over his tutor, but the coaches called it a draw.

When Rotan was unable to participate in the Syracuse meet, his pupil replaced him.

Georges Carpentier Plans Ring Comeback

New York, April 7 (U.P.).—Georges Carpentier, of France, who reached the height of his pugilistic fame when he met Jack Dempsey in the original "battle of the century" in 1921, is the latest veteran to announce a comeback attempt.

"Gorgeous Georges" plans to start training in a New York gymnasium for a campaign which he hopes will carry him once more into the "big time" and the big money.

Carpentier, since his defeat at Dempsey's hands, has spent most of his time on the vaudeville stage.

G. U. to Play Lafayette Today

Game at Hilltop to Open 1932 College Season Here.

Lindquist Will Pitch; Old Liners to Play Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON'S spring college sport season opens this afternoon on Georgetown University's diamond, where the revamped Hilltop nine meets Lafayette College, starting at 3:30 o'clock. This is the first of five home games on Georgetown's short 1932 schedule.

Elmer Lindquist, lanky sophomore, will do the hurling for Georgetown, and Frank Orefice, who has returned to the sport after a year's absence, will handle Elmer's southpaw curves.

The balance of the line-up, which Coach Clayton Sheehy yesterday declared tentative for the first week or two, is as follows:

King and Evers Veterans.

Only King and Evers, of the starting array, are holdovers from the regular nine of 1931, but the others have been showing enough promise in practice to warrant the statement from Coach Sheedy, "We ought to have a pretty fair team."

Rohan, a left-handed first baseman, and Lione and O'Rourke are all sophomores, while Kilgallen and Rapp are seniors. The latter pair played substitute roles in 1930.

Though little is known of Lafayette's strength other than that the Leopards defeated Muhlenberg two days ago, Coach Sheedy feels confident that Lindquist will prove capable of giving Georgetown a winning job in the box. Sheedy's esteem of the sophomore flinger is reflected in the fact that both Harry Noznesky and Herb Heany, veterans, are slated for bench duty until next week.

Tomorrow afternoon Maryland University will offer a triple-header at College Park where the Old Liners meet North Carolina in baseball, Washington and Lee in track and Washington College in lacrosse.

Baer's Wife Leaves But "Not For Keeps"

Oakland, Calif., April 7 (A.P.).—Max Baer, heavyweight boxer, disclosed today that his actress wife, Dorothy Wells Dunbar Baer, had left him, but he insisted her departure was "not for keeps."

"She went away to shake me into my senses and to make a real fighter out of me," he said. "I cut up a bit and it wore her out trying to take care of my affairs. We love each other too much for a permanent separation. She'll be home within six weeks.

The Baers were married at Reno last July shortly after he lost a decision to Paulino Uzcudun in a 20-round bout. It was her fourth marriage.

Helen Jacobs to Sail For European Courts

Berkeley, Calif., April 7 (A.P.).—Miss Helen Jacobs announced today she would leave here next Tuesday for Berlin, Germany, to begin an invasion of European tennis courts.

Yesterday Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, of San Francisco, American woman singles champion, revealed plans to play in Europe this spring and summer.

Miss Jacobs said she planned to participate in the German championships next month, and probably would be in Europe about 60 days. She was not sure what other tournaments she would enter.

Mrs. Moody will not leave for Europe until April 27, when she will sail from New York.

Stella Walsh, 21, Now U. S. Citizen

Cleveland, April 7 (A.P.).—Stella Walsh, "the fastest woman" sprinter, was 21 years old today and she celebrated the event by appearing before a Federal naturalization clerk to swear to citizenship papers.

Miss Walsh took her citizenship step at the first opportunity in order to be eligible to represent the United States in the coming Olympic games at Los Angeles. She will receive her final papers late in the summer.

TIGERS RELEASE WISE.

Detroit, April 7 (A.P.).—Release of Hugh Wise, catcher, on option to Toledo of the American Association, was announced today by the management of the Detroit Tigers. Wise, former Purdue University athlete, was purchased by the Tigers from Toronto, of the International League, in 1930 and played last season with Beaumont, of the Texas League. He trained with the Tigers this spring.

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 7 (A.P.).—A triple play and some effective pitching by Sarge Connally and Lefty Lee spoiled Chattanooga's fast start and gave the Cleveland Indians a 4-to-3 victory over the Southern Association Club here today.

Pete Jablonowski was hammered for three runs in the first three innings, but Connally and Lee gave Chattanooga little to chose from thereafter.

Kansas City, April 7 (A.P.).—Wet grounds forced the Chicago Cubs and Kansas City Blues to cancel the first game of their final tune-up series today, the first time this spring that Rogers Hornsby's men have been rained out.

"Everything looks fine, but we must have more batting punch," the Rajah said in the hotel lobby discussion later.

Louisville, Ky., April 7 (A.P.).—Rain stepped in to save the Chicago White Sox from what looked like a second straight defeat at the hands of the Louisville Colonels today.

The Colonels were leading 4 to 3 with "Sad Sam" Jones as their pitching victim, when rain stopped the game at the start of the third inning.

Columbus, Ohio, April 7 (A.P.).—Lefty Gomez weakened in the ninth inning and the Columbus Redbirds, of the American Association, won their second straight game from the New York Yankees today. The score was 5 to 4.

The Yankees, led by Sam Byrd, went into the ninth leading by two runs. Pat Crawford, former Giant player, hit the first ball for a home run. Three singles and a base on balls with the bases full accounted for the tying and wining runs.

Byrd connected with another home run and batted .500 for the day. The defeat left the Yankees with an exhibition record of 15 victories and 8 defeats.

Wilson connected with his homers in the second and third innings, driving in four runs. Four Norfolk errors helped the Dodgers as they pounded out 17 hits off Henry Grampp and Herb Brett. Pea Ridge Day, Phil Gallivan and Cy Moore held the Eastern Leaguers to seven blows.

Sam Stein Tosses Manich Before 2,000 at Strand

Wrestler Knocked Out by Drop to Canvas; Zaharias and Steinborn Battle 30 Minutes to Draw; Wilson Wins.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

GEORGE MANICH elevated his batting average to .000 for the past two weeks at the Strand Theater last night when he toppled before the onslaught of Samuel Stein, the eminent Semitic bone buckler, in 34 minutes before a capacity crowd of 2,000 and a variously estimated number of radio kibitzers.

This was no cut-and-dried decision. Manich was counted out in the ring, a rather unusual spectacle. Just how he happened to lose will depend largely on your tastes in newspapers, but it seemed to this eagle-eyed and buzzard-nosed scrivener that Mr. Manich either landed on a sensitive vertebra or can put to shame a composite thespian made up of John Barrymore, George Arliss and Alfred Lunt.

Suffice to say that Manich was picked up with the conventional body hold and dumped on the mat. He did not land like the other rasslers do—that is, by taking a rolling dive in the manner of professional tumblers—he landed with a thud, like a sack of schmeirkase. He lay there. Stein sprang over to him and picked up his head—it was still attached—as if to lift him up and dump him again, but there was no visible life in the chassis of Mr. Manich.

Manich Goes Out.

Stein stepped aside. A couple of men leaped to the ringside. Manich lay prone, his eyes the same color of those sorrowful perch that peer philosophically off into space on market him out. Stein helped lift him up and he came to with a great start, not seeming to know whether to start to cuff Stein again, go back to sleep, or ask the day of the month.

It was an even sort of match up to that time. Stein unleashed a couple of flying tackles, but Manich held him even with good body drops, splits and a presentable armlock. Stein was tremendously fast for the 200 pounds he carries. He is beginning to show the signs of rassling five times a week—manifested by his general improvement in technique and a left ear that is a masterpiece of the cauliflower century.

It was not the best match of the night by a comfortable mile or two. That laurel belonged to George Zaharias, a rough, tough hombre, who was turned into the strange role of a hero because he was pitted against Milo Steinborn, who will stoop to anything but wrestling in the wrestling ring. The boys slugged to 30 gory minutes, punctuated with elbow jabs that would have knocked the golfers off a cast iron fireplug.

The Greatest Show On Earth.

One incident hit the highest peak of ludicrousness ever staged here. Zaharias, a tremendously strong bull of a man, grabbed Steinborn by the heels and swung him around and around like an adagio team blonde. Now Steinborn weighs 220 pounds and if Zaharias had ever let go of him the death list among the ringside patrons would have been catastrophic. After about 10 round trips Steinborn

Hill, Maddox Vie For Women's Title

Finalists in Greensboro Golf Advance by Virtue of Easy Victories.

Sedgefield Country Club, Greensboro, N. C., April 7 (A.P.).—Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, the Western champion, and Miss Margaret Maddox, of Atlanta, the Georgia champion, vanquished their respective opponents by decisive scores in the semifinal round today of the annual Dogwood Golf Tournament, and tomorrow they will play for the title, which Mrs. Hill won last year.

Mrs. Hill won her way to the finals by defeating Mrs. J. J. Lawlor, of New Rochelle, N. Y., 5 and 4, while Miss Maddox advanced by virtue of a 5 and 3 victory over another champion, Mrs. Leon Solomon, of Memphis, the Tennessee titleholder.

The Kansas City star had a one-hole lead at the turn. She won the tenth and eleventh, halved the twelfth and then annexed the thirteenth and fourteenth to end the match.

In the other semifinal, Miss Maddox was three up at the turn. She made it four up by winning the tenth, but dropped the eleventh. The next two holes were halved, but Miss Maddox took the fourteenth and fifteenth to earn her victory.

Venzke, Mile Champ, To Enter Penn in Fall

Pottstown, Pa., April 7 (A.P.).—Gene Venzke, the world's fastest mile runner, announced today that he plans to enter the University of Pennsylvania in the fall.

Penn's gain is Yale's loss, it was disclosed when Venzke said he had considered entering Yale but had decided on Penn because it is nearer his home.

Venzke, who achieved track fame sensationally by breaking the mile record at the Millrose games last February, is especially anxious to enter Penn, he said, because there he would be under the tutelage of Lawson Robertson, Olympic coach.

The Pottstown High School senior, considered the United States greatest hope for the 1,500-meter championship in the forthcoming Olympics, is training under his high school's veteran coach, Mike Sweeney.

Wales Is Beaten In Golf Tourney

Loses in Fourth Round Royal Naval-Royal Marine Event.

London, April 7 (U.P.).—The Prince of Wales' hopes for a golf championship ended today when he was defeated 1 up by Surg. Capt. E. Cameron in the fourth round of the Royal Naval-Royal Marine Tournament.

Earlier in the day the prince won his third round match, eliminating Engr. Capt. J. Ashton, 5 and 3. In both matches the prince, with a low handicap of 11, conceded his opponent 2 strokes. Play was over Sunningdale, the prince's home course.

The prince drove in both matches. His niblick play was poor in the afternoon match, however. The prince reached the turn 2 down to Cameron. Cameron went on to hold the prince dormie 3. Wales won the sixteenth by sinking a long putt, and also won the seventeenth. The eighteenth was halved after both reached the green in 3.

The prince wore a blue beret and a blue golfing jacket. On his return to the clubhouse after winning his third round match, the prince said, "Well, I made it."

Carnera Gets Decision Over McCorkingdale

London, April 7 (U.P.).—Outweighing his opponent 84 pounds, Primo Carnera, the Italian man-mountain, won a ten-round decision over Don McCorkingdale, heavyweight champion of South Africa, at Albert Hall tonight. Carnera weighed 266 pounds and McCorkingdale, 182.

Primo floored his opponent for the count of four in the third round, but the African rallied and carried the fight to the big fellow for the remainder of the round.

Carnera determinedly tried to knock Don out, but the latter's amazing defense prevented it. McCorkingdale frequently worried Carnera by flashing a right cross over the Italian's huge left arm, but Primo's huge size and overpowering strength finally wore down his game opponent, allowing him to win on points.

Carnera faces Larry Gains, Canadian heavyweight, here May 30.

Schmeling Arrives Today; Selects New York Camp

NEW YORK, April 7 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling will train for his heavyweight title defense against Jack Sharkey June 16 at Greenville Lodge, 2 miles from Kingston, N. Y., his manager, Joe Jacobs, announced today.

The decision was reached today after viewing both Kingston and Saratoga Springs, where Jack Dempsey trained for several matches. The champion will have both indoor and outdoor arenas available for training, and another important requisite, a golf course, nearby.

The title fight will be held in New York June 16.

Schmeling, who arrives here tomorrow on the liner New York, will start training May 10. The first part in a brief exhibition tour will take him to Toronto April 11, Norfolk April 13, Fort Monroe, Va., April 15, Dayton April 18, Akron April 19, Cleveland April 20, Columbus April 21, Muncie, Ind., April 22, Oshkosh, Wis., April 25, Peoria, Ill., April 27 and Fort Wayne April 28.

Schmeling plans a week's rest at French Lick Springs, Ind., and a glimpse of the Kentucky Derby May 7 before settling down in the training camp.

Cronin, Ill, May Miss Opener

Nat Shortstop Develops Fever; Absence Blow to Club.

Team at Baltimore Today for Game; Shires Quiet.

SHORTSTOP JOE CRONIN may not be available for the opening game, it was learned yesterday. It seems that the "San Francisco Keed" developed a slight fever after being shifted from his hotel to Georgetown University Hospital and that the hoped-for progress in relieving his sinus trouble and ailing tonsils has not been noted. Some toxic poison is in his system and last night it was not known just how much longer he would have to be classed as an invalid.

Starting the campaign with Cronin missing would be quite a handicap to the Nationals, despite the good work of Johnny Kerr as his relief. Cronin, without doubt, is the spark plug of the Johnson infield and the team plays much better ball with him on the job. Strenuous methods are being resorted to to get Joe back in the line-up, but it is hardly likely that he will be ready for the opener against the Red Sox here Monday.

With Cronin on the shelf, the Nats' dearth of infielders is brought home to President Clark Griffith and he kept the telegraph wires hot yesterday trying to land a cast-off of some of the other teams. If worst comes to worst he can call on the Chattanooga Club for help, but he does not plan to do this until absolutely necessary. Meanwhile, he is praying that nothing happens to any of the other infielders, for Joe Kuhel was the only one who sat on the bench during yesterday's game and he can only play first base.

Nats in Baltimore Today.

The Nationals journey to Baltimore today for a game with the Orioles. They have beaten the Internationals in all five of their starts against them this spring and hope to give another encore this afternoon. Prof. Monte Weaver, bought from the Birds and hailed as the best rookie pitching prospect to come up to the majors this spring, will start on the hill against his former mates. Frank (Rags) Ragland will be taken along to finish out the string in case Weaver has enough.

It was feared that Catcher Roy Spencer joined the hospital list in the fifth inning of yesterday's game when he pulled up lame at second after running out his double. Mike Dulaney, a rookie pitcher, replaced him on the sacks and the backstopper was hustled to Trainer Mike Martin's sanctum. It developed that Roy merely had slightly pulled a groin muscle first injured in the last game at Chattanooga and that the injury is not serious. He will be allowed to rest today—and tomorrow and Sunday, if necessary—and is sure to be ready when the opening bell rings Monday.

Art (Whataman) Shires appeared to be quite subdued while with the Braves here yesterday. He seemed to have his mind on the game rather than on verbally impressing the cash customers with his greatness. He came through with a hit, scored a run, and made two nice stops at the bag. The veteran, Rabbit Maranville, seems to be the cut-up on the team, while Catcher Pinky Hargrave yesterday chewed a much larger cud of tobacco than did Art.

Worthington raced in almost to second to make a nice catch of Myer's near Texas Leaguer in the first yesterday.

West made a good try for Maranville's double in the first. He raced back and well over toward right, getting his glove on the ball, but being in a poor position to hang on to it.

Schulmerich's double opening the third was a hard-hit ball. It hit the stands in left-center on first bounce.

Reynolds' error in the third was an excusible one. He first came in for Hargrave's liner, figuring he had a chance to snare it. When he saw he could not make the catch he was so close to the ball that he hardly had a chance to bat it down.

Earl Clark, Washington boy, who played center for the Braves, made up for his error in the second by contributing two good catches in the fourth. One was at Heinie Manush's expense and the other on a liner off Carl Reynolds' bat. Two were on and two were out when this latter catch was made, the grab costing the Nats at least one run.

Buddy Myer made a pretty stop in the eighth when he raced over toward first to come up cleanly with Art Shires' hard bounder. This ended the round, with Fred Leach in scoring position on second at the time.

CITY SERIES IS WON BY PHILS

Macks Bow, 3-2, in 4th Game; Hits by Mallon Fatal.

PHILADELPHIA, April 7 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Nationals put the city series championship in their bag today by defeating the Athletics, 3 to 2, in a ten-inning game.

With one game to be played, the series stands at three victories for the Phils and one for the A's. The Phils have thus taken the city series for three straight years.

Jimmy Foxx had a homer for the A's and Leslie Mallon duplicated the trick for the Phils. With the score tied at 2 to 2 in the tenth, Rube Walberg was nicked for the deciding tally by Bartell when he singled and advanced to third on a sacrifice. He scored on Mallon's hit to left field.

The A's "big three"—Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg—allowed the Phils nine hits. Collins and Grabowski gave the A's the same number.

Mysterious Fall Fatal To Milwaukee Scribe

St. Louis, April 7 (A.P.).—Manning Vaughan, veteran sports writer for the Milwaukee Journal, died here today of a fractured skull, received, his wife said, in a fall in Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. Vaughan said he was found unconscious in a room in the Frisco Hotel in Memphis a week ago Saturday. He was taken to Hot Springs, Ark., she said, and placed under the care of a physician, who later advised he be brought to St. Louis for treatment at Barnes Hospital, where he died.

Mrs. Vaughan told police her husband was unable to make a statement since his injury. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

Crocker Stops Doyle In Michigan Match

Flint, Mich., April 7 (A.P.).—Charles Crocker, Milwaukee, knocked out Mickie Doyle, of Pittston, Pa., in the third of a scheduled 10-round bout here tonight. Doyle's head struck the floor with such force that it was with difficulty he was revived after being unconscious for nearly 3 minutes. Each fighter weighed 135 pounds.

Benny Touchstone, 189, won on a foul over Johnnie Freeman, 186, Salamanca, N. Y. The referee awarded the bout to Touchstone at the end of the ninth round, because of a blow below the belt.

Franklin Young, 114¾, Detroit, outpointed Johnnie Edwards, 114, Huntington, W. Va., in another 10-rounder. The crowd booed the decision.

U. S. TEAM SECOND.

Jerusalem, April 7 (A.P.).—The Jewish athletic games ended today with the United States team in second place, with 285 points. The Polish team was first, with 377 points.

Nats' 16 Hits Prove Futile In Debut

Crowder Solved for Winning Run in 6th Following Walk.

Brandt Shows Speed; Fans Six; Triple Hit by Kerr.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

MAKING their 1932 debut here yesterday, with only a corporal's guard on hand to welcome them, the Nationals managed to outhit the Boston Braves, but they fell one short in that most important matter of scoring runs and were nosed out, 10 to 9. The loss was only their third in nineteen starts, however, so they can still point with pride to their "Grapefruit League" showing.

Although it was one of those slugfest affairs, play was rather listless in spots, with the Braves scoring what proved to be their winning run in the sixth stanza, when one of the two hits allowed by "General" Alvin Crowder propelled home Earl Clark, who had drawn the only pass issued by the "General."

Crowder, scheduled to start for the Nationals in their season's inaugural against the Boston Red Sox next Monday, pitched well, in sharp contrast to the showing made by Fred Marberry, who started and allowed thirteen hits, including five doubles, in five frames. "Ole Tom" Zachary, former Nat star, drew the first assignment for the Braves, and he was just about as ineffective as was Marberry. He granted eight hits in four innings, but these were so inserted that they netted the home crew half a dozen runs, although a costly error by Clark hurt his cause considerably.

Brandt Yields 3 Runs.

McKechnie sent Ed Brandt, one of the National League's best southpaws, to the hill starting the fifth. Three runs were garnered off his shoots in the fifth and sixth, but he then settled down and showed some real stuff, his fast one making the Nat batters look quite bad. All told, he fanned six.

Except for Marberry's pitching, the Nationals lived up to their advance press notices. Every member of the cast, except the pitchers, obtained at least one hit, with Myer, Manush, West, Kerr and Spencer getting two each. Among these blows were doubles by West, Manush and Spencer and a triple by Kerr. The latter, by the way, walked twice, so that his record of two out of three made him high gun for the day from a home viewpoint. Besides the extra basers mentioned above, Reynolds, Harris and Rice, the latter in a pinch-hitting role, cracked out two-sackers.

The oldest active infielder in the game and our old friend, "Pinky" Hargrave, did the fancy hitting for the aliens. Each was credited with three hits, two of Maranville's being doubles. These blows drove home three runs, while Hargrave's three singles propelled four home.

Washington was never ahead. For the first three frames, it was satisfied to merely equal anything that the Braves did in a scoring way. Both were blanked in the first, with the Braves becoming four up in the second. This cluster was molded from singles by Shires, Urbanski and Hargrave, Knothe's sacrifice, and doubles by Maranville and Worthington, these extra-basers coming after two were out.

Clark's Error Helps.

It took an error by Clark to enable the Nats to equal this effort in their half of the frame. Kerr opened with a lusty triple and scored while Urbanski was tossing out Reynolds. Judge and Bluege singled and then the visiting centerfielder dropped Spencer's easy fly. After Marberry rolled out, Myer's single drove the two base runners home.

Schulmerich's opening double, a helpful out, a walk, and Hargrave's single on which Reynolds was charged with an error, put the Braves two up in the next frame and the Nats managed to equal this effort. The ingredients in their splurge were a walk, Reynolds' double, Bluege's useful out, and Spencer's single.

Two were out in the fifth when the Braves got busy again and scored three times. Then Knothe doubled, Hargrave singled, Pinch-hitter Akers, former Tiger, followed suit, and Maranville came through with his second two-bagger of the day. It took the Nats the rest of the game to equal this splurge. Spencer's double and Pinch-hitter Moe Berg's single gave them one back in their half and they tallied two more in the sixth when Dave Harris, who replaced Reynolds, came through with a liner double almost to the stands in left after West and Kerr had opsned the round with successive singles.

Crowder Yields Winning Run.

Meanwhile, the Braves had registered what proved to be the deciding run in their sixth round. Crowder,

Bolling Field Plans Extension in Sports

Bolling Field plans an extensive sports building program which after completion will see the base installed as one of the athletic centers of Washington.

The field already boasts of a splendid golf course, a suitable gymnasium and three tennis courts, one of them inclosed. To these facilities will be added a new baseball diamond, a swimming pool, at least one new tennis court and a collapsible miniature arena where outdoor wrestling is planned.

Work has already started on the ball field and is expected to be completed in time for the opening of the field nine's schedule. The outdoor wrestling matches will be conducted by the field's athletic association in conjunction with Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn and the Bowser wrestlers.

U. S. Enters Investigation Of Phar Lap's Sudden Death

MENLO PARK, Calif., April 7 (A.P.).—While two separate inquiries into the death of Phar Lap were begun tody, a San Francisco taxidermist prepared to preserve the great Australian thoroughbred in a mounting that will be shipped back across the Pacific to the land "down under."

One examination was being conducted by F. N. Chisholm, local director of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, to determine whether the valuable animal was poisoned by grass sprayed with lead arsenate.

"After learning that many of the trees on the Ed Perry ranch, where the horse died last Tuesday, were covered with lead arsenate spray, I can say it is possible he was accidentally poisoned," Chisholm said.

"Some of the spray might have landed on the grass or weeds which the horse was eating. A steady diet of such poisoned grass would certainly cause death."

The Department of Agriculture representative also is making an analysis of Australian grain brought here for Phar Lap's feeding.

Analysis of the stomach contents was being made by Dr. Karl F. Meyer,

B'AR HUNTER, AT 4 TO 1, DEFEATS WOTAN IN BOWIE FEATURE

12,000 Watch Defeat of Favorite

Bradley Gelding Wins by 4 Lengths With Frumper Third.

Snobfull, $57, Takes Secondary Feature in Stretch.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

B'AR HUNTER, a chip off the Black Servant block and, like his daddy, running around race tracks in the interests of E. R. Bradley, upset the plans of Eddie Haughton to parade Wotan to victory yesterday, beating the conqueror of Spanish Play by four lengths, for the Mayor Howard W. Jackson (Baltimore) Trophy. Wotan found all the battle he wanted to keep Frumper from stealing the second money. B'ar Hunter was a 4-1 shot.

Bowie had another banner weekday crowd, the customers, in numbers around the 12,000 mark, witnessing the card in which thrilling finishes predominated.

Dancing Mack was rushed to the front, in the feature, and Mills swung him to the rail as the field rounded the clubhouse turn. My Fergus was following the leader with B'ar Hunter third, Wotan fourth and Frumper fifth. Dancing Mark slowed down midway of the back stretch and Jimmy Smith on B'ar Hunter took the lead. My Fergus was justifying strong play in the mutuels by sticking second with Wotan third. Wotan moved up as if to run B'ar Hunter into the ground turning into the stretch but the move proved of little value. Frumper closed gamely but too late.

Smith Rides Fifth Winner.

It was Jimmy Smith's fifth victory of the meeting and puts him next to Albert Robertson as the leading Maryland rider.

Snobful, which hung on the tailgate of a nine-horse field the other day, came to life to win the Calvert, a 6-furlong battle, the day's secondary feature. At that, W. W. Vaughn's colt only took the race by a snob from Pigeon Hole, but it was enough to warrant a price of $57 on the mutuel board. Sir Walter staggered into third place. The favored Broad Meadows was never a factor.

Sir Walter ran through the field as if his first meal in month's awaited him at the finish. Mills pumped the Wise Counsellor colt into a long lead, breaking some kind of records on the swing toward the stretch. At that point, fatigue, with a set of new break bands, slowed Sir Walter and the Snobful-Pigeon Hole battle came out in the opening. It was a thrilling finish with Herbert, on Snobful, losing the lead just off the mutuel board only to regain it just before the wire.

Workman Wins With Cresta Run.

Cresta Run, from the C. V. Whitney Stable, with Sonny Workman doing a lot of hard work in the stretch, proved the best of the 2-year-old group in the opener. Workman brought the colt up in the last few strides to win by a nose from Postponement with Hank Mills up.

The Whitney colt had to be a lot better than the opposition to take the race. Star Porter hopped off ahead and was raced into submission by Postponement. meanwhile Cresta Run was in a tangle. Workman found racing room for his mount nearing the stretch and the son of Mad Hatter moved up fast to fight the winning battle with Postponement. Keltwick made a game finish to take third money.

Black Watch, the property of Mrs. W. E. Martin, gave most of the crowd a surprise by galloping down the stretch three lengths in front of eleven platers. Fervor, a lukewarm favorite, was second ahead of Pop Gaffney. Black Watch paid off at the handsome rate of 11-1.

Rain or Shine spent a brief period in front in this race but Black Watch, with Mel Lewis in the saddle, had command rounding the far turn with Pop Gaffney laying up on his saddle strap. Phantom Star, which had been running behind the pace setter, was third with Fervor sixth under Jimmy Smith's strong grip. Black Watch was drawing away from Pop Gaffney as the field straightened out in the stretch and Fervor made his move. The latter managed to outgame Pop but Black Watch was winging ahead at the finish.

War Saint Easy Winner.

War Saint showed a return to his Florida form to make a runaway of his field in the third race, another plater contest, this time over the route. Ruane drove into second place with the veteran Genial Host third.

Hank Mills rushed War Saint to the front and the B. B. Stable gelding had a three lengths advantage as the field swung passed the Greentree Stable barn at the 6-furlong chute. War Saint was never seriously threatened and Mills had only to complete the ride.

The sixth race was full of paddock tips and one of these, Worldly Lad, finished on the head end to return $12.70. The gelding beat Broadway Lights by a half length. A length back came Lucky Jack to annex third money. Lucky Jack was in the van through the back stretch but around the bend he gave way to Broadway Lights. Worldly Lad sailed around the field approaching the stretch and in a long duel, wore down Broadway Lights through the last furlong.

Era repeated his recent victory in the last race, winning by a length to pay $14.80. Strongheart took the place from Tinita.

BETHESDA NINE READY.

The Bethesda A. C. has reorganized for the coming season and would like to book games with strong unlimited clubs. Horace Bingell is arranging the schedule, at Bradley 80. The team plans to enter the Capital City League.

JOE AND ASBESTOS —By Ken Kling

Asbestos can't stand prosperity. After winning $4.40 last Wednesday, he dropped $3 yesterday when Wotan was second. The roll is now $14.85. Today he is picking an outsider. Maybe he knows something.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CRESTA RUN, $4.30, $3.20, $2.50; POSTPONEMENT, $4.10, $3.10; KELTWICK, $4.00.

CRESTA RUN, pinched back directly after the start, was forced to come to the outside to secure racing room, responded stoutly when entering the home stretch, swerved repeatedly during the stretch run and, finishing gamely, was up in the final strides. POSTPONEMENT raced STAR PORTER into submission and held on stubbornly for the final drive. KELTWICK, shuffled back leaving the back stretch, came with belated speed when finding racing room. POST BRIGADE showed a good effort throughout. LONESOME PINE closed stoutly. BOBBY F. and CHISEL, wet with interference when straightened into the home stretch. TEE OFF bore out entering the home stretch.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 2:34. Off at 2:35. Winner, Mrs. W. E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK WATCH, $24.00, $9.90, $5.40; FERVOR, $4.10, $2.90; POP GAFFNEY, $2.80.

BLACK WATCH, toting to his best form and a stout factor while racing with the leaders, assumed command when straightened into the home stretch and drew clear steadily when kept under pressure to the end. FERVOR worked his way up on the outside and finished with good courage when placed to punishment. POP GAFFNEY forced a good pace, saved ground, but tired when the final test came. REPROOF was forced wide for most of the trip. She closed gamely nearing the finish. RAIN OR SHINE raced well up for five furlongs. FLAMING MAMIE was held safe. KINGROW went wide all the way. PHANTOM STAR stopped badly after a half mile.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:03. Off at 3:06. Winner, B. B. †Miss G. Baker-J. D. Baker entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WAR SAINT, $5.60, $3.30, $2.40; RUANE, $3.20, $2.50; GENIAL HOST, $2.80.

WAR SAINT sprinted into an easy lead directly after the start, was rated along while racing slightly restrained, was shaken up moving into the home stretch and had enough left to stall off RUANE. Latter, a slow beginner, worked his way between his field when entering into contention and closed stoutly in the final drive. GENIAL HOST made a stout effort when approaching the home stretch, but could not stay with the first two. TOREALONG closed an immense gap from a slow beginning. OVERLOOK could not reach the leaders at any stage. TANGIER was forced to race on the outside and could not get to the pacemakers. FRANCES COOPER showed speed in spots. PIPEDREAM and CLAIRE AMOUR were used up forcing the pace.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:36. Off at 3:37½. Winner, W. W. Vaughan's b. c. (3), by Snob II—Refusal. Trained by D. T. Morris. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:12 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SNOBFUL, $57.00, $14.90, $9.00; PIGEON HOLE, $4.60, $3.90; SIR WALTER, $5.50.

SNOBFUL, outrun early, but going in his best form, slipped through on the inside of the leaders when moving into contention, closed gamely through the home stretch and outfinished PIGEON HOLE when inside the closing furlong. PIGEON HOLE, vigorously ridden to keep in near attendance of the pace, wore SIR WALTER down, but hung during the final sixteenth mile. SIR WALTER broke tardily, was rushed into a long lead in the first half mile, then weakened fast in the final furlong. BROAD MEADOWS was unable to stay with the pace after the first three furlongs. SOUPCON had speed early. REHOBOTH quit.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The Mayor Howard W. Jackson Trophy. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:04. Off at 4:07½. Winner, E. R. Bradley's b. c. (4), by Black Servant—Bit o' White. Trained by W. Hurley. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:40 4-5, 1:48.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—B'AR HUNTER, $9.40, $4.20, $3.30; WOTAN, $3.10, $2.40; FRUMPER, $3.00.

B'AR HUNTER, taken under steadying restraint while holding a forward position on the inside of the leaders, was sent into command when reaching the far turn and, hard ridden thereafter, held WOTAN safe. Latter, rated close up and under slight early restraint, challenged boldly when approaching the home stretch, but was no match for the winner in the final drive. FRUMPER, outrun early, closed gamely during the final three-sixteenths mile. MY FERGUS went along at his best speed for six furlongs and tired thereafter. DANCING MACK was done after seven furlongs.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 4:37. Off at 4:40. Winner, R. L. Rogers' blk. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WORLDLY LAD, $12.70, $6.00, $5.40; BROADWAY LIGHTS, $2.20, $4.00; LUCKY JACK, $7.30.

WORLDLY LAD, favored by improved handling, was kept within striking distance of the leaders, came determinedly for the final drive and, wearing the leaders down, was under severe urging at the finish. BROADWAY LIGHTS, close to the leaders early, took a slight lead midway of the far turn and held on stoutly for the closing drive. LUCKY JACK raced GENERAL COURT into submission, saved ground and fought it out courageously in the final issue. CHOSEN PAL reached the leaders with a rush and then held on well for the final test. GENERAL COURT was made too much use of racing with LUCKY JACK and swerved to the inside to finish in tight quarters at the finish. DARK VISION met with no mishaps.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won cleverly; place, driving. Went to post at 5:10. Off at 5:12. Winner, H. A. Catalano's b. g. (6), by Audacious—Notime. Trained by P. T. Catalano. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:49 4-5, 1:15 2-5, 1:41 2-5, 1:49 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ERA, $14.80, $7.70, $4.40; STRONGHEART, $5.10, $3.80; TINITA, $9.40.

ERA outran his field to the first turn, was rated in front until reaching the home stretch and was shaken up mildly to withstand STRONGHEART. Latter, taken under slight restraint for six furlongs, went to the outside when making his effort and closed gamely. TINITA began slowly, went up on the outside to reach contention and finished gamely. BRAGGADOCIO closed stoutly from a slow beginning. BLACK PATRICIA was rushed hard the entire trip. BOB SHANNON was unable to reach the leaders. FAIRDALE quit badly.

WINS TRYON HORSE PRIZE.

Tryon, N. C., April 7 (A.P.).—Whitehall Chief, owned by R. Horace Johnston, of Charlotte, captured first prize for five-gaited horses, of any weight, in the seventh annual Tryon Horse Show here Wednesday. The show, with one of the heaviest entry lists in history, was run off before approximately 4,000 spectators, along with a bench show, in which the sweepstakes trophy was won by Ada Summey, of the Golden Valley Kennels, Forest City, N. C.

D. C. POLICE OUTSHOT.

The Washington Police Pistol Team passed up an opportunity to improve its standing in the National Police Pistol League by losing to Los Angeles, Calif., 1,409 to 1,379. The locals are tied for third place, with 4 victories in 9 matches. G. M. Stewart, of Washington, was high man in the match with 100, 99, 99—298.

SENATORS IN ACTION.

The Senator Midgets will meet the Quincy A. C. Saturday at 10:30 a. m. on the Camp Meigs diamond. All players are requested to report promptly.

MATE SEEKS PIMLICO STAKE

$15,000 Dixie Fire 1932 Test for Bostwick Star.

BOWIE, Md., April 7 (A.P.).—Mate, chief rival of Twenty Grand for the 3-year-old turf championship last year, will start his 4-year-old campaign for stake honors in the $15,000 Dixie Handicap at Pimlico May 7.

The Dixie, decided over a mile and three-sixteenths, is the first of the many handicap events for which A. C. Bostwick has named Mate, with the hope the son of Prince Pal will pass Sun Beau as the leading money winner of the world before the end of the year.

Winner of $273,425, Mate is the leading money winner in training. Although seventh on the financial list, he is only a little more than $100,000 short of Sun Beau's record of $376,744.

Mate wintered well at Aiken, S. C., and appears nearly ready for the races. Young Bostwick, who plans to train his horses this year, hopes to give the colt a prep race at Havre de Grace, which opens April 16.

Bostwick's Preakness and Kentucky Derby candidate, Proteus, will make his first appearance of the year under silks in the Rowe Memorial Handicap here Saturday.

Although Proteus was not rated high as a juvenile, Bostwick paid Anthony Pelleteri, of New Orleans, $25,000 for the colt after he had been cut down in a race just before the sale.

STEIN BEATS MANICH IN STRAND FEATURE

bumped to a jolting stop, got up, and so dizzy was he that he reeled around and around in the ring in ever lessening circles, finishing his hilarious act by spinning in the center of the ring, jumping high in the air and with arms spread wide landing on the flat of his back. It was a riot, gents, a riot.

Doc Wilson won a hocus pocus decision over Oke Shakima, in a match wherein there was a deal of mystifying jiu jitsu, a measure of nerve plucking, an even teaspoon of Buster Keaton flops and some wrestling. Doc, a tremendously popular figure with local rassling fans, drew something of a boo for shooting a flying tackle at the Japanese when the rice cruncher had his back turned.

Fred Grobmeier won again, this time against Anton Peterson, who gave up at the end of 26 minutes when Grobmeier fastened his tortuous scissors around the bane middle of the urbane Swede.

Then let us not forget our favorite enemy, Jack Washburn, who won himself a handsome boo by mauling George McLeod in a match which was stopped after 30 minutes by a providential whistle.

All told it was the best card in about a year.

Sports of All Sorts At Mt. Rainier High

Mount Rainier, Md., April 7.—A comprehensive system of athletics under which students have opportunity of engaging in their favorite sports has just been put into effect at the Mount Rainier High School.

Boys' squads have been organized in baseball, track, speed ball, dodge ball and tennis, and the girls are participating in volley ball, dodge ball, hit ball and touchdown-pass ball and obstacle and relay races. The groups are being coached by members of the faculty.

Perry Wilkinson, coach of the regular boys' teams, is tutoring the baseball and track squads. Samuel Caltrider has the speed ball group. Mrs. Edna Nola dodge ball and Stella Payne the tennis. Mrs. Nolan also coaches girls' dodge ball. Other girls' mentors are: Mabel Barnes, volley ball; Vivian Barr and Lucille Stinnett, hit ball and touchdown-pass ball, and Elizabeth Minns is handling the obstacle and relay race teams.

SKINKER EAGLES MEET.

The Skinker Eagles Baseball Team will be reorganized for the coming campaign at a meeting to be held Friday night at the home of Manager "Ham" Clipper, 438 Ingraham street northwest. Players and new candidates are requested to attend.

AT THE POST

BOWIE RACE TRACK.

DEAR AL:

Our horses fought to get in the money yesterday, even Tinita (the one that you said was the biggest horse laugh of the meeting) came from ninth to take third money. Expect to dig up some of those that will ring the big bell, but it will take better riders to turn the trick.

As Teddy Johnson says, "These bad times are good times to be catching winners." Here they are:

The big chunk, the chief money or just the plain feature race for today is the Holly Beach, a six-furlong dash, in which horses foaled in Maryland will get an exclusive chance at a $1,400 purse.

COLOSSAL showed me enough Tuesday to warrant selection in this field. Appeared to be much the superior animal the other day behind Impish and deserved a better fate than second. Provided the same poor racing luck is not encountered today, COLOSSAL should take the measure of TRED AVON. The Labrot filly, making its 1932 debut, should be a close second. Proved courageous and speedy last year and is justly popular. Clockers had given her the stamp. May need a race, however. CALGARY KAY is fast enough to be third in this group.

FIRST RACE—SNOWDRIFT, W. J. Salmon's filly, may sprint home in her first effort. Is a half sister of Air Pilot and may have some of that speedy one's foot. HALF SAINT is bred to run and is likely to show improvement off that first appearance. SONSY had racing last winter and the experience may carry her into third money.

SECOND RACE—CONTRIBUTE will not have as fast company as the other day, and I look for a good effort from this Purchase colt. That New York form can not be passed up, and on it CONTRIBUTE has strong possibilities. VISHNU comes back after forcing a merry pace and should account for place here. JIB BOOM for third.

THIRD RACE—GAY PARTY failed to show 1931 Bowie form at Havana. Here again and sharp, 'tis said. Likely to draw a topnoch boy and may upset these. DON ROMIRO has that good race to recommend him, following that excellent Florida speed. Expect this one to beat out REGULA BADDUN.

FIFTH RACE—NEGOPOLI is picked to beat BRASS MONKEY. Robertson may ride the first named and if he does I expect NEGOPOLI to wing home ahead. Must be close enough to make that rush count, however. BRASS MONKEY dropped a tough race the other day and is fit. DON TASKER for third.

SIXTH RACE—TWISTED THREADS was scratched with a race of this kind in view. That New Orleans form speaks for itself. Should get in front of these and stay there. Among the ones to beat are KNEE HIGH and SKIDMORE.

SEVENTH RACE—CHOLLA had little chance in that last race after a poor start and meets a lower grade of horses here. Seems the horse to bet on. HOW turned in a fair effort last year and may be second the first time out. FLYING ATOM for third.

CRASH KILLS BOXERS.

Tucson, Ariz., April 7 (A.P.).—Ferris Smith, 21-year-old boxer, of Picayune, Miss., was killed and Mike Martin, 31, was injured seriously when their automobile overturned near Gila Bend, Ariz., today.

RACING NOTES

A. C. Bostwick's brother, Pete, will come down to ride Proteus in the Rowe Memorial Handicap tomorrow. Proteus will carry 126 pounds.

Richard Pending, Bowie track superintendent, has purchased Ned O., which ran third in the Kentucky Derby of 1930, at private terms from the widow of G. W. Foreman, who developed him. Ned O. wintered at Saratoga. He will be started at Havre de Grace.

Equipoise breezed 6 furlongs yesterday, in preparation for his comeback, in 1:14. Fred Hopkins considers him ready for a race and he will start here or at Havre de Grace.

Max Hirsch is expected to give Tick On, second choice in the Derby, and On Post, his stablemate, a race at Havre de Grace before sending the pair to Churchill Downs.

The weights for the Rowe Memorial Handicap ($5,000, added), tomorrow's feature, were announced yesterday as follows:

Proteus, 126; Air Pilot, 122; Phantom Legion, 121; Springsteel, 118; Open Hearth, 117; Bertjohn, 115; Predict, 115; Jolly Pilot, 114; Towee, 114; Mexico, 114; Portam, 113; Snobful, 112; High Proof, 112; Indicative, 112; Arrow, 112; Don Romiro, 109; Hatteras, 107; Marcasite, 106; Pending, 105; The Crane, 104; My Fergus, 104; Late Date, 103; General Court, 102; Rehoboth, 100.

Banquet Scheduled For St. John's Five

St. John's triumphant basket ball team will be honored at a banquet at the Vermont Avenue School Monday night at 7 o'clock by the Mothers Club of St. John's.

The 1932 season was the greatest ever enjoyed by a St. John's court team. It swept through its regular schedule with victories over the two leading high school clubs, Eastern and Tech. Then followed victory in The Post's Prep School Tournament. The season closed with the winning of the 130-pound championship in the District A. A. U. Tournament.

BUSINESS AND CENTRAL NINES OPEN SCHOOL SERIES TODAY

Mt. Pleasant Team Choice To Win

Central Has Slight Edge in Pitching Talent.

Both Teams Pack a Punch; Tight Race Is Foreseen.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE ANNUAL race for the championship long held by Eastern High will begin this afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, on Eastern Field, when the high school baseball series gets under way with a game between Central and Business, the two most serious rivals of the defending champion.

Both Central and Business pack wallops this year. Central is a slight favorite on the basis of better pitching and greater activity this spring, but it would not take a great deal to revise the decision, since most high school games are won at the plate and Business boasts of some worthy batters.

The series starts with not only an excellent opening game, but with the promise of more to come. The teams are more evenly bunched than in the last four years, during which time Eastern has held a monopoly on first place. Two clubs have new coaches, Tech and Central, and new faces are sprinkled well throughout the entire list of five clubs.

Buscher of Central Strong on Mound.

Emmett Buscher, the pitching "find" that bloomed and wilted in two short games last year—having gone ineligible after winning a brace of contests in easy fashion—will start for Central today with a year's more strength in his frame and reams of experience added to his repertory of deliveries. Business' coach, Lynn Woodworth, is Connie Macking the boys and will not name his flinger until Willie Watt calls "Pa-lay ball!"

Either Lou Silverman or Jimmy Garner will pitch for Business. Both have improved notably over last year, in keeping with the general rise in pitching skill among the high school boys this year.

Central will use Keyser on first; Chumbris, second base; Nau, shortstop; Raub, third base; Bryant, Thompson and Moran, outfielders, and Cooke, catcher. Thompson, Cooke and Raub are veterans from the last two years. Business' lineup probably will read, Mastromarino, catcher; Sherman, first base; Giovanetti, second base; Curtin, shortstop; Schneider, third base; Fraydin, Flynn and Steel, outfielders.

The opening of the series will be the feature but not the sum total of the scholastic baseball situation today. Western plays the Maryland University freshman team at College Park and Georgetown Prep takes on Rockville at Garrett Park in other games today.

Western has an outstanding pitcher this year in Bill Payne, and a reasonably veteran supporting cast. The Old Line team has not had many practice sessions this season and little is known of the make-up of the team.

Georgetown Prep, although hampered by the absence of Tom Keating, who is out with injuries, will have a seasoned squad on the field as it starts its schedule today. The opening line-up reads, Cohan, center field; Heckin, short stop; Ragland, catcher; Allan, third base; Stewart, right field; Ryan, first base; MacNamara, pitcher; McMahon, second base, and Kelly, left field.

The Georgetown Prep schedule:

Today, Rockville; April 15, Bethesda-Chevy Chase; 18, Central, away; 20, Western, away; 22, Friends; 25, Tech; 27, Eastern, away; 29, Gonzaga.

May 6, Friends, away; 7, Mount St. Joseph; 10, Rockville, away; 11, Charlotte Hall, away; 13, Western; 16, Central; 18, Mount St. Joseph, away; 20, Gonzaga; 23, Eastern.

East Riverdale Nine Is Reorganizing

East Riverdale, Md., April 7.—Reorganization of the East Riverdale Boys Athletic Club Baseball Team has been effected and the team is gunning for games in the junior class, Stafford Howard, president of the club, is handling challenges at Hyattsville 799-M after 6 p. m.

Dependables of last season's team are available along with several newcomers of promise.

Mainstays from 1931 on the job include Al Birch, catcher; Bill Shine, Stanley Kernan and Howard, pitchers; Henry Eisenschmidt, second base; Brother Hess, shortstop; Charles Shirley, third base, and Harrison Malmburg, Eddie Cartnell, Georgie Greer and Donnie McDonald, outfielders. Howard also plays first base.

C. S. Kernan is manager of the team and a captain is to be elected. The East Riverdale boys did well last season.

A peewee team also is being sponsored this year by the club.

Bill Agee to Compete In K. C. Run Sunday

Bill Agee, veteran and nationally known marathon runner, will participate in the fifth of a series of weekly practice runs to be staged by the Knights of Columbus Sunday. In addition to Agee, practically all of the distance runners of the Stonewall Club, Baltimore, have announced their intentions of running. The athletes will leave K. of C. Hall at 11 a. m., traveling 6 miles through the city streets.

CARDINALS PLAY SUNDAY.

The Washington A. C. will practice today at 5 p. m. on the field at Eighteenth and Bay streets southeast. Sunday the team will journey to Indianhead for a game with the Cardinals.

AUTHS TO PLAY SAINTS.

The St. Joseph's A. C. and Auth's nine will tangle Sunday at 3 p. m. on diamond No. 4 of the Monument grounds in a practice game. All players are urged to report promptly.

PREPS PLAY VICTORY POST.

The Notre Dame Preps will meet the Victory Post nine in a practice game Sunday on a diamond yet to be selected. For games with the Preps, call Lincoln 1339.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

WITH practically all of the sweepstakes safely packed in the moth balls and the sports schedule swinging down the lane out of bowling into baseball and other summer sports, it strikes us that now is the time for the best stake event of them all—one for the alley operators. Personally, we think well of the idea.

The operators have a tough time of it in supervising all of the other sweepstakes, and they have to work much harder than most of us realize. All work and no play leads to flat feet, indigestion, hay windows, insomnia and a good many other things. A tournament would help prevent these conditions, not that any of them have fallen arches, humped backs, or are nearsighted, but a stitch in time is worth a pound of cure, as some one once said.

Let's see, who would be eligible. There's John Blick. John claims an official average of 115, but he never has been caught with the goods. However, he could, if he insisted on maintaining such an average, be handicapped. Say, tie the Leviathan's anchor around his neck, or make him roll with his back to the pins, using a mirror to sight his mark. Bill Wood, major-domo at Lucky Strike, is another prospect. Our agents have never been able to obtain much information concerning his ability to break up a party of duckpins, but we think it safe to say that he is adept at the game. To satisfy all concerned, it would do well to have him roll a test game. If he should show signs of overpowering the others he could be handicapped in manner similar to Blick. We would suggest making him wear a boxing glove on the right hand.

Tad Howard is another whom we are certain could be sold on the idea, particularly the idea of reducing. "Reds" Megaw fails to qualify. He is just a little too far ahead of the rest to justify his entrance. Lonnie Krauss, Ralph Fraser and Charley Bell, are another likely looking trio. "Hokie" Smith and "Pop" Logan are also ineligible. Dave Cox would be obliged to answer a few questions should he apply for entrance, as would "Pop" Halley.

The entrance fee would be two pennies, or one penny and four straight pins, or a penny and two safety pins. This would make it possible to award a suitable prize to the winner. One suggestion is a coupon good for three games of bowling on a rival concern's alley, or a pink balloon, a pair of plate glass shoe strings, or steel punching bag.

Ralph Fraser has announced the first annual Federal and District Government Handicap Sweepstakes, open to all Government League bowlers, which will be rolled at Arcadia, Monday, May 2, 112 being considered scratch. Bowlers will be allowed two-thirds of the difference between their average and the above figure. Three games will be rolled, total pins to count. The entrance fee of $1.60 covers everything. Entries close Saturday, April 30, at Arcadia.

The seniors and juniors of section A-5, Income Tax Unit, are scheduled to do battle tonight at Lucky Strike. "They can't beat me" Potthoff will lead the seniors and Heinie (I can) Wagner will pilot the juniors.

Sixteen-year-old Teddy Glascoe distinguished himself with his spectacular work in Section 2 of the Prince Georges County loop last night. Teddy, rolling for Brentwood Market, caused the downfall of the Suburban Sanitary Commission quintet by rolling a 149 game which he built into a 397 set. His team won two, reducing the margin of the leading Sanitary five to a mere game. The season ends next week. It looks like all of the new stars are coming from this section.

"Spence" Mulinix's 335 set and Howard Jewett's 143 game took the individual honors in the North of Washington Church League at Silver Spring. Grace Christian's 1,547 set and Trio Christian's 575 game accounted for the team prizes.

The leading Treasury team continued its mad dash to the pennant in the Ladies Federal League by winning all three from Labor at Arcadia last night. Interstate Commerce Commission continued to dog the heels of the leaders by taking a trio from G. P. O., and Commerce treated Veterans Bureau to the same dose. Commerce contributed a 539 game and 1,613 set to the evening's festivities. Elsie Fischer's 333 set and Mary Bryant's 131 were high.

Bud Talley, of Maryland, won the handicap tournament conducted by the Intercollegiate Alumni League at Rendezvous with a score of 377 last night. Bob Garrett, of V. M. I., was second with 362; Johnny Pendleton, of Dartmouth, third, with 357, and "Bumps" Buell, with 354, was fourth.

Miss Kemp's 121 game and her 294 set earned the frosting off of the cake in the Veterans Bureau Ladies circuit at Arcadia. The Nitwits, who aren't so nitwitty after all, rolled a 468 game and 1,338 set.

Miller was the star of the War Department loop at Arcadia, spilling 144 pins in the high game and 387 over the three-game route. Hydrographic's 582 and 1,690 bagged the team cash.

Pursuit Group's 484 and 1,360 were sufficient to gain the team prizes in the A. G. O. Ladies' League at Columbia. Miss Irma Quedle, of Pack Train, instilled a bit of new life into the loop by rolling a 146 game, which happens to be an all-time record for the organization. Her set score was boosted considerably by this effort, winding up at 320.

G. M. I. chalked up a new season's record in its second game in the Interior League at Columbia, raising the ante to 594. It continued its good work to score a set of 1,638. Dotson's 142 game and King's 358 set were prizeworthy.

After the stars had finished bowling at Convention Hall last night, John Blick, sponsor of the District All-Stars, and Frank Barber, pilot of the Blue Ribbons, inaugurated the first of a long line of special, home and home, and home, and home matches. Blick rolled the highest set of his career to down his rival with an ease that bespeaks of boredom. The score was 222-221.

Nick Tronsky and Bill Tato almost smashed the record for a single game in doubles in the four-cornered doubles exhibition at Convention Hall last night when they plied the pins for a 326 score in their fourth game. Tronsky totaled 174 in this frame and Tato 152. The record, 329, is held by Andy Zieler and Carl Eissele, of Baltimore.

Incidentally, this pair were high for the evening, rolling a five-game total of 1,287, which is only 9 pins shy of equaling the five-game mark. Tronsky was in rare form. He spilled 695 pins in the five games he rolled, his partner was only 103 pins behind. "Reds" Megaw and Ollie Pacini, who will carry the chief hopes of Washington into battle at Norfolk for a last chance at the doubles crown, rolled into second place on a score 1,195. Megaw's high game was 142, and Pacini's 146. Jack White and "Babe" Dugas were third with 1,148, and Ray Barnes and Wesley Askew fourth with 1,107.

Tronsky ran into rough going when he opposed Ray Barnes in a singles match after the doubles. Barnes won rather handily, bumping 413 pins off the mapleways to Nick's 371. Eddie Espey, Convention Hall ace, also had the satisfaction of pinning a defeat on the lapel of "Babe" Dugas in another singles engagement. Eddie played a merry tune on the duckpins for a 371 score. Dugas could locate but 350 bottles.

Navy Stick Team Primed for Start

Tars, Envisioning Olympic Series, Meet Mt. Washington Tomorrow.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 7.—Naval Academy lacrosse players who entertain high hopes of getting into the Olympic tryouts and eventually winning the honor of representing the United States at Los Angeles in June, will make their 1932 debut on Saturday, and in meeting Mount Washington Club, of Baltimore, they will have a tough assignment on their hands for an inaugural.

With five veterans in the lineup, Coach Findlayson has his team in good shape. The seasoned players are Capt. Buck James, of Hyattsville, Md., at cover point; Tylor, second defense; Dial, center, and Moncure, in home. The latter was the star and high scorer of last year's team.

Mount Washington will, as usual, bring an aggregation of former college stars, hence the Middies will have to put forth their best efforts to win.

Two other events are on Saturday's sport card at the academy. The varsity baseball team will stack up against Lafayette College, while the tennis players will entertain Swarthmore College.

Bridgeport Bowlers Beaten by Bethesda

The Sokol-Rosebuds, of Bridgeport, Conn., United States team champions of 1931, who are on their way to Norfolk, Va., to defend their honors in the national tournament, stopped off at Bethesda last night long enough to absorb a 1,717 to 1,687 trouncing at the hands of the Bethesda quintet. The 1931 Sokol team is intact, but observers voiced the opinion that it did not show sufficient form last night to warrant the retention of the title.

Joe Wassell, with a high game of 136 and set of 373 was high for the visitors. Hugh Walson was the big gun in the Bethesda attack. He put asunder no less than 363 pins in his three games, which included a high of 126.

Parker, Boys' Champ, Beats Lott, 6-4, 8-6

New Orleans, April 7 (A.P.).—Little Frank Parker, boys' national singles champion, surprised the Tulane Tennis Club invitation tournament today by defeating George Lott, second ranking national singles player, in the second round. The score was 6—4, 8—6.

Other favorites held to form, Ellsworth Vines, top-ranking national player, eliminating Kendall Cram, Tulane freshman, 6—1, 6—3. Wilmer Allison, Davis Cup doubles player, turned back Fred Royer, Chicago, 7—9, 6—3, 6—2, and J. Gilbert Hall, Canadian indoor champion, outbattled James Quick, of Dallas, Tex., 7—5, 0—6, 6—4.

The loss of his match to Parker was a disappointment to Lott, who, after losing the first set, had a lead of 4—1 in the second, only to have his 16-year-old rival pull up and out to victory.

After the match Lott announced his withdrawal from the doubles competition, and his partner, J. Gilbert Hall, said he would pair with Parker.

DAY NURSERY FANS TO SEE PUNCHER

Overlin, Said to Pack Wallop, to Meet D'Alessandro.

TAKING his record at face value, Ken Overlin, the sailor lad who meets Tony D'Alessandro in one of the three eight-round bouts featuring next Tuesday's Day Nursery card, will show Capital and Alexandria fistic fans the best middleweight punch, tossing that has been witnessed in Portner Arena this season.

Overlin, attached to the U. S. S. Idaho, docked at Norfolk, has defeated all of the best middleweights so far seen in the Alexandria ring. He has twice beaten Eric Lawson, who was popular at Portner's until Bob Godwin shellacked him three weeks ago, and has scored once, each, at the expense of Bob Turner, Walter Kirkwood and Joey Raymond.

Overlin Possesses Punch.

According to reports from Norfolk and Portsmouth, where he has compiled this fine record within four months, Overlin possesses a powerful right-hand punch upon which he depends chiefly to win. The art of boxing is, seemingly, a matter he must investigate some time when he has nothing to do.

All of which might be construed to mean that D'Alessandro will offer Overlin little opposition. But any such supposition is wrong, if you take the word of Jimmy Bronson, canny New York boxing manager, who is sending Tony and Louie Jallos down for this show. Bronson calls Tony the Italian Assassin and points proudly to his spotless amateur record that earned him remunerative professional fights immediately upon his decision to quit Simon-pure ranks.

Jallos, the sleek-haired Cleveland Greek, who outpointed Bobby Burns, of Baltimore, on the Ritchie Coliseum card February 29, will battle Jack Portney, clever Baltimore southpaw, in one of the other eights. The third of the triple-star attraction brings together Burns and Tootsie Bashara, of Norfolk.

Young Van to Meet Sailor Potter.

Young Van, promising Washington middleweight, who has four straight kayoes to his credit, is matched with Sailor Potter, of Norfolk, who has lost only one of his seven bouts as a pro, and Harry Groves, Baltimore feather, is pitted against Buddy Grimes, of Norfolk. These will be four-round affairs.

Walker-Payne Play For Handball Title

Overcoming unexpectedly strong opposition Channing Walker, the favorite, defeated Dr. G. W. Walker yesterday at the Y. M. C. A. to reach the singles finals of the annual District of Columbia A. A. U. championship handball tournament. The scores were 16—21, 21—9 and 21—7.

Walker will meet J. B. Payne tomorrow in the titular match beginning at 3 o'clock. Payne defeated Perrie McLean in the semifinals, 21—17; 14—21 and 21—11.

Semifinals in doubles will be played this afternoon starting at 2 o'clock with Walker and McLean, defending champions, meeting Tom Charshee and Randy Myers, who yesterday defeated Joe Cowley and William Neville, 14—21, 21—11 and 21—16. The other semifinals finds Cliff Woodward and Leonard Vineberg opposing Payne and Paul Pearlman at 6:30 o'clock.

DeGlane Beats George As 15,000 See Match

Boston, April 7 (A.P.).—Henri Deglane, of France, claimant to the world's wrestling championship, won two out of three falls in defeating Ed Don George, former title claimant, in the main bout of a wrestling show attended by 15,000 persons at the Arena tonight.

Deglane took the first fall in 13:47 with a head scissors and wrist lock but George evened the score with a body lift and slam in 24:43. Deglane received the deciding fall in 14:27 with a front body lift and slam.

In the semifinal Jim Browning, of Missouri, and Nick Lutze, of California, wrestled to a 30-minute draw. Charlie Strack, of Oklahoma A. and M., and Al Morelli, of Boston College, grappled to a draw for 15 minutes.

Glaze Named to Lead New Suburban League

Francis Glaze was elected president of the New Suburban Church Baseball League at a meeting held last night. Vernon Clarke was chosen vice president and William Burslem, secretary-treasurer. Plans were made for the opening of the league with a double-header on May 7. Two games will be played every Saturday during the season, each team meeting the others six times. Eighteen games in all are on the schedule. Hyattsville Presbyterian will oppose Hyattsville Episcopal, and Colesville Methodist will clash with Hyattsville Southern Methodist, at Colesville, in the opening games.

MEMPHIS WINNER.

Birmingham, Ala., April 7 (A.P.).—The Minneapolis Baseball Club, behind the excellent pitching of Phil Mensick, trounced Birmingham, 6 to 1, here today.

The Millers pounded out seven safe wallops for five runs while Caldwell was on the mound. Mowry Miller, outfielder, hit two doubles and a single in five trips to the plate.

GRADUATE FROM BANKS.

Two former bank clerks may play third base in the National League this year—Stanley Hack, of the Chicago Cubs, from Sacramento, and Bobby Reis, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, obtained from Hartford, Conn.

PHOENIX VS. WOODLEY.

The Phoenix A. C. will engage the Woodley nine in a practice game Sunday at 10 a. m on the Phoenix field. All players are requested to report at 9 o'clock.

SWANN JUNIORS MEET.

The Swann Service Juniors will meet tonight at the home of Manager Huston, at 8:30 o'clock. Players desiring transportation should meet at Fourteenth and Girard streets at 8 o'clock.

Eight Junior Nines Decide To Launch Series May 15

Large Turn-Out of Managers of Capital City League Clubs Adopts 15-Player Limit; to Use A. L. Ball.

EIGHT teams were represented at the meeting of the junior division of The Post's Capital City League last night in the office of the Playground Department at the District Building. This number represents one of the largest turnouts the junior division has ever had at its initial meeting. More clubs are expected to seek berths before the schedule is opened. The Post will again reward the winner of the race for the city title with gold baseballs.

Teams represented last night and their managers are as follows: Fussell-Young, Jim Mathews; Mulhall A. C., George Bentor; Georgetown A. C., Buck Trundle; Mount Rainier, Carson Myers; Dor-A, A. R. Bauers; Swann Service, Sam Huston; Wheeler Club, A. E. Brand; Conduit A. C., R. L. McIntire.

The teams unanimously approved of the new rules limiting all teams to fifteen players and requiring each player to file a birth certificate with the league secretary. They also approved of the American League ball, which they will use in all games played this year.

The age limit was discussed at length, with the majority of the teams preferring the limit of last year to the new one adopted at a recent meeting of the league directors. The matter will be referred back to the directors with the request that the limit be raised. If the same age limit as used last year is again adopted boys who will not attain their nineteenth birthday before midnight of June 1 will be eligible to play in this division.

No definite franchise fee was set, although it will again be in the neighborhood of $15. It was decided to begin play on May 15, thus giving assurance the city title would be decided in the latter part of August. If only eight teams enter the league they will play each other twice, with the winner of the first half meeting the winner of the second half in a three-game series for the championship. Should more teams enter they will be divided into two divisions, each team meeting the other twice, and the winner of each division participating in the play-off. The teams will meet again Thursday, April 21.

9 Major College Football Squads Under New Coaches

NEW YORK, April 7.—Nine major colleges and universities and several schools on the "minor circuits" have entrusted their gridiron destinies to new hands this spring in an unusual series of shakeups.

Princeton, member of the old Big Three, one of the cradles of the game, forsook a tradition as old as football, that only Princeton men coach Princeton teams, and went into the West to get H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, head football coach and athletic director at the University of Minnesota.

That probably was the most surprising coach transfer of the winter, but there were several almost as startling and as unexpected, including the resignation of John F. (Chick) Meehan at New York University, the selection of Dr. Clarence W. Spears as head coach at the University of Wisconsin, and the trolley jump of Ossie Solem from Drake to University of Iowa.

Bierman Goes Back Home.

Bernie Bierman, homesick for the crisp air of northern winters, was the first to move, leaving behind a winning record at Tulane to return to his Alma Mater, Minnesota, and take up the task Crisler laid down.

Other changes saw Capt. Lawrence M. (Biff) Jones, assigned by the Army to attempt a football renaissance at Louisiana State and taking Burt Ingwersen, resigned Iowa coach, along as his assistant; the appointment of Howard Cann, Violet graduate and basket ball coach, to succeed Meehan as N. Y. U. football mentor; Meehan signing at little Manhattan College, the forced resignation of Bill Amos at Washington and Jefferson and that of Russ Cohen at Louisiana State, the departures of John Law from Manhattan, Glenn Thistlewaite and George Little from Wisconsin and Ad Lindsey from the University of Oklahoma.

Earl Martineau resigned as track coach and back-field mentor at Purdue to follow Crisler to Princeton, and Elton E. (Tad) Wieman will help Fritz mold the Tiger line as he helped with the Gopher forward wall at Minneapolis. Little signed with Rutgers as head coach and athletic director.

Solem took Bill Boelter, his backfield coach, with him to Iowa, and E. W. Nelson went to Louisana State from Iowa with Ingwersen.

Some of the replacements have been as surprising as the changes. Drake went to South High School, Minneapolis, to get Evan O. (Bill) Williams. Leroy P. (Hank) Day, for sixteen years coach of Washington (Pa.) High School, moved over to the W. and J. campus to replace Amos.

High School Coaches Get Jobs.

In picking high school coaches Drake and W. and J. may be recalling the case of Illinois, which went to Oak Park High, Chicago, to get Bob Zuppke and has never regretted it.

The reasons for the shifts are as far apart as many of the schools.

Bierman was homesick; Princeton was sick of old systems which failed to win games; New York University wanted to deemphasize its athletic program; Manhattan wanted to emphasize its program; Louisiana State, spurred and booted by Senator (then governor) Huey P. Long, wanted football success and wanted it quick; Dr. Spears was reported to have opposed a possible merger of his school and the Oregon Agricultural College.

Notre Dame, trying to recover from the shock of Knute Rockne's death, solved an embarrassing situation by letting Jack Chevigny, back field coach, resign, leaving Heartly (Hunk) Anderson as the head man. Reports were that Anderson and Chevigny didn't see eye to eye on football strategy and authority.

Marty Brill, great blocking back of Rockne's last team, moved from Columbia University to De La Salle in Philadelphia, and Lou Little, Lion head coach, let another of his assistants, Herb Kopf, go to Union College at Schenectady as head football coach.

Nusslein, German Ace, To Play at Wardman

One of the greatest netmen developed in the last ten years, Hans Nusslein, the 20-year-old German pro, will be one of the feature performers in Washington's first professional tennis tournament, to be staged at Wardman Park Hotel April 22, 23 and 24.

Nusslein sprang into prominence last winter when Tilden uncovered him in Munich and signed him with Tilden Tennis Tours. At the age of 18 Nusslein won the European professional singles, but the victory was hollow because of the absence of both Karl Kozeluh and Albert Burke.

Subsequently Nusslein beat Kozeluh in four sets, Hunter in straight sets and thrice has carried Tilden to five sets before yielding. His game is fashioned after the two French masters, Cochet and Lacoste. His Wardman appearance will be his first performances in the East, having gone directly to Florida upon arrival in the United States in January.

Kremer Hopes to Last Eight Years in Majors

San Francisco, April 7 (A.P.).—Ray Kremer, veteran hurler of the Pittsburgh Pirates, expects to confound critics who have predicted he is "about through" with another eight years in the big show.

The big right-hander, now 36, reported at the Pirates' Paso Robles, Calif., training camp, to get ready for his eighth season with the club in better condition than for several years past.

During last season he weighed 216 pounds, but training and dieting through the winter reduced his bulk to 185 pounds. His mound work this spring has been impressive. Observers say he is far more agile than he was in 1931.

OXON HILL HIGH HOST.

Maryland Park High and Oxon Hill High, Prince Georges County rivals, will mix on the baseball diamond this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the field of the latter team.

BURROUGHS VS. SANICO.

The Burroughs A. C. plays Sanico Sunday at 1 p. m. on the diamond at Eighteenth and Otis streets north east. All Burroughs players are requested to report at 12:30.

PALE DRYS TO PLAY.

An important meeting of the National Pale Drys will be held Saturday night at 8 o'clock at 140 Eleventh street southeast. Sunday the team meets the Clarendon Midgets at 3 p. m.

REDUCE CHARGE AT GATE.

Stockton, Calif. (A.P.).—The Central California Baseball League of amateurs have decided to charge 25 cents for admission to games this season. The new rate slashes the cost of tickets in 1931 by one-half.

Virginia Netmen Beat Country Club Team

Richmond, Va., April 7 (A.P.).—The University of Virginia Tennis Team defeated the Country Club of Virginia netmen 4 to 3 here today. Two matches were unfinished on account of darkness.

The summaries:

Singles: Miller (CC), defeated Newell, 6—3, 6—3; Cabell (CC), defeated Dame, 6—8, 6—4, 6—4; Delafield (Va.), defeated Pollard, 6—2, 6—4; Hedges (Va.), defeated Smith, 6—0, 6—0; Lewis (CC), defeated Burnett, 0—6, 6—2, 7—5; Fletcher (Va.), defeated Shield, 6—1, 6—4.

Doubles: Miller and Cabell vs. Dame and Hedges, 9—11, 6—3, darkness; Dabney and Pollard vs. Newell and Delafield, 2—6, 9—7, 3—1, darkness; Burnett and Fletcher defeated Smith and Gill, 6—1, 6—2.

ARMY POLOISTS WIN.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Army's polo team went into the finals of the national intercollegiate indoor championship tonight by upsetting the strong Harvard trio, 11 to 4.

The Cadets took a three-goal handicap and then proceeded to run away with the game.

MERMEN ARE STARS.

Ridge, of Oklahoma A. & M., and Frank, of Washington University, won four firsts and lowered three conference marks in the 1932 Missouri Valley swim meet at St. Louis.

SENATORS BOOKING.

Games are wanted by the Senator midgets. Teams interested should call District 9159 or Lincoln 4956.

Old Boxers Tough

Ryan at 83 Hoists 200 Pounds One-Handed

Burlington, Iowa, April 7 (A.P.).—An 83-year-old former middleweight champion who still can "muscle-up" a 200-pound bar overhead with one hand thinks modern boxers are as clever as the old-timers but lack their stamina.

Tommy Ryan, who won his title in 1890 and retired at the age of 48, picks Jack Dempsey as the greatest fighter of all time, Gene Tunney as the smartest, and James J. Jeffries as possessor of the most all-around ability, punch and brains.

Ryan exercises rigorously to retain an appearance that belies his years, and recommends clean living and exercise to high school and college groups he visits on lecture tours.

Formerly a trainer for President Theodore Roosevelt, Ryan says the days he spent with "Teddy" on a trip to Arizona to inspect Roosevelt Dam were the happiest of his life.

ALEXANDRIA BEATEN BY EASTERN

Cleary, Lanahan and Phillips Stars in 4-1 Victory.

EASTERN HIGH'S baseball team got back on the winning bandwagon yesterday with a 4-1 victory over Alexandria, scored on the field at Eastern High in a well-played game marked by good pitching.

Francis Cleary and Dick Lanahan held the visiting crew to three hits, with Cleary gaining credit for the victory by virtue of laboring for the first seven innings. The big bat of big Bernie Phillips put Eastern across the wire an easy winner. Phillips flayed the ball for two hits in two times at bat, one of the blows being a home run.

Hudson held Eastern to seven bingles otherwise, but two of these went for triples, propelled by Carly Mills and Miller. Batting rallies in the second and sixth inning were responsible for Eastern's tallies. Alexandria did not score until the ninth inning.

Cleary turned in his best pitching job of the year for Eastern. The former Gonzagan had a shutout in his grasp until Coach Chuck Guyon removed him in favor of Dick Lanahan in the eighth.

MAPLE LEAFS WIN.

Boston, April 7 (U.P.).—The Toronto Maple Leafs overwhelmed the New York Rangers, 6 to 2, at the Boston Garden tonight in the second game of their world hockey series for the Stanley Cup.

Tonight's victory virtually clinches the cup for Toronto, as the Leafs had beaten New York in their first game Tuesday night at New York. The Rangers now must win three straight games to take the series. The best three out of five games determines the winner.

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

Newark Bears defeated the Boston Red Sox today, 7 to 6, in the final of a six-game exhibition series. Newark won only one other game, the first.

Johnny Neun and Andy Cohen marked up three hits each for the Bears while Dixie Walker, Newark's center fielder, drove in four runs with a homer and a single. There were five double plays in the game.

Springfield, Ill., April 7 (A.P.).—Bunching four of their seven hits with an error to score all of their runs in the sixth inning, the New York Giants defeated the Detroit Tigers, 5-4, today.

Ethan Allen featured the sixth inning attack with a home run off Vic Sorrell. His hit was followed by successive doubles by Moore and Hogan and a single by Terry.

Bill Walker was pounded hard in the early innings and was finally driven from the mound in the seventh. Herman Bell shut the Tigers out in the last two frames.

Boston, April 7 (A.P.).—The Boston Braves, President Emil Fuchs said today, will number their players for the coming National League Baseball campaign.

Although the American League teams numbered their players last season to enable spectators to identify the men more readily, the Braves are the first and only National League team to adopt the idea.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 7 (A.P.).—The Indians, of the American Association, defeated the National League Reds, of Cincinnati, 8 to 2, this afternoon.

The Indians, playing a dashing game, took the lead in the first innings and never let go. Si Johnson, pitching for the Reds, weakened in the eighth and the Indians ran in four tallies. His fielding support was poor.

Nashville, Tenn., April 7 (U.P.).—The St. Louis Browns ran up to 16 runs on the Nashville Club in their final spring training trip game here this afternoon but only six of the runs counted. The game was called on account of rain after the Browns half of the sixth inning, nullifying the grand barrage of base hits, the best scoring punch the St. Louis team has shown this spring. The score at the end of the fifth inning was 4—4, with the Browns leading. The final score:

THOSE THREE-CENT STAMPS.

MORE expense! Postage stamps are going up. Under the tax bill as passed by the House it will cost you 3 cents to mail a letter.

* * * * *

This will cut a lot of folks off from all communication. Many a man who doesn't mind spending 2 cents to get in touch with his relatives will question whether they're worth 3.

* * * * *

Funny about postage stamps. When the country gets in a jam it jacks up the price, but in boom times you never hear a Congressman demanding that they be sold for less than the normal rate.

* * * * *

The theory is that the public won't feel the added expense, but in these days a penny is a penny and a lot of letters will go unanswered for the next two years.

* * * * *

If mother doesn't hear from you very often from now on we hope she will realize you love her in the same old way but that you're just being economical.

* * * * *

If the wife, away on a vacation, fails to drop you a line, let's trust you will know she thinks of you all the time, but is making every penny count.

* * * * *

And if the children at college don't communicate with you at all, we assume you'll realize that the young people have to watch every cent these days.

* * * * *

All things considered, the higher postage rates should bring about some desirable benefits. For one thing, the dentist will have to stop and figure whether all those dunning letters are not running into more money than you owe him.

* * * * *

This goes, too, for all those collection agencies that are still trying to make you catch up with your 1929 purchases.

* * * * *

ALREADY the real thrifty inhabitants are going over their mailing lists and scratching off the people they wouldn't give another penny to communicate with.

* * * * *

"Aunt Minnie? Yes, I like her and I won't mind writing her once or twice a year if it does run me into an extra two or three cents," more than one economist is now saying. "But your Uncle Simeon? Nix on that old bottle-fly! I never considered him worth even the two-cent postage rate!"

JUST A PROSPECT.

The House has voted to free the people of the Philippines; and if it works out, something may be done toward freeing the people of the United States.

Add similes: Smaller than the trout in a State-stocked stream.

Ima Dodo says she had an uncle so mean that he died and left her all his railroad securities.

PASSING THE BUCK.

Possibly the idea behind the vote to restore freedom to the Philippines is that it isn't fair in these trying times for a country to escape all the problems of self-government.

The trouble with the United States today is that too many people are determined to be pessimists no matter how much it hurts.

Mt. Pleasant Players Give 2 Dramas Tonight

Appearing for the first time in a public performance, members of the Mount Pleasant Players, dramatic organization of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, will present two one-act plays in Fishburn Hall, recreation center of the church, at 8:15 o'clock tonight. The plays are "The Valiant," by Hall and Middleton, under the direction of Dr. F. V. Rand, and "The Trysting Place," by Booth Tarkington, directed by Miss Wilda Kilbourn.

The casts include Charles Collingwood, Casson Crittenden, Gerald Brooks, Frederick Vechery, William Kilgore, Elroy Cross, William Powell, and the Misses Ethel Jane Pidgeon, Marion Rose, Verna Volz and Carolyn Sebastian.

22 Store Clerks Get Bequests.

St. Louis, April 7 (A.P.).—For twenty years Mrs. Gussie Grenner had told favorite sales clerks in downtown department stores "I'll remember you in my will." The clerks smiled at her pleasantry. Her will, filed in probate court yesterday, bequeathed $200 each to 22 clerks and $500 to another. The clerks were amazed and unbelieving when told of the bequests today.

Wall Street—and Beyond

Markets and Business in Review and Outlook

By Lawrence Sullivan

IT was a gala day for the economy movement when the Honorable Kenneth D. McKellar, of Tennessee, joined up recently.

On that day, or thereabouts, economy attained the dignity of a principle of government; for while others may have urged governmental retrenchment and efficiency in the most impressive terms—as, indeed, many had for some fifteen years—it is questionable whether any man in public life in America had to travel so far from both personal inclination and public conviction to join the ranks of those who would reduce the present staggering burden of Federal costs.

* * * *

SENATOR McKELLAR, the public records show, introduced in the Senate of the United States on December 9, 1931, sundry bills. All things considered, they called for appropriations of more than $700,000,000 from the Federal Treasury during the five-year period 1933-37. Better, he had achieved, by virtue of bills from his own hand during the single month of December, a distinction which never before had come to a member of the United States Congress. He had established a new all-time record for money bills introduced in one session by one member.

Placed end to end on a Republican adding machine, Senator McKellar's December money bills came out, on the basis of completed cost, at something more than $1,300,000,000 net, the tidiest sum of public funds which ever had rolled off the brain of a statesman during one session of Congress. Whereas the Nation formerly had dated modern fiscal history from the first billion-dollar Congress, in 1913, Senator McKellar had toiled assiduously upward and on to the heroic role of America's first billion-dollar Congressman.

It was a niche in history which, in all probability, no other senator—and certainly no member of the House—ever should achieve again.

* * * *

ONE of Senator McKellar's bills called for $200,000,000 to build a canal across Nicaragua, a project on which Army engineers had not yet reported adversely. Another called for $150,000,000 for new postoffices and sites. A third demanded the purchase of extensive Mississippi Valley spillway lands, at an estimated cost of $300,000,000. Yet another suggested $250,000,000 in additional pensions, bonuses, allowances or indemnities for the boys who gave their all at Camp Dix, N. J.

So ran the first few items of Senator McKellar's offerings of December 9, 1931—when, lo, a blinding flash of jagged lightning rent the political heavens and the biting winds of national economic distress began at last to penetrate the placid, cozy and otherwise imperturbable caverns of Capitol Hill.

Long before the storm of public indignation had attained half its present irresistible fury Senator McKellar was on his feet to offer a motion to recommit the 1933 appropriation bills of the Departments of State, Justice, Commerce and Labor, with an unequivocal mandate to the appropriations committee to reduce by 10 per cent the amount authorized in the House bill.

* * * *

THE fact is, of course, that no departmental appropriation bill can be slashed blindly by 10 per cent in the Senate committee without extravagant impairment of administrative functions, particularly after the estimates have been trimmed in the Budget Bureau and again in the House.

But that, obviously, is not a problem for Senator McKellar. On the other hand, the signs of the times are clearly before his soft and kindly eyes; and since they point with alarming clarity to the political wisdom of economy it is but good sense that he abandon reason as quickly as inclination and conviction.

For is it not a axiomatic in American politics that when one joins a movement purely as an act of political expediency one needs not only to join, but, under the red, white and blue, now and forever, united we stand, shoot if you must, and fifty-four-forty or fight—he must lead?

* * * *

PERHAPS there is, then a real explanation for the fact that the State of Tennessee is bankrupt today; that its bond issue floated last week was at 6 per cent; that State Comptroller Roy Wallace announced in Nashville on Tuesday he would have no money with which to meet the public pay roll during the next four months.

True, statesmanship always is statesmanship. But in the end somebody has to pay the bill.

COTTON AGAIN LOSES ON SELLING SESSION

May Contracts Ease Off to 5.92; Liverpool Also Reports Liquidation.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—A continuation of the recent selling movement was reflected by a further moderate decline in cotton today. An early setback of 8 to 10 points carried the market into new low ground for the life of the present contracts. May deliveries sold off to 5.92, or 10 points net lower and 4 points below the previous low record of 5.96 touched last October. This price seemed to attract a little more covering or trade buying, however, and there were slight rallies in the late trading. The close was steady at net declines of 1 to 8 points.

The lowest levels of the day were reached in the late trading, when October sold off to 6.35, or about 12½ points below the high price reached on the February advance. The closing rallies of about 3 to 8 points from the lowest were attributed to increased covering and trade buying.

The spot interests reported a continued steady basis in the South.

Liverpool cables reported continental and Japanese selling, and said the cloth market in Manchester was unsettled with buyers cautious.

Exports today were 23,212 bales, making 7,065,914 bales so far this season.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—March gross sales of nineteen reporting chain store organizations, exclusive of restaurants and mail order houses, totaled $88,077,067, compared with $91,864,542 in March, 1931, a decrease of 4.1 per cent.

Nine of the reporting companies reported increases in March over a year ago.

For the first three months the aggregate sales of these chains showed a decrease of 5.9 per cent, as compared with the 1931 period.

INSULL SEES YOUNG ON UTILITY AFFAIRS

Wall Street Reports Move to Reorganize Group; Notes Due June 1.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Samuel Insull, of Chicago, head of one of the country's leading public utility systems, came to Wall street today to confer with his old friend, Owen D. Young, on the financial problems facing his companies.

After a conference with Mr. Young, who is chairman of the board of the General Electric Co., Mr. Insull declined to discuss his plans, but intimated that he would remain in New York for a few days and might issue a statement later. It was rumored in Wall street that both Mr. Young and Mr. Insull discussed the matter with bankers later in the day, but no definite information was available.

Mr. Insull's trip to New York followed banking conferences in Chicago, at which a reorganization of Middle West Utilities Corporation, one of the principal Insull holding companies, was discussed. The chief problem facing the Insull group is a $10,000,000 note issue by Middle West Utilities which comes due June 1. It was understood in Wall street, however, that conversations involved a broad plan of reorganization to take care of other substantial loans, maturing later in the year.

Unusually well informed quarters in the financial district understood that no definite plan had been worked out as yet. Rumors of plans of selling part of the Insull properties to Eastern utility groups, particularly the Morgan group dominated by United Corporation, were described as premature.

Money Circulation Gains First Time Since January

Federal Reserve Bank's Outstanding Credit Rises During Week to $1,600,000,000; Holdings of Discounted Bills Drop $7,000,000.

(Associated Press.)

The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank Credit outstanding during the week ending April 6 was reported yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board as $1,600,000,000, an increase of $1,000,000 over the preceding week but a decline of $598,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1931.

On April 6 total Reserve Bank credit amounted to $1,599,000,000, an increase of $12,000,000 for the week. This gain corresponds with increases of $19,000,000 in money in circulation and $31,000,000 in member banks reserve balances. It was offset in part by increases of $8,000,000 in monetary gold stock and $26,000,000 in Treasury currency, adjusted, and a decrease of $5,000,000 in unexpended capital funds and nonmember deposits.

Holdings of discounted bills declined $7,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, but increased $9,000,000 at Cleveland, $4,000,000 at Chicago and $2,000,000 for all Federal Reserve Banks combined. The system's holdings of bills bought in open market declined $8,000,000 and of United States bonds $9,000,000. Holdings of Treasury certificates and bills increased $22,000,000.

Gold to France.

French francs climbed to a new 1932 high today, and engagements were made for shipments of gold to Paris on liners leaving tomorrow. Bankers arranged to ship $7,000,000 on exchange transactions, but it was expected the total might be larger by sailing time.

Strength of the Dutch guilder, which also made a new top, suggested some metal might also be taken by Holland.

France has taken no gold since early last month, when exports amounted to $37,500,000, most of which came from earmark. The Bank of France in March increased its fee for handling gold, and the steamship companies raised their transportation charges. These steps automatically increased the gold export point, and shipments were halted.

Today, however, the franc sold well above the new outgoing gold level of about 3.944 cents, cables closing at 3.94⅛.

Sterling was heavy, apparently on profit-taking. Pound cables finished at $3.77¼, off 3⅝ cents.

An increase of $1,399,700 in gold under earmark for foreign account reduced the country's gold stock that amount and was the only transaction reported in the metal today.

Circulation Increases.

The weekly statement of the Federal Reserve banks reflected month-end operations, but revealed that the central banks were continuing their Government security purchases, having added more than $13,000,000 of these issues to their portfolio. Bankers attributed the $19,000,000 rise in circulation to seasonal influences coincident with the turn in the month. Reserve Bank credit expanded $12,000,000.

Loans to Brokers.

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending April 6 were $516,000,000, a decrease of $9,000,000 as compared to the preceding week.

Brokers' loans for the week ending April 8, 1931, were $1,822,000,000.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

| | Thurs. | Wed. |
|---|---|---|
| Number of advances.. | 144 | 96 |
| Number of declines... | 279 | 450 |
| Stock unchanged .... | 194 | 191 |
| Total issues traded.... | 717 | 717 |

Stocks.

Utilities bore the brunt of the selling pressure but the general list showed a slightly better undertone. Steel closed a point above Wednesday's record low, but the 90-stock average was down again, to $61.40, compared with $70 a month ago.

Bonds.

Corporate bonds sagged to new lows, but the buoyancy of the United States Governments tended to keep the market on an even keel.

Curb.

The curb trade was wobbly, with notable soft spots throughout the list.

Wheat.

Early upturns were stubbornly resisted, but the close was almost a cent higher, on reports of severe drought damage in the Southwest.

Cotton.

May contracts sold at 5.92 cents a pound, a new low for the season, but rallied to close about unchanged.

STOCKS SINK LOWER FOR SEVENTH TIME

Bonds Also Touch Bottom, Federal Issues Excepted; Selling Hits Curb.

By JOHN L. COOLIDGE.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Although shorts did some purchasing in the early and late trading, today's stock market was unable to find incentive for a real rally, and prices, as measured by the averages, closed lower for the seventh successive session.

Weakness in utilities and a number of specialties, chiefly merchandising issues, and a feeble market for many preferred shares, provided familiar aspects of the current decline. Rails, however, experienced some relief from pressure and several industrials were steadier. A rally in the last half hour reduced most losses of 1 to 4 points and gave a few leaders small net advances. Sales totaled 1,794,217 shares.

Covering after the opening may have been caused in part by overnight disclosure that the short position, even after allowance had been made for hedging sales in Kreuger & Toll, was enabling the market to maintain a relatively strong technical position which would be helpful later on.

Late Rally Develops.

But the recurrence of utility selling and absence of outside support for investment favorites, coupled with expectations that both the unfilled tonnage statement of United States Steel and the March sales figures of General Motors, soon to appear, would be discouraging commentaries on business, brought a let-down which went unrelieved until another moderate technical rally developed in the last half hour.

American Can weakened early, breaking to 52⅛, the lowest since 1927 and making only partial recovery for a 2-point net loss.

United States Steel went to 34½, a new low but came back to 35¾, closing nearly a point higher.

American Telephone did not break yesterday's minimum and gained 1⅝ net.

Public Service of New Jersey, Peoples Gas, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas of New York and Detroit Edison were down 1 to more than 3 at the lowest. Electric Power & Light 7 per cent preferred broke 6, Columbia Gas preferred 9, American Sugar preferred 4 and Union Pacific preferred 7¼.

The rails moved narrowly, although there was a late 1-point sag in Canadian Pacific.

Prospects of an immediate adjournment of the four-power conference on southeastern Europe's economic problems caused some uneasiness here, for Danubian affairs have been regarded as in a rather critical state.

Strength of French francs against the dollar, forecasting gold shipments to Paris just as the Bank of France was reporting a small decrease in gold holdings was another interesting development with a foreign angle.

Bonds on Even Keel.

Buoyancy of United States Government issues, several of which ascended to new high levels for the year, kept the bond market on a somewhat more even keel, although corporate loans sagged generally throughout the session.

Trading in the Federals was unusually active and at no time did any of the Liberties or Treasuries show even a fractional loss. New 1932 tops were recorded by all three of the Liberty bonds and the Treasury 4¼s. Several of the Treasuries gained a point or more.

On the other hand, the railroads, utilities and industrials continued to slip, although their average declines were a trifle less than yesterday's. Losses of 1 to 3 or more points were common in the various corporate classifications. Sales totaled 11,627,000, par value.

Utilities Dominate Curb.

The curb market had to endure another wave of selling in the utilities, but the list showed some signs of stiffening in the late trading.

The trade volume continued to swell, with the day's turnover reaching 350,000 shares, duplicating the turnover of February 13, and with that exception the largest since early January.

The Insull stocks showed a little better tone, with the arrival in New York of Samuel Insull to confer on financing plans. Commonwealth Edison dropped 2 points to another bottom, at 73½, but Middle West Utilities closed at ⅝, up ⅛, after having touched ¾.

Electric Bond and Share also acted better. It rose to 11¾, and closed at 10⅝, off only ⅛. American Gas and Electric closed ½ point higher at 21¼, on report of earnings for the 12 months ended February 29 of $3.34 a share.

SEABOARD UTILITIES GAIN NET $2,088,304

Earnings Total $15,851,821, Increase Over 1930, as Savings Are Made.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The annual report of Seaboard Public Service Co., made public from its headquarters at Alexandria, Va., yesterday, shows gross operating revenues for 1931 totaled $15,851,821, as compared with $14,942,670 in 1930. Net income was $2,088,304, as contrasted with $2,068,501 and total electric output in 1931 amounted to 410,480,631 kilowatt hours, as against 359,319,172 kilowatt hours in the previous year.

President A. W. Higgins, in a letter to the stockholders, stated the year 1931 was marked by continued expansion and development of the company's business. New properties were acquired by the subsidiary companies, of local interest being the acquisition by Virginia Public Service Co. of control of the Harpers Ferry Electric Light & Power and Potomac Valley Power Cos. as well as the physical assets of Shenandoah River Power, Valley Light & Power, Glenville Electric and East Rainelle Light & Power Cos. operating in the Virginias.

Eastern Shore Public Service Co. also acquired all preferred and common stock of Maryland Light & Power Co., formerly part of the Empire Public Service System and the physical property formerly owned by that system in the Virginia and Delaware sections of the Delmarva peninsula.

President Higgins reported that in certain respects the operations of the subsidiaries have naturally been affected by the general business depression, but this condition has been less severe in the small and medium-sized communities served by the company's system than has been the case in larger centers of population. Sales continued to increase and, at the same time, cost of service has been steadily lowered.

Substantial improvements were made to plants and other equipment throughout the system in order to meet present and future demands. In 1931, subsidiaries set aside from income $813,025 for retirement appropriation and $1,073,773 was expended for maintenance, making a total of $1,829,798 for retirement and maintenance.

Important operating economies were put into effect, further strengthening the position of the securities of the company and its subsidiaries.

RUBBER INDUSTRIES PLAN TRADE UNITY

Efforts Will Be Made to Stir Business Activity as Sales Decline.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Leading interests in the American Tire and Rubber industry were today studying plans for unifying the efforts of the industry to fight off present business stagnation without at the same time running foul of the Sherman antitrust act.

Rumored plans of tire manufacturers to designate one man to act as a "czar" for the industry were confirmed today when it became known that George T. Bishop, president of the Continental Shares Corporation, had been proposed as the head of the movement in case legal counsel can find a way clear for the industry to go ahead. Coordination of sales efforts would be one of his tasks.

Tire sales have fallen off sharply in the past two years, but production has continued close to its 1929 levels. Shipments in January were 13.1 per cent below January, 1931. Shipments for the entire year 1931 were 6.7 per cent under the 1930 level and 27.9 per cent below the 1929 figures.

Thirty-two companies, including the leading tire manufacturers, were said today to be interested in the present plan for a one-man control. The proposed office of dictator of the industry, it was said, would vest the man chosen with much the same powers as those given to Will Hays in the motion picture business and Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis in the professional baseball field.

Grain Prices Rally On Crop Reports

Half Wheat Yield Expected in Texas; Corn and Oats Sell Off.

Chicago, April 7 (A.P.).—Despite widespread belief that houses with Farm Board connections were selling on price bulges in wheat, grain markets went upward anew today.

Crop reports from the Southwest and West proved increasingly bullish, and one authoritative unofficial estimate put the Texas Panhandle 1932 probable wheat harvest at no more than 50 per cent of last year's total. There were also Winnipeg reports that 10,000,000 acres in Canada showed deficiency of subsoil moisture.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅝ to ⅞ cent above yesterday's finish; corn ½ to ¼ cent off to a shade advance, and oats ¼ cent down to ⅛ cent up.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF the Supervising Architect, Washington, D. C., April 2, 1932.—Sealed bids in duplicate, subject to the conditions contained herein, will be publicly opened in this office at 3 p. m., MAY 16, 1932, for furnishing all labor and materials and performing all work for the installation of passenger elevators, book truck lift and electric dumbwaiters) of the U. S. Department of Labor Building, Interstate Commerce Commission Building and Connecting Corridor, Labor-Interstate Commerce Commission Buildings at Washington, D. C. The prevailing rate of wage shall be paid all laborers and mechanics employed on the project as provided in the Act of March 3, 1931 (Public No. 798). Not exceeding 4 sets of drawings and specifications will be furnished to the prospective bidders upon application therefor, when such application is accompanied by a deposit of $100 for each set to insure its return. Checks offered as deposits must be made payable to the order of the Treasurer of the United States. Cash deposits will not be acceptable. Each bid must be accompanied by a statement of facts in detail of the business and technical organization of the bidder available for the contemplated work, including financial resources and building experience, and no consideration will be given to a bid which is not accompanied by said statement. The right is reserved to reject any bid where an investigation or the evidence submitted by such bidder does not satisfy the contracting officer that such bidder is qualified to carry out properly the terms of the contract. In awarding a contract, consideration will not be given to bidders who have not constructed within the last six years at least one building comparable with the project for which the bid is submitted. The successful bidder will be required to furnish a performance bond of at least 50 per cent of the contract price. JAS. A. WETMORE, Acting Supervising Architect. 6.8.11

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

NATURE has produced marvelous electricians in both the plant and animal worlds. Among flowers, the common nasturtium produces a small current, likewise the iris and the nicotiana, although their electrical powers can be detected only with a galvanometer.

Fish produce electrical current by means of a transformation of their skin or muscles. The torpedo and electric star-gazer have these organs on either side of the head just behind the ears. The electric catfish, of Africa, one of nature's most powerful living dynamos, has a battery enveloping its whole body between the skin and the muscles.

If you are looking for a real living power plant you might try mounting a mule and wading about the waters of the Orinoco and Amazon Rivers of South America, but don't be surprised if the mule suddenly collapses beneath you and drowns in the river, leaving you at the mercy of 10-foot, writhing, eel-like batteries. These are electric eels, not really eels but elongated fishes, equipped with batteries extending along both sides of the tail, which is four-fifths the length of the entire body.

The electric eel produces a 500-volt shock, touching its victim with its tail and head so as to form a circuit. They relish live food, but first paralyze small fish before gobbling them up. Repeated shocks will cause heart failure.

These eels could keep an electric train going for two minutes . . . if 10,000 of them were used. After 24 hours they would have recuperated their powers sufficiently to move the train for two minutes more.

Any reader wanting further proof of anything depicted here should address the author, care of The Washington Post and inclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply.
JOHN HIX.

SEABOARD UTILITIES GAIN NET $2,088,304

Earnings Total $15,851,821, Increase Over 1930, as Savings Are Made.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The annual report of Seaboard Public Service Co., made public from its headquarters at Alexandria, Va., yesterday, shows gross operating revenues for 1931 totaled $15,851,821, as compared with $14,942,670 in 1930. Net income was $2,088,304, as contrasted with $2,068,501 and total electric output in 1931 amounted to 410,480,631 kilowatt hours, as against 359,319,172 kilowatt hours in the previous year.

President A. W. Higgins, in a letter to the stockholders, stated the year 1931 was marked by continued expansion and development of the company's business. New properties were acquired by the subsidiary companies, of local interest being the acquisition by Virginia Public Service Co. of control of the Harpers Ferry Electric Light & Power and Potomac Valley Power Cos. as well as the physical assets of Shenandoah River Power, Valley Light & Power, Glenville Electric and East Rainelle Light & Power Cos. operating in the Virginias.

Eastern Shore Public Service Co. also acquired all preferred and common stock of Maryland Light & Power Co., formerly part of the Empire Public Service System and the physical property formerly owned by that system in the Virginia and Delaware sections of the Delmarva peninsula.

President Higgins reported that in certain respects the operations of the subsidiaries have naturally been affected by the general business depression, but this condition has been less severe in the small and medium-sized communities served by the company's system than has been the case in larger centers of population. Sales continued to increase and, at the same time, cost of service has been steadily lowered.

Substantial improvements were made to plants and other equipment throughout the system in order to meet present and future demands. In 1931, subsidiaries set aside from income $813,025 for retirement appropriation and $1,073,773 was expended for maintenance, making a total of $1,829,798 for retirement and maintenance.

Important operating economies were put into effect, further strengthening the position of the securities of the company and its subsidiaries.

Efforts Will Be Made to Stir Business Activity as Sales Decline.

New York, April 7 (A.P.).—Leading interests in the American Tire and Rubber industry were today studying plans for unifying the efforts of the industry to fight off present business stagnation without at the same time running foul of the Sherman antitrust act.

Rumored plans of tire manufacturers to designate one man to act as a "czar" for the industry were confirmed today when it became known that George T. Bishop, president of the Continental Shares Corporation, had been proposed as the head of the movement in case legal counsel can find a way clear for the industry to go ahead. Coordination of sales efforts would be one of his tasks.

Tire sales have fallen off sharply in the past two years, but production has continued close to its 1929 levels. Shipments in January were 13.1 per cent below January, 1931. Shipments for the entire year 1931 were 6.7 per cent under the 1930 level and 27.9 per cent below the 1929 figures.

Thirty-two companies, including the leading tire manufacturers, were said today to be interested in the present plan for a one-man control. The proposed office of dictator of the industry, it was said, would vest the man chosen with much the same powers as those given to Will Hays in the motion picture business and Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis in the professional baseball field.

Grain Prices Rally On Crop Reports

Half Wheat Yield Expected in Texas; Corn and Oats Sell Off.

Chicago, April 7 (A.P.).—Despite widespread belief that houses with Farm Board connections were selling on price bulges in wheat, grain markets went upward anew today.

Crop reports from the Southwest and West proved increasingly bullish, and one authoritative unofficial estimate put the Texas Panhandle 1932 probable wheat harvest at no more than 50 per cent of last year's total. There were also Winnipeg reports that 10,000,000 acres in Canada showed deficiency of subsoil moisture.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅜ to ⅝ cent above yesterday's finish; corn ⅛ to ¼ cent off to a shade advance, and oats ¼ cent down to ⅛ cent up.

PUBLIC UTILITY BODY HIT BY HOUSE GROUP ON 'LACK OF ACTION'

Delay in Telephone Rate and School Fares Work Is Criticized.

POLICIES ON REGULATION OF TAXICABS IS SCORED

Patrick Is Made Target in Attack by Blanton and Simmons.

Failure of the Public Utilities Commission to make any move to reduce telephone rates, tardiness in obtaining reduced fares for school children, and general policies in taxicab regulation, were assailed by the House District appropriations subcommittee, hearings made public yesterday by Chairman Clarence Cannon disclosed.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, was severely criticized on each of these scores by virtually every member of the committee.

Chairman Cannon pointed out there has been no reduction in telephone rates in the District since 1925, voicing his opinion that commission action to obtain them has been "long delayed."

Cites Revenue Gain.

"Since 1925 they have had a phenomenal increase in the amount of business which they have transacted, and naturally a corresponding increase in the net revenues of the company," Representative Cannon said.

Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride told of a conversation with a telephone official that led him to believe rate reductions were in prospect.

"I said that I had no doubt that the Public Utilities Commission at the proper time would require them to reduce their rates," said Mr. Bride. "He said, 'We expected to do that voluntarily; some time within the next two or three weeks you will have our report.'"

Assistant Corporation Counsel W. A. Roberts asserted that "the more telephones they have in operation the more expensive is the service," and Representative Cannon replied:

"That is like telling us there is an exception to the law of supply and demand."

Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, wanted to know why it was the commission took no action to reduce school fares; that Congress had to do it.

Blanton's Reply.

Gen. Patrick said street car companies had been approached by the commission and asked if they would oppose the commission's order if issued.

"You did not expect them to agree to that did you?" asked Representative Blanton. "This is the way we do things in Texas. When something ought to be done, we do it, whether the traction companies like it or not."

Gen. Patrick was attacked by Representative Blanton for his taxi meter order, and assailed by both Blanton and Representative Simmons (Republican), Nebraska, for permitting hotel and Union Station taxicab and sightseeing concessions.

"Congress is not going to stand for continually having the streets of this city turned over to a few people in order to make a profit out of the people who live here and who come here," said Representative Simmons. "That is what is being done and somebody ought to correct it."

Advertising Beam's Operator Arrested

Projecting a powerful beam of light which formed the words "Wet Parade" on the side of the Methodist building, First and Maryland avenue northeast, last night caused the arrest of Phil DeAngelis, who gave his address as the Willard Hotel. The same slogan advertising a motion picture, soon to appear at a local theater, was thrown against the dome of the Capitol and the Treasury Department Wednesday night and brought forth a wave of protest.

DeAngelis, in company with a group of publicity and theater men, was arrested by Lieut. Milton D. Smith, of the traffic bureau, following a series of complaints from residents of the community. DeAngelis was forced to post $10 to gain his freedom after being charged with displaying advertisements without a permit. He was warned not to repeat the offense again within the city limits of Washington.

Officials From District Attend Utility Parley

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission; William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, and People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech left Washington last night for New York to attend the National Conference of Progressives on Utility Regulation.

All three have been invited to read papers at the conference, which opens today and continues through tomorrow. Mr. Roberts will explain the novel petition just filed in the District Supreme Court asking that general valuation standards be set for public utilities, while Mr. Keech and Gen. Patrick will discuss problems relating to their respective offices.

Operetta to Be Given By Students Tonight

An operetta, in which the story of the seasons will be told in music, will be given at 8 o'clock tonight at Gordon Junior High School, Twenty-fifth and T streets northwest.

About 60 boys and girls, in the parts of bears, birds, elves, flowers, snowflakes and sunbeams, will be seen in the operetta which is entitled "At the Rainbow's Edge." The music is written in a two-part harmony for school voices.

COMMITTEE PLANS ALUMNAE DANCE

MEMORIAL BRIDGE FUND STRICKEN OUT

$840,000 for Completion of Project Taken From Bill in House.

The House yesterday struck from the independent offices supply bill the entire appropriation of $840,000 for completion of the Arlington Memorial Bridge project.

The slash was in addition to $160,000 already cut from the bill in committee, for construction of the Lee highway connecting span of the bridge. Improvements now under way on Columbia Island will be brought to a standstill as a result of the action.

Two Virginia representatives, Howard W. Smith and Schuyler Otis Bland, Democrats, opposed the motion offered by Representative John Taber (Republican), New York. Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, also of Virginia, chairman of the independent offices appropriations subcommittee, said he thought the item cut as much as it should be in committee, but did not oppose the motion.

Cost of the Arlington Memorial Bridge project was originally estimated at $14,750,000. Of this, $12,000,000 already has been appropriated. Uncompleted work included development of a plaza on Columbia Island, filling, grading and landscape work on the island, decorative statuary, a memorial avenue into Arlington Cemetery, a monumental entrance to the cemetery and the widening of Constitution avenue and Twenty-third street northwest.

An effort was made to strike the $199,940 Bureau of Efficiency appropriation by Representative William H. Stafford (Republican), of Wisconsin. His motion failed by a vote of 18 to 35. A motion was then offered to cut $100,000 from the appropriation. It lost by a smaller margin.

Under civil service appropriations the House voted to strike $39,000 provided for examination of presidential postoffice appointees.

President Hoover's $75,000 salary and the $15,000 salary of Vice President Curtis were approved by the House. Altogether $429,380 was allowed the executive office for 1933, a reduction of $113,000 under the amount allowed for this year.

Two Men Are Arrested On Rum Sale Charge

Two men were arrested on liquor charges last night after a member of the vice squad allegedly made a "buy" from one of them. After obtaining this evidence, police said, R. E. Blick and C. D. Schamp raided the place at 1418 W street northwest, and confiscated eleven gallons of liquor.

Forest F. Duncan, 36 years old, of 3130 Fourteenth street northwest, was charged with sale and possession of liquor and Charles W. Parlsen, 37 years old, of 2215 Fourteenth street northwest, was charged with possession. Ten other persons in the place at the time of the raid were allowed to leave, police said.

Officials for Kite Contest Selected

Opening Meet to Be Held Tomorrow Afternoon in Anacostia Park.

Officials for the opening kite contest of the spring sponsored by the District of Columbia Aircraft League, to be held tomorrow in Anacostia Park, were announced yesterday as follows:

Judges for performance—Paul Edward Garber, curator of aeronautics of the Smithsonian Institution, and Dr. H. L. Dryden, of the Bureau of Standards. Judges for workmanship—P. A. Woodward, principal of Gordon Junior High School, and E. D. Reed, principal of Lenox Vocational School. Judges for artistic decoration—Mrs. Oliver O. Kuhn and Felix Mahoney.

The contest, open to all comers from Washington and surrounding counties of Virginia and Maryland, will begin at 2 p. m. and continue for three hours. The committee in charge has ruled that no kite will be judged after 5 o'clock.

Takoma Park Folk Fleeced By 'Con' Men

Three men who swindled a crowd of Takoma Park residents out of between $300 and $400 with a slick sales scheme and are then alleged to have fired at one of the victims when he chased the trio in an attempt to get his money back, were sought by District police last night.

The three confidence men set up their small stand at Carroll avenue about a block from the District line and began to call a crowd together. When about 100 had gathered one of the men produced some small boxes, carefully wrapped up, and asked who would offer a dollar for the article.

Someone made a purchase and the confidence man explained that he did not believe the article, a cigarette case, was worth that much. He returned the dollar and let the man keep the case. Others stepped up and "bought" cigarette cases and key rings on the same basis and in each case their money was returned.

Then some watches were brought out by the "salesmen." It was explained that the watches were worth only 50 cents but the crowd was asked if any one would like to give $5 a piece for them. The trio collected $5 bills as fast as they could take them in.

"Now, would you rather have the watches or would you like your money back?" the head salesman asked.

Voices from the crowd indicated that every one was satisfied with the purchase.

"Well, thanks for your attention," the head slicker said, as he and his companions began to pack their possessions. Before the crowd realized that there was to be no return of their money the three had entered two automobiles and started to drive away.

Fred Hannah and another Takoma Park resident, according to police, jumped on the running board of the last car and attempted to stop the driver, but he produced a pistol and they dropped off.

Lieut. J. H. Davis, of the Sixth Precinct, said that this man fired a shot at a citizen who attempted to pursue him into the District. A lookout was sent to Montgomery County and Washington police precincts for the two cars and three men.

HONORARY DEGREES VOTED TO 3 BY C. U.

De Martino, Pitamic, Irons to Be Honored in June; Society Approved.

Honorary degrees have been voted by the board of trustees of Catholic University to Ambassador Nobile Giacomo de Matino, of Italy; Minister Leonide Pitamic, of Jugoslavia, and W. C. Irons, of the Beaux Arts Institute, of New York. The degrees will be conferred in June. The two diplomats will receive a degree of doctor of laws, and Mr. Irons will receive the degree of master of science.

The trustees also have established a division of American church history, with the Rev. Dr. Peter Guilday as head. The purpose of the department will be to stimulate interest in American church history and to organize and direct research in this field.

The board also voted to organize a society of "Friends the the Catholic University of America," as suggested by Pope Pius in 1928. The aims of the society will be the education of the clergy and laity to the aims and needs of Catholic higher education. It also proposes to develop a constituency of Catholic laity interested in establishment of Catholic preeminence in culutral fields.

Two Thugs Beat Man After Taking His $35

Two men last night assaulted and robbed Benjamin N. Nolley, of 3004 K street southeast, of $35, he told Fourth Precinct police. He said he met the men, both colored, in the Southwest section and they lured him into Knox court southwest.

There they turned on him, beat him up and took $35 in cash, his driver's permit and some pictures from his pockets.

WARNING IS ISSUED ON GAS TAX EVASION

Violations Will Be Met With Strict Prosecution, Say Commissioners.

Gasoline hucksters were warned yesterday against any attempt to evade part of the motor fuel tax, in a formal statement issued by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of Corporation Counsel William W. Bride.

The order was partly provoked by discovery of such an evasion, it was revealed. The huckster in this particular case was permitted to pay the correct tax plus a stiff penalty, it was said. In future, however, persons attempting to evade the tax "will be prosecuted civilly and criminally to the fullest extent permitted by the law," it was announced.

Members of the Eastern gasoline tax evasion committee, who are in Washington to appear at a hearing before the Senate District committee to oppose the proposed increase in the local gasoline tax, met here yesterday, and reported a general improvement in the tax evasion situation throughout the East.

The committee, made up of chairmen of State committees of oil men, is conducting a campaign against gasoline tax evasion in Eastern States. States represented are North Carolina, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Tax evasion in Virginia, the committee reported, is expected to be greatly curtailed by a new gasoline tax law which is to become effective in that State July 1. The law will provide closer restrictions upon sales of gasoline.

As an experiment for 30 days, which is to be closely observed by State tax collecting officials, Pennsylvania and Ohio have reached an agreement to establish twelve ports of entry and exit on the border of the two States, where all shipments of gasoline between the States will be checked.

Complete cooperation from tax collecting officials in all the States represented was reported.

Lip-Reading Contest Is Set Here Tomorrow

A tri-State lip reading tournament will be held tomorrow at the Arts Club at 8 p. m., with teams from the Richmond, Baltimore and Washington Leagues for the Hard of Hearing competing for a silver cup offered by Miss Elizabeth Witherspoon, president of the Richmond league. Preceding the tournament the Washington league will entertain the visiting teams at dinner at the Parrot Tea Room.

The program will be greetings by Miss Florence P. Spofford, president of the Washington league; responses by representatives of the Baltimore and Richmond leagues; announcements by Miss Florence Woolley, the tournament, entertainment features while the judges are reaching their decision and report of judges and presentation of the trophy.

Woodson Quits As Head Of Capital Kiwanis Club

Resignation of Eugene R. Woodson as president of the Washington Kiwanis Club was announced at the weekly luncheon meeting of the organization yesterday at the Raleigh Hotel.

Edwin F. Hill, first vice president, revealed that Mr. Woodson had announced his withdrawal at a meeting of the board of directors Wednesday night. Upon motion of Jack Boobar the club voted to accept the resignation with regret. The board of trustees will set a date for election.

CHARGE OF FLIRTING IS DENIED BY HAURY AT FLOGGING TRIAL

Did Not Make Advances to Woman Before Attack, Union Chief Says.

ALSO DECLARES CLAIM OF STRIKING HER FALSE

Supervision Is Revealed as Cause of Difficulties in Labor Group.

Prosecution testimony in assault cases against four men and a woman in connection with the horsewhipping of Charles E. Haury, District supervisor of the International Union of Operating Engineers, was still being presented when District Supreme Court Justice James M. Proctor called for adjournment yesterday, and indications are that the case will continue into next week.

The five defendants in the case are Mrs. Ruth Stevens and Robert E. Stevens, Robert Ely, William I. Green and Charles B. Rockenbaugh. They are accused of attacking Haury at Tenth and K streets northwest, where the union offices are located, in March, 1931. In the assault he was horsewhipped and manhandled.

Denies Making Advances.

The local union supervisor under cross-examination by defense counsel yesterday denied that he told Mrs. Stevens she had no cause to worry over the failure of her husband to obtain work because she had a "good figure."

Difficulties in the union arose, it was brought out, over differences of opinion as to whether "supervision" was the desirable form of operation of the union here. Supervision, it was testified, was the chief source of annoyance to the union members accused of assaulting Haury.

As supervisor of the local, he was all powerful, it was testified, when it came to removing men from jobs or placing them in new positions. He encountered opposition from members who did not desire "supervision" which was a new thing in the union at the time Haury came here.

Holds Attack Charge False.

Defense contention that Haury struck Mrs. Stevens with a pair of gloves before she struck him with the horsewhip was stoutly denied by the union supervisor under cross-examination by Attorney James T. Crouch. He also denied that he refused to help Stevens in finding employment.

Literature was prepared for the defendants based upon the horsewhipping incident, William Adler, an engraver, testified. This testimony was introduced by the prosecution in an effort to show that a conspiracy existed between Mr. and Mrs. Stevens and the other defendants. Adler said he dealt with Ely and Green.

3 Youths Arrested By Liquor Agents

Boy, 18, Caught in Act of Delivering Whisky; Rum Store Is Seized.

Caught in the act of delivering and selling two pints of alleged whisky, Samuel M. Sacks, 18 1209 Holbrook place northeast, was arrested by members of the special investigation squad yesterday and charged with illegal possession, sale of intoxicating liquor and no District automobile operator's permit.

The special squad men, led by Sergt. Holmes, said they waited at 1207 Park road northwest for a delivery of two pints in the morning. They then procured a warrant to raid the alleged base of Sacks at 524 Kenyon street northwest. Previous investigation, they said, had apprised them of operations from the latter address.

When Sacks was again called to make a delivery of two pints of whisky in the afternoon, he was arrested and his automobile confiscated. The policemen then went to the Kenyon street address where Benjamin F. Power, 22, of 1537 Spring place, and Louis Berger, 22, of 637 Kenyon street northwest, were arrested on charges of illegal possession. One hundred and eighty-eight pints of alleged whisky, 19 bottles of purported beer and several bottles of alcohol were seized.

HELD IN BANK ROBBERY

JAMES H. MANSFIELD. HAROLD DUFFY.

COURT DUE TO GRANT VALUATION PETITION

Standardization of Utility Cases Is Expected to Be Result.

A novel precedent in standardization of public utility valuation cases will be set by the District Supreme Court if it grants the petition filed yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission in connection with its present valuation of four local utilities. Granting of the petition, which is expected, will simplify and accelerate the valuation work now under way and all future cases.

The petition, covering 310 printed pages, is in reality an amended brief, supplementary to a document filed several months ago. The commission asked for 57 separate instructions and reinforces each request with numerous citations from opinions of the various courts and decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Representing several months of intensive labor, the brief was prepared largely by William A. Roberts, special counsel of the commission, with the assistance of Roland J. Lehman. William W. Bride, as general counsel, supervised the task.

Valuations Under Way.

The commission has almost completed the valuations of the Capital Traction Co., the Wahington Railway & Electric Co., and the Washington Rapid Transit Co., but has only started on the Washington and the Georgetown Gas Light companies.

When this petition is granted, the commission expects to begin evaluating the properties of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. The first four companies are named defendants in the brief.

The prolonged and involved litigation that customarily accompanies utility valuation cases is expected to be eliminated through the court's action, and appeals from the findings of the commission hereafter are likely to be based merely on facts or questions of whether the utilities body followed the court's instructions.

Proposed Rate Base.

The commission does not intend to be bound by mechanical rules in arriving at a final value of a utility's property, however, but will exercise its judgment after fair consideration. Consideration must be given not only to the present value of the property but to original cost, the investment, and the cost of reproduction.

The rate base under the new procedure would include only property used and useful and must exclude abandoned property. Depreciation must be deducted from both the original cost and reproduction costs in ascertaining the final value.

A reasonable allowance would be made for working capital, but the element of good will and any "franchise value" must be eliminated from valuation. No specific allowance is to be made for the cost of financing, any favorable locations, or any contracts possessed by a utility.

Coal Price Inquiry Asked of Congress

Burroughs Citizens Group Declares Fuel Cost Is Too High in City.

Investigation by Congress of the price of hard coal was asked last night in a resolution adopted by the Burroughs Citizens Association at a meeting held in the John Burroughs School, Eighteenth and Monroe streets northeast.

The association said that the price of hard coal is still at the same high level that it was during the war and that pea coal is even higher. They also declared that the price of milk should be reduced. According to A. F. E. Scheer, former president of the association, New York concerns monopolize the Washington dairies and keep the price of milk high.

A resolution also was adopted to oppose the proposed site of a gas holder on Riggs road near the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks. Seven other citizens' associations in the vicinity also have opposed the erection of their gas holder.

TRIAL OF FOUR 'REDS' MEETS WITH DELAY

Defendants Wait All Day for Cases to Be Called; Will Face Charge Today.

Although they were kept waiting in Police Court all day, four "reds," charged with assault upon policemen in the demonstration in front of the Japanese Embassy two weeks ago, yesterday were told that their cases would not be reached until today.

The trials were originally scheduled for Wednesday, but because so many policemen were assigned to duty in the Army Day parade it was found necessary to postpone the hearings.

Those to be tried are Joan Hardy, Ivan Kostrow, James L. Kennedy and Albert Suskin. The trial of Suskin is the first on the calendar.

Acrid debate between Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keogh, for the Government, and Charles Ford, for the demonstrators, is certain to follow the defense efforts to introduce testimony by Walter Gellhorn, private secretary to Supreme Court Justice Harlan F. Stone.

Mr. Gellhorn has indicated that his testimony would be along the line that police had been too willing to mix their nightsticks with discretion. Just what bearing that testimony would have when individual cases of assault were charged is moot.

1,000 Are Present At Masonic Smoker

Lebanon Lodge, No. 7, Is Host in Entertainment at Mayflower.

More than 1,000 members and guests of Lebanon Lodge, No. 7, F. A. A. M., attended a smoker held at the Mayflower Hotel last night. Addresses by distinguished Masons and a part of the entertainment provided was broadcast over radio Station WJSV.

The chief speakers were Gratz B. Dunkum, past grand master of Masons, and Clyde B. Stovall, who also acted as toastmaster.

Distinguished guests included Commissioner Herbert Crosby, Reuben A. Bogley, grand master of Masons of the District of Columbia, and Herbert J. Hulce, past district deputy grand master of Virginia. Entertainment was furnished by the Edith Reed Concert Bureau. The program was under the direction of Elgin Smith, past grand master of the lodge.

Mrs. Katherine Garner Dies of Sudden Illness

Mrs. Katherine Garner, 45, of 200 Eleventh street southwest, died in Casualty Hospital late yesterday afternoon a short while after being brought to the institution. Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald ordered an autopsy today at the morgue.

Headquarters Detective Sergeant Ben Kuehling, after making an investigation, said that apparently no suspicious circumstances were involved in Mrs. Garner's death. Homicide squad members, however, will make a further inquiry.

Bus Depot Conferees Delay Protest Action

The joint Board of District Commissioners and the Public Utilities Commission yesterday considered the complaints of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church against the location of the Greyhound Bus Line terminal on the north side of New York avenue, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, but took no action.

The District heads will confer with Dr. Joseph Sizoo, pastor, and other officials of the church next Tuesday. The Utilities Commission gave the bus line permission to locate temporarily on the protested site after granting the church officials an audience.

POLICE SAY SOLDIER ADMITS ROBBERY OF BANK IN MARYLAND

Walter Reed Man Declares 2 Others Helped in Holdup of Trappe Institution.

BUT REFUSES TO NAME THEM IN $1,938 HAUL

Suspected Accomplices, Held Here, Silent; Picture of 1 Reported Identified.

Harold Duffy, 22-year-old soldier, stationed at Walter Reed Hospital, admitted in a signed statement, according to headquarters detectives, yesterday that he participated with two other men in the $1,938 robbery of a Trappe, Md., bank last Saturday.

The statement did not implicate James H. Mansfield, 23, another Walter Reed soldier, but detectives claimed that bank employes at Trappe identified the latter's picture as being one of the holdup men. Mansfield, turned over by military authorities with Duffy, refused to make a statement.

Third Man Arrested.

A third man, Cheney Burt, of Easton, was arrested Wednesday in Baltimore and is now in the Easton jail. Sheriff A. Raymond Carroll and several deputies will come to Washington today to take Duffy and Mansfield to Easton.

According to members of the holdup squad here, Duffy confessed leaving the hospital post last Friday, arriving in Trappe Saturday. With two other men he would not name, he said he rode around until the bank opened. All three men were armed, he said.

Loot Division Described.

While he and one of the men held the gun on the cashier of the bank, Duffy said, one of his companions scooped up the currency.

In Baltimore, Duffy said, the money was divided, he receiving about $400 as his share of the loot. Whether any of the money was recovered could not be learned last night.

Mansfield's home is said to be in Easton. Detective Sergeants Frank O. Brass, Larry O'Dea and Carlton Talley, of the holdup squad, handled the investigation of the case here.

Newspaper and Phone Business Link Cited

The close link between newspaper advertising and telephone communication as affecting merchants and other business men was stressed yesterday by John M. Shaw, general information manager of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., in an address before the Maryland Furniture, Carpet and Upholstery Association at the Southern Hotel in Baltimore.

Mr. Shaw said that a survey made from 3,500 newspaper advertisements aggegating 1,000,000 lines over a period of 13 week days showed that nearly 40 per cent of the advertisements made use of the telephone or gave the advertiar's telephone number.

River Bulletin.

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., April 7.—Potomac and Shenandoah rivers both very muddy this afternoon.

Club for Members Only, Police, Probing Row, Told

Halted at the threshold of a building in which an alleged crime had been reported, police of the First Precinct were forced to turn away yesterday without a chance to investigate, when, for the second time in less than six months, they were informed their persence was not wanted and they would not be allowed to enter, as the establishment was a "private club for members only."

Shortly before 6 o'clock the police radio broadcast an alarm that some one had been stabbed during an altercation on the second floor of 829 Fourteenth street northwest. The first policemen to reach the scene attempted to enter the building, only to find the door locked and a "For Rent" sign outside. As they stood for a moment deciding the next best move, the door opened and a man emerged. He walked quickly away, and the policemen, finding the door ajar, entered.

A second door, heavily barricaded, confronted them at the top of a flight of steps. In answer to their knocks, a small trap in the door was opened and a voice inquired the nature of their visit. When informed, the voice declared they could not come in and there was little use in "hanging around." The police left, having no evidence on which to force admittance.

Several months ago a similar incident occurred at an establishment at 722 Thirteenth street northwest.

Customer Almost Hampers Escape of 2 Store Thieves

A prospective customer of a delicatessaen store at 1457 Corcoran street northwest was almost knocked down last night as two men stampeded past him after holding up Albert Wulf, proprietor. The men escaped afoot on Corcoran street with $20 taken from the cash register.

Wulf, alone in the store, was scraping onions when the two colored men entered about 8:15 o'clock. He arose to wait on them, but one of the pair produced a nickel-plated revolver and ordered him to stand back. The other man walked over to the cash register and took the cash.

S. Simon, of 2807 Connecticut avenue, started into the store as the pair dashed out. They pushed him away and ran down Corcoran street. Mr. Simon was not aware of the holdup until Mr. Wulf explained the situation.

Oil Station Manager Robbed by Armed Pair

Entering a filling station at Thirtieth tand M streets northwest yesterday morning just after it had opened for business, two colored bandits held up at the point of a pistol and robbed Ray Childress, manager of the station, of about $28.

The robbers escaped on foot. Childress said they overlooked $12 in the pocket of his uniform. Detailed descriptions of the men were furnished to police and broadcast.
